Dr. Dyer Given Rousing Cheer by Churchmen

Some 250 members of the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church gathered at a "friendship" dinner in Gunsaulus Hall, the church recreational quarters, last night and when Prof. Earl R. Hedrick, the newly elected moderator, rose and exclaimed "Let's all of us who are for Dr. Dyer stand up," everybody jumped from their chairs and applauded.

Dr. Frank Crane, Frederick Warde, retired Shakespearean actor, and Dr. Frank Dyer, pastor of the church, spoke, but only the most veiled allusions were made to the factional controversy that has rocked the church membership recently and to the injunction obtained by anti-Dyer forces which restrains Dr. Dyer from taking up a church collection until the factional troubles are threshed out before Superior Court Judge McComb Friday.

Woman's Death Laid to Suicide

SANTA MONICA, Jan. 31.—Mrs. James H. Harney, 36 years of age, wife of a Santa Monica steamship agent, committed suicide by slashing her wrists and throat with a razor in the bathroom of her home, 2136 Hill street, Ocean Park, today, according to police. The husband found the body when he returned from his office tonight.

Mrs. Harney was a trained nurse and had worked in hospitals here. During the war she served as an Army nurse, and is said to have suffered a great deal from the effects of shell shock sustained when a hospital in which she was working was bombarded. The body is at the Mendenhall funeral parlors, here.

WANTED BAN ON DANCING IN 1710

Two hundred years ago, dancing, now such a popular amusement, was held in abhorrence by many of the "unco guid," yet in spite of this a weekly dancing assembly was started in Edinburgh in 1710, and continued to flourish for many years.

The dances were in the Assembly Close of the High street, where in a low-roofed, badly ventilated room the country dances and the minuet were performed with great ceremony, the music being supplied by a few fiddlers.

At first, those dancing parties met with much opposition from various sections of the community. Most of the ministers thundered denunciations from their pulpits, and on one occasion an infuriated crowd tried to break up the assembly, and actually perforated the door of the hall with red-hot irons.

The fashionable people who patronized the dances loudly proclaimed that dancing imparted a "genteel behavior," and was a healthful exercise. The profits from these assemblies were devoted to the poor, for whose benefit no organised charity existed in those days.

At the assembly a space in the center of the hall was railed off for the dancers, and the chaperons and spectators sat around the room outside this inclosure. As there was only sufficient floor space for one set to dance at a time, it was very unusual for any girl to dance more than once during the evening.

Instead of a master of ceremonies, there was a woman directress, who held undisputed sway over the assembly. She sat on a high chair at one end of the room and wore a gold medal hung around her neck, as the insignia of her office.

Oliver Goldsmith, who attended some of these assemblies in Edinburgh, wrote that "when a stranger enters the dancing hall, he sees one end of the room taken up with the ladies, who sit dismally in a group by themselves; on the other end their sprightly partners to be sure, but no more intercourse between the sexes than between two countries at war."—[Weekly Scotsman.

BRITISH IDEAS ON AMERICAN SLANG

Unless it be a New Jersey Rhodes scholar putting on his English accent for the benefit of the Englewood intellectuals, there is nothing in the world more painful than a British attempt to reproduce American slang.

The usually sophisticated Saturday Review has been guilty in the course of one of its weekly competitions of offering a prize for the best version of Mark Antony's funeral oration as it would be delivered by an American Mayor; and, to judge from the two winning efforts, Mr. Thompson would do well to turn his energies toward improving the Englishman's knowledge of this country.

The winning effort, particularly commended as "the wittiest and most essentially vulgar entry," contains the following felicities:

"Bru's white and clean. Beckon they're all 100 per cent cutey boys. See here, didn't ole Ju rake in the dole with them hoofers he treated hum right here; didn't he pass the sob stuff over to the down-unders; didn't he say 'No bid' three times when I passed him up the ill ole brass hat? Call that the big boost."

The second prize was awarded to a speech that is obviously intended to breathe the great spirit of the Far West, perhaps even of Chicago itself. "Pards," exclaims this cowboy Antony, "I'm not going to shoot off my mouth against Brutus and his fans; they're all white men, I guess. I'm here to let go some remarks on poor old Julius." The remarks close with this sentence: "Well, then, he's left you all $75 apiece, and donated his real estate to the city for a park and baseball ground."—[Living Age.

IMMIGRANT FIGHT ON

Bar for Mexicans Under Debate

Senate Committee Listens to California Union Chief Urging Restriction

Views of Organizations Will Oppose Check on Flow of Labor Over Border

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive) The bills to restrict Mexican immigration into the United States went before the Senate Immigration Committee today with Edward H. Vail, vice-president of the California Federation of Labor and secretary of the San Diego Labor and Trades Council, appearing in support of the Harris bill, which would put the Mexican and Central American countries under the workings of the 3 per cent quota act.

The committee met to hear only one witness and is expected to go further hearings until they can be confronted with hearings on the question to be conducted by the House Immigration Committee starting the 16th inst. and opponents on the 20th inst., giving each side a week. Scores of organizations and individuals on both sides have asked to testify, and a spirited contest is anticipated.

The tremendous interest aroused in the legislation in California was indicated today when C. C. Young, manager of the California State Legion, called Washington by wire from Ventura county, to urge Senator Johnson, chairman of the Senate Immigration Committee, that the legion will send representatives here and wants them heard. He was assured that the committee will hear them.

WARNING GIVEN

Senator Johnson of the House committee gave warning today that if labor organizations opposing the measure must consolidate their efforts and condense their arguments and statements so the House committee will have time to hear all the various groups.

Vail in his testimony asserted that California taxpayers are paying $2,000,000 a year all for the present unrestricted flow of Mexicans into that state in charity doles, hospitalization, penitentiary confinement and the like. Those who came across the border to work only to learn the high wage which dazzled them are unable for them to live on, and end up finally as public charges or as a career of crime, he declared.

The Mexican peons, he declared, are beating down the standards of the American workingman, and increasing poverty and disease wherever they go.

There would be no labor shortage if restrictions were imposed, he said, since there is a sufficient number of Mexican workers in California to supply all demands.

EMPORARY PROFITS

"This is true," Dowell said, that large corporations and fruit-growing associations may profit temporarily from hiring Mexican peons at low wages, the communities later have to make up for it in caring for Mexicans after their dreams of prosperity have vanished. They

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Feb. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] See in the paper this morning that there is some talk of Mr. Hoover's resigning from the Cabinet. Certainly would be too bad for we would only have to draft him back again in April and May to take care of the flood situation on the Mississippi. If he had charge of that relief work for a few years continuously, he could have that whole country trained so they would leave the South and move north for two months every year. They would only have to do this till the year 1950, when Congress would vote relief.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

ANASTASIA" GETS HELP

Supposed Daughter of Czar Taken Under Care of ex-Princess Xenia

Story of Escape from Red Murderers Revived and Mrs. Leeds Interested

[Copyright, 1928, by the Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—A mystery girl miraculously rescued from drowning at the hands of assassins is now sailing for America as the guest of Mr. Leeds, former Princess Xenia of Greece. She is known as Mrs. Von Tchaikovsky, but friends and relatives who are intrusting her to Mrs. Leeds are convinced that she is Grand Duchess Anastasia, daughter of murdered Czar.

A bitter battle has been waged for the past three years between those who assert she is the Grand Duchess and opponents who see her only as an impostor. Persecuted and homeless, she was taken to the Castle Seeon of Duke Leuchtenberg, grandson of the old Czar. Here former ladies-in-waiting of the Russian court, sent by Grand Duke Andreas, nursed her until her benumbed mind cleared.

Those who doubted the story of a Polish soldier who said he rescued the girl dying beside the slaughtered Romanoffs and fled with her to Rumania always pointed out her inability to speak Russian. Now, in the peace of the castle, her memory is coming back and she suddenly has begun speaking and writing both English and Russian and Duke Leuchtenberg writes enthusiastic letters to friends in Berlin.

DUKE IS CONVINCED

The Duke himself at first did not believe the tale of the escape, but he was convinced that the girl was of high Russian nobility, who was in distress, and therefore took her to his wife. Now he is convinced that she is Anastasia.

The son of Grand Duke Constantin Gawrill, who heads the Russian refugees in Berlin, now shares this belief. He sent flowers and good wishes for the new year, but the mystery girl shakes her head.

"It is too late—they distrusted me too long—we cannot be friends," she says.

Now that she has recovered her knowledge of Russian, she sang for Mrs. Leeds, who invited her at the request of Glem Bodkin. He is the son of the late Czar's doctor, who recognized the sick girl at the Castle Seeon as Anastasia, with whom he played as a child. His evidence corroborated that of Felix Dassel, officer in the Czar's guards, who was wounded in the war and spent months as a patient in the Tsarskoe Selo Hospital, run by Anastasia and her elder sister.

GIRL MEETS TEST

Before being confronted by the sick girl he wrote a report of his memories of Grand Duchess Anastasia. The report was intrusted to a notary public. Then Dassel was confronted by the alleged Anastasia.

His interview was witnessed by Vice-President Bornemann of a young German order, who formally stated that the girl recognized Dassel and that the interview convinced him that the girl was Anastasia, since all her memories of the hospital corresponded exactly with the report of Dassel intrusted to the notary public.

Friends of the alleged Anastasia hope her visit with Mrs. Leeds will clear up the last shadow of doubt and that, away from the atmosphere of intrigue in Europe, the girl will recover her memory entirely and win recognition.

Cowboy Comedian Urged for Nomination in Letter by ex-Oklahoma Governor

CLAREMORE (Okla.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Declaring that Will Rogers, Oklahoma cowboy comedian, is the best-known man in either political party and likening him in some respects to Abraham Lincoln, C. N. Haskell, former Governor of Oklahoma, joined the Democratic Central Committee of Rogers county in sponsoring Rogers for nomination for the President of the United States. He expressed his approval of Rogers and his choice by the Rogers county committee in a letter addressed to A. L. Kates of Claremore, Rogers's home town, who is chairman of the County Central Committee.

"Oklahoma Democrats are neglecting an unusual opportunity if they fail to appreciate the high character and ability of Will Rogers," the letter says. "He is the greatest available asset of the Democratic party and of our country.

"The mere fact that Rogers has a humorous way of expressing his good ideas does not indicate that he is simply a clown. Abraham Lincoln invariably expressed the soundest ideas always with a humorous illustration."

The codicil cuts off Charles with a bequest of $100.

HOOVER HELD QUICK CHOICE

Will be Nominated on First Ballot, Says Adams; California Backing Meets Favor

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—"Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, will be nominated on the first ballot at Kansas City," is the prediction made today by John T. Adams, former chairman of the Republican National Committee and one of the reliable leaders of the Republican party in his home State of Iowa. Adams made this statement today at the White House after he had visited President Coolidge. Adams was a very successful party manager and is a veteran leader and in the past his predictions have been verified by results. He added further that while Hoover forces will not seek instructed delegates in Iowa, more than half of the delegation will be for him from the start.

It also became certain today that Secretary Hoover will remain at his present post in President Coolidge's Cabinet and devote his entire time to his duties there. He has decided after consulting close friends that he will follow the same procedure that William Howard Taft did when he was Secretary of War. He was then in President Roosevelt's Cabinet and did not resign until ten days after he was nominated by the Republican national convention. Charles Evans Hughes who was the Republican candidate in 1916, was an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States and did not resign from that position until he had been notified officially that he had been nominated for the office of President.

Republican leaders today commented favorably on the action of the Republican representatives of California who last night unanimously indorsed the nomination and election of Hoover for the Republican choice.

Another evidence that Hoover is making rapid progress for the Republican nomination was indicated when friends of Senator Willis said that the Ohio favorite son has abandoned his idea of calling Secretary Hoover before the Senate Committee in charge of Mississippi River flood legislation. It was said that Willis has abandoned his intention of trying to put the Secretary of Commerce in an embarrassing position when he learned that Hoover would support the President's recommendation in all flood-control legislation.

Veteran Republican leaders in the Senate, in spite of the announcement made here last night in behalf of Former Gov. Lowden of Illinois that he would enter the Illinois primaries today, declared that Lowden will have less strength than he had in 1920 and that they firmly expect that he will eliminate himself from the race after the results in the primaries States are totaled. Opposition in Cook county, Illinois, dominated by Mayor Thompson of Chicago, will prevent Lowden from having a full delegation from his home State and with more than half the Iowa delegation for Hoover as indicated by Adams of Iowa is indicative that Lowden is losing in much of his territory, where in 1920 he was dominant.

In case the Lowden followers pur-

SACRE BLEU! PARIS TO BE SANS FILMS?

Theater Owners Decide to Close if Government Issues Restrictions

[Copyright, 1928, by New York Times]

PARIS, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Paris soon may become temporarily a capital without films if the owners of the cinema theaters carry out the threat they made at a meeting to day.

Anticipating an early decree by Minister Herriot requiring the exhibitors to show one French film for every seven or nine foreign ones, the owners held a special session of their mutual association and decided to close their theaters if and when the decree is published.

The reason for the action was not given, but it is presumed to be because the decree would necessitate the purchase of twice as many French motion pictures as now form a part of their programs.

Many theaters are bound up in block booking contracts with American companies. Still another factor is the fact that Parisian audiences prefer the average American picture to the usual run of French films. Past experience has shown that attendance fell off when the program was made up wholly or largely of French pictures.

Three Killed by Mine Gas Blast

HARTSHORNE (Okla.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Three miners were killed by a gas explosion in Mine No. 7 of the Rock Island Coal and Mining Company, one mile northeast of here, tonight.

Seventeen others, imprisoned by flames and fumes, made their escape through a side entry without injury.

The dead were Frank Russell and Mike Russell, brothers, coal cutters, and Frank Davis, pumper.

Miners expressed belief that the explosion was caused by sparks from a drill operated by the Russell brothers. The three bodies were badly burned.

World's Tallest Building Planned

It will be a gigantic skyscraper of sixty-two stories and will be erected on the northeast corner of Lexington avenue if present plans are carried out.

Considerable secrecy surrounds the plans for what is said to be the tallest structure in the world, but it has been learned that William H. OLD EARTH OUTGROWN

Two-Day Trip to Venus Held Possibility—When Atomic Force is Mastered

[Copyright, 1928, by the Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Interplanetary navigation with the moon a mere three and a half hours' commuting distance from the earth was heralded as not far distant by an imposing group of French astronomers, physicists and aviation experts today.

It is only upon the development of a newly discovered force, "intra-atomic energy," that mankind waits to cruise the entire solar system, the scientists held, setting 5000 francs (about $200,) as an annual prize for the most important discovery during the year calculated to promote a solution for any one of numerous problems connected with the navigation of the vast interstellar spaces.

YESTERDAY'S DREAM

At a luncheon in the Cafe de Paris, which probably will be considered historic in the day when flights to Mars, Ventus and the moon are as common as hops from Paris to London, the chief brains of French science decided that a rocket-express to the moon is no wilder a dream than Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight would have seemed as recently as 1900.

A famous aviation authority, Esnault-Pelterie, declared that as soon as the intra-atomic energy, which is infinitely more powerful than any known force, is mastered, science can construct a rocket able to effect a voyage to the moon in three hours and twenty-seven minutes and traverse the 48,280,000 miles to Venus in forty-nine hours and twenty minutes, at a maximum speed of 1,912,200 miles an hour.

The prize committee includes such prominent persons as M. Maurain, dean of sciences at the Sorbonne, and Gen. Charbonnier of the Paris Observatory.

RETURN THE HUB

The chief problem is declared to be how to contrive brakes for the return trip against the pull of the earth's gravity, how to insure the passengers from suffering from the murderous heat as a result of the friction with the air within the city limits of the old earth and how to aim correctly so tourists to the moon will not miss their destination and wander in space for years before returning inevitably to the earth.

M. Esnault-Pelterie said that tests of shells had proved them to be most sensitive instruments and thus the human freight inside would withstand the shock of the explosion and speed of the missile's progress through space. A mere 1800 miles of the ground, he said, the power could be shut off and cruise the rest of the way to the moon through the non-resisting ether toward the moon's gentle gravity pull, as delightful as a trip in tropic seas. But because of the nonresistance of the ether, he said, "ether planes could not benefit from the progress of aircraft."

Angeleno's Yacht Damaged by Gas Blast at Seattle

SEATTLE, Feb. 1. (AP)—An explosion which shook buildings within several blocks, tonight set fire to the Ruth Janet, palatial yacht of Lee Mackley Smith, Los Angeles capitalist and endangered the life of Capt. George L. Smith, the only person aboard the craft. Although Smith was hurled from his chair by the explosion, he escaped injury.

The interior of the craft was destroyed, but the hull was undamaged. The explosion of 200 gallons of gasoline stored near the source of the fire, threatened to destroy the craft and wreck neighboring yachts, until firemen brought the blaze under control.

Damage was estimated at $7500, half the value of the yacht. The blast came from the ignition of a five-gallon kerosene heater in the stern of the hold.

PEACE PACT AGREED ON

Will be Signed Monday

Herrick and Briand Meet and Work Out Final Details of Treaty

French Highly Pleased at Preamble Wording on Outlawing War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—The new Franco-American arbitration pact, embodying a declaration against war as an instrument of national policy, will be signed next Monday, the sesquicentennial of the first treaty entered into between the two republics.

Word of the final agreement on terms of the new treaty reached the State Department from Paris late today. It means fulfillment of the original French desire for signature of the new peace pact on the anniversary date, although the Root arbitration treaty it will replace does not expire until the 27th inst.

OUTLAWS WAR

It represents also a beginning on the making over of all American arbitration treaties into what the Washington administration believes will be a strengthened American contribution to the cause of world peace.

The antiwar declaration is contained in the preamble to the new treaty and is described, since it has never been made public in text, as a mutual expression of hope that a day will come when war can be abandoned by all governments in favor of peaceful settlement of disputes.

The articles of the treaty, however, commit the two countries to submit to arbitration on formulae to be approved by the Senate in each case so far as the United States is concerned, any dispute that cannot be disposed of by diplomatic negotiation and which does not touch on domestic issues, affect the interests of a third state or involve the Monroe Doctrine.

PACTS INTERLOCK

As framed at the State Department and presumably as approved in Paris, the pact abandons the language of the Root treaty exempting from arbitration questions of national honor and vital interest. It is regarded here as strengthening the Root peace machinery to that extent.

An important aspect of the new treaty is the fact that it interlocks with the Bryan conciliation treaty with France which continues until denounced by either party. That treaty requires that no disputes of any character shall go to the extent of war or warlike preparations by either country until a period of one year in which conciliators shall have attempted adjustment shall have passed.

Signature of the new arbitration treaty means the indefinite postponement of the discussion with the Paris government of the question of a separate treaty renouncing war which grew out of the Briand proposals to Washington last year.

BRIAND ELATED AT PLAN'S SUCCESS

PARIS, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Following an hour's conference between Minister Briand and Ambassador Herrick at the Quai d'Orsay today it was learned that Washington and Paris now are in agreement on the terms of the new Franco-American arbitration treaty which is to replace the Root treaty which expires this month. Cables to be exchanged in the next twenty-four hours are expected to put the document in its final form and it is reported in French quarters that it will be signed as Washington the 6th inst.

It was Ambassador Herrick's first visit to Briand since he returned from America recently after his long illness. He was received most cordially by the French Foreign Minister, who is an old friend, and the success of the treaty negotiations gave a happy atmosphere for Briand's welcome.

There is reason to believe that Briand is especially pleased over the form that the preamble to the new arbitration treaty will take. Referring to the long friendship between the two republics it is understood that the preamble will proclaim their desire for perpetual peace between the two nations and will state the treaty consecrates their wish to use peaceful, rather than warlike means, to settle any difference which may arise between them.

PREAMBLE PLEASES

It is understood Briand is happy over the thought that this preamble really includes the fundamentals of his original suggestion to Washington last June which was taken to the United States by Herrick and was later used by Secretary Kellogg in an effort to frame a world-wide treaty outlawing war.

WOMAN LOSES BOWED LEGS

Limbs Amputated Following Straightening Operation by Surgeon Who Beautified "Peaches" Browning

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A wish for straight legs has cost Miss Sadie Holland, 30 years of age, a stenographer, her limbs which were slightly bowed and tonight her life was in danger.

Two weeks ago Dr. Henry J. Schirescon, plastic surgeon, operated upon the young woman's legs. A week ago Dr. William Van Doren, the Holland Hospital, said Dr. Schireson, "The family physician, was called by Miss Holland's parents. He was said to have reported gangrene had developed in both legs and to have directed that she be removed to another hospital. There last Friday Dr. Paul Magnuson amputated both legs above the knees.

COLONIALS FETE COL. LINDBERGH

Flyer at St. Thomas Given Freedom of City

Tribute Ends Day of Honors and Festivities

Good-Will Tour Resumption Planned for Today

ST. THOMAS (Virgin Islands) Feb. 1. (AP)—The freedom of the city today was conferred on Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by his fellow-Americans of this little is land in the Caribbean after a day of innumerable honors and enthusiastic fetes.

The honor was conferred at an extraordinary meeting of the Colonial Council this afternoon. As he entered the room with Gov. Evans the members rose in tribute. The American air hero, who will resume his good-will tour tomorrow, replied briefly, expressing his thanks and telling the Council that he always will remember the welcome which St. Thomas gave him.

The colonel visited the hospital here, went to the Masonic lodge, where a special meeting was held in his honor, and was presented with a silver Masonic trowel with a gold handle; attended the horse races and then rounded out the day with a sight-seeing trip.

GUEST OF CHAMBER

At noon the American flyer also was the guest of honor at a reception by the Chamber of Commerce during which the Danish Consul-General delivered an address of welcome. The flyer shook hands with all the members of the chamber, who were eager to greet him personally.

The people of St. Thomas, no less eager to pay tribute to the American airman, flocked everywhere that the flyer went and all he drove in an open automobile with Gov. Evans to the public garden this morning, he was constantly surrounded by eager crowds, including many school-children.

SERVICE OF THANKS

A short thanksgiving service was held this morning at the public garden and Col. Lindbergh was presented with an inlaid mahogany table, the gift of citizens of St. Thomas.

Col. Lindbergh tomorrow will make one of the shortest hops of his good-will tour, taking off for San Juan, Porto Rico, only seventy-five miles away, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dispatches from Havana say that 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the 8th inst. is being tentatively considered as the time of Col. Lindbergh's arrival there for the Pan-American conference. He probably will take off for St. Louis, his home, on the 11th inst.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

The island never before welcomed a visitor so elaborately. The only possible comparison was on the occasion of the visit of the Danish Prince Waldemar, forty-five years ago.

After a strenuous day of being greeted by cheering crowds in the muchly-decorated streets, Lindbergh appeared listless after dinner and many observers remarked that he must need rest. After the dinner he reviewed a monster torchlight procession that passed before the Governor's residence, and then retired saying that he would go to bed early in anticipation of taking off around noon tomorrow for San Juan.

GROUNDHOG LODGE HONORS FLYER TODAY

QUARRYVILLE (Pa.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be the recipient of an unusual honor tomorrow when he will be elected to membership in the Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville. The lodge regrets that the Colonel was not born on groundhog day, but as his birthday is only two days later, they take the view that he was late for once.

This organization, composed of some of Pennsylvania's best-known philosophers, humorists, farmers and groundhog protectors, meets annually on Groundhog Day. Squads of fire watch at various chosen groundhog holes for the weather prophet to emerge and then report back their observations to the worthy defender of the facts, Joseph Hooker, who sits all day in Quarryville to receive these reports. The ceremonies this year will be performed under some difficulties because of the deep snow.

CHICAGO'S FLAG AMERICANIZED

"Big Bill" Vows Six-Pointed Stars of Banner Not Patriotic Type

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—The two-starred flag that officially represents the city of Chicago is to be revised as part of Mayor Thompson's "America-First" program.

The Mayor discovered that the stars in the city banner are six pointed, which he regarded as un-American star architecture. The American flag star has five points.

In the Chicago banner one star represents the famous fire, the other the world's fair. Mayor Thompson told Corporation Counsel Ettelson to draft immediately an ordinance bringing the Chicago star points into conformity with the best American traditions.

M'ADOO TRAINS GUNS ON SMITH

Candidacy of Wet Held to be National Peril

Strong Plea Made for Real Honesty on Question

in Maryland, and argued that to expect prohibition enforcement from a President hostile to prohibition is "upon its face an absurdity." He said the issue is one that must be fought "to a conclusion" in the campaign of 1928.

"The supreme need is to put law enforcement in the White House," said Mr. McAdoo. "Attempt is being made to convince the country that no matter if a wet is elected President, the Constitution and laws will be enforced.

CALLED A FALLACY

"This is both unsound and untrue. . . . The White House in the hands of the 'liquor interests would be a veritable Gibraltar of offensive operations and the doom of the Eighteenth Amendment would be written boldly upon the face of the Constitution."

The former Treasury Secretary, twice a formidable candidate for the nomination of his party, made no reference to his own political fortunes or to his previous statement that he will "stand aside" in 1928. He made no personal allusions except to Gov. Smith although he did link the law enforcement situation in New York with that in Maryland, the Governor of which Albert C. Ritchie, also is in the running for the Democratic nomination.

Mr. McAdoo spoke at a law-enforcement meeting at Richmond Auditorium to an audience gathered from the borderland of the dry Democratic South. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and other dry organizations. The speech was prepared beforehand, and included a painstaking examination of many aspects of the prohibition enforcement problem.

SUGGESTIONS MADE

The speaker suggested, among other things, that the Federal government give financial aid to the States in prohibition enforcement, somewhat after the manner of the Federal-aid system by which States now are assisted in road-building and other enterprises of national concern. He denied the charge that in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment the Federal government is infringing States' rights, pointing out that forty-six of the States themselves ratified the amendment, binding all the States by overwhelming consent.

He made direct reference to Gov. Smith in recounting that neither New York nor Maryland has a State prohibition enforcement act, and declared that in both States the burden of enforcement has been left on an insufficient staff of Federal agents.

"Considerable misunderstanding of the consequences of the repeal of the State enforcement act in New York has been created by recent utterances of the Governor of that State," Mr. McAdoo continued. "After giving his approval to the act repealing the State prohibition law, the Governor now says that there devolves upon the State the sacred duty of sustaining the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law.

TACTICS ASSAILED

"They are as much a part of the laws of this State as our own statutes and our own constitution,' and he then goes on to imply that even in the absence of a State enforcement act the police agencies of the State are available for the enforcement of prohibition.

"His effort is apparently to create the impression that no State enforcement statute is necessary because even in the absence of such a statute the State officials are under an obligation to enforce the Volstead Act. This position is entirely misleading and has no justification in law. While it is, of course, true that the Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the laws of every State, the Eighteenth Amendment is not self-executing and requires an enforcement statute to put it into effect. The Volstead Act is such a statute, but it is not true that the Volstead Act is a part of the laws of the State of New York.

"Because the State courts are thus without jurisdiction to enforce the Volstead Act, the police find themselves paralyzed in any efforts they may make to enforce prohibition in the State courts. The sacred duty upon State officials of which the Governor speaks, doubtless exists, but the means of performing it were taken away from them when jurisdiction over prohibition offenses was removed from the State courts by repeal of the State enforcement act."

OBJECT DEFINED

Mr. McAdoo declared it is the object of the organized liquor interests to destroy the prohibition amendment State by State with the hope of bringing the whole country into the category of New York and Maryland.

"This, then," he said, "is the issue—shall disobedience to the supreme law of the land, as practiced by New York and Maryland, be permitted to establish a doctrine which, carried to its logical conclusions, means the destruction of constitutional government and the disappearance of those guaranties of life, liberty and property which are essential to the security and well-being of the people and to the continuation of our form of government?

"The issue cannot be evaded. It must be fought to a conclusion in the forthcoming national campaign. The contest between the two great political parties for the control of the Presidency and the Congress of the United States affords the only national referendum for the decision of great questions of this kind, and we must have the courage and sincerity to present this issue squarely to the people so that their judgment may be rendered in the light of reason and with full knowledge of the facts."

EVASION CHARGED

New York's repeal of its State enforcement act, Mr. McAdoo continued, makes unavailable for enforcement purposes some 32,000 State officials, including judges, prosecuting attorneys and State police, and leaves the task to a Federal force of only about 300 persons. He added that a similar situation obtains in Maryland.

As a part of any effort to obtain enforcement of and obedience to the dry laws Mr. McAdoo advocated a campaign of education, including a short course in every public school "designed to acquaint the pupils with the evils and dangers of intoxicants and narcotics."

"Present conditions cannot be allowed to continue," he said. "If the law is a good law it must not be repealed; and if it remains unrepealed it must be enforced.

EFFORT URGED

"The patriotic intelligence of the country should be directed to the best means of obtaining enforcement.

"Thus far no effective effort on the part of the Federal government has been made. This is due partly to inadequate appropriations and partly to the failure of the Federal government to secure from the States the co-operation which is essential if enforcement is to be made less difficult and more successful.

"It is of outstanding importance to impress the fact that the powers of government must be intrusted only to those who have the honest will to enforce the law. It is not to be expected that the law will be enforced by officials who are hostile to it and who are willing to remit the performance of their public duties in exchange for political or personal advantage."

GOV. RITCHIE URGES MORE RIGHTS FOR STATES

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—The American voter will be stirred to renewed interest in politics only when political leaders cease to regard hypocrisy, cowardice and buncombe as political assets, Gov. Ritchie of Maryland said tonight, addressing the Brooklyn Bar Association.

"America cannot afford to scrap principles and institutions which have been tried and tested," he continued. "The stability of our government and our national happiness rest upon the spirit of tolerance, but with law breeding more law, power breeding more power, one begins to wonder where the Goddess of Liberty is to find an abiding place."

The growth of centralized governmental power is an "evil not confined to America," he said, but has appeared in Europe, "where dictatorships rose as they have risen after every great war in history."

"A man's religion ought never to be a factor in his right to hold office, whether the lowest in the State or the highest in the land," he said, "but the old beliefs and the old issues are fast passing. The things which stir human emotions now are prohibition, religious intolerance and fundamentalism.

"This may be due to the growing industrialism of today, the growing urbanism of America, or the amazing change in the theory of law which the past twenty-five years has witnessed. But back of it all is the apathy of the people in the face of their abdication of the political essentials which made us a free nation.

"The foundation of the edifice was self-government. The living political issue today is the right of the States to settle their home affairs at home."

To mention one instance, he continued, "a great many people believe, as I happen to believe, that the great question of prohibition ought to be turned back to the States, so that each State may determine it in accordance with the needs and sanctions of its own people."

Los Angeles Landing at Sea

Dirigible Tied to Saratoga

The picture shows the dirigible Los Angeles making its first landing on the airplane carrier Saratoga at sea south of Newport. The picture, which was made last Friday, was released by the Navy upon the recommendation of Rear-Admiral William A. Moffett only after the section showing the arresting gear on the deck has been obliterated. It is a policy of the Navy never to permit a photograph to be made of the deck of the new airplane carrier. The arresting gear which is used to stop planes quickly is one of the closely guarded secret devices aboard the huge craft.

LAST RITES OF JENNINGS TOMORROW

Telegrams from All Over Nation Tell Sorrow at Death of Baseball Idol

SCRANTON (Pa.) Feb. 1. (AP)—The funeral of Hugh A. Jennings, one of the greatest characters that baseball has produced, who died at his home here early today, will take place Friday morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Peter's Cathedral here. It was announced late today burial will be in St. Catherine's Cemetery.

Expressions of regret at the passing of one of the idols of the national pastime were received at the Jennings home from all parts of the country.

Scranton deeply mourned the passing of one of its foremost citizens, and wherever men gathered today the sole topic of conversation was the fact that "Hughey" is dead.

Among those who sent messages of condolence were John Heydler, president of the National League; Charles E. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox; Frank A. Navin, of the Detroit Tigers, the team which Mr. Jennings managed for fourteen years; Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators; Mr. and Mrs. Connie Mack, the former part owner and manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

BLUE-BLOOD KILLS SELF IN SANTA FE

W. Barton French, Scion of Eastern Family, Had Been Found Incompetent

SANTA FE (N. M.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Found shot through the head in a bathroom of a friend's home here today, W. Barton French, said to be a member of the French-Vanderbilt families of New York and Paris, came to his death from a "self-inflicted wound," a Coroner's jury decided.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—W. Barton French, scion of a wealthy and socially prominent family, who shot himself in Santa Fe, N. M., today, was declared incompetent in November, 1926, after he had been arrested as he landed from the liner Paris. His arrest was on the complaint of a tourist company which accused him of passing a worthless check for $3500 in France.

A Sheriff's jury found him incompetent "due to habitual drunkenness." His return from France resulted in the dismissal of the complaint on which he was held on suspicion of being a fugitive from justice.

Last June a referee's report disclosed that French owed more than $12,000 as the result of passing worthless checks.

French's income was said to be $11,500 a year, derived from the estates of his father, the late Seth Barton French, who was connected with J. P. Morgan & Co.

HOOVER PLEDGED LOUISIANA SUPPORT

ALEXANDRIA (La.) Feb. 1. (AP)—The Republican State Central Committee at a meeting yesterday adopted a resolution stating that Herbert Hoover "would receive a liberal majority of the votes of Louisiana" if he were the party's nominee for President.

A call was issued at the meeting for a State convention here on the 20th inst., to select four delegates to the Republican National Convention.

come in in droves and after the crop season is ended are cast aside penniless. Then some of the cities of Southern California pick them up and put them to work in the sewers and on the streets and paint another picture of wealth, but again they wind up without sufficient money either to live on or get them back to Mexico. They become public charges, and once they get a taste of charity they will not go back to work."

Dowell said that 67,000 Mexicans entered the United States legally last year and many times that number entered surreptitiously. One of the biggest leaks is at Calexico, he said, where during a six months' check, 225,000 came in on 9000 permits.

FIGURES ON RELIEF

Illustrating his arguments with figures, Dowell told the committee that in Los Angeles with a Mexican population of 150,000 the Outdoor Relief Association reported 27.44 per cent of its cases last year were Mexicans; the Bureau of Catholic Charities reported 32 per cent of its cases were Mexican; the General Hospital had 43 per cent Mexican cases, the city maternity service 62 per cent, the Bureau of Municipal Nursing and Division of Child Welfare 40 per cent and the Children's Hospital 32 per cent. Similar conditions exist in other Southern California communities, he asserted.

He also testified that a survey made by the California State Department of Education showed that 32.7 per cent of the migratory fruit-picking families are Mexican and that of children engaged in this work 86 per cent are under 14 years of age.

Dowell said that Secretary of Labor Davis favors restricting Mexican immigration.

The only opposition to the bill represented at the hearing today was that of the United States Beet Sugar Association, which told the committee through Harry Austin, national secretary, that it wanted to be heard.

Several more protests against restrictive legislation have been received by the Senate and House committees from California, while a few have come from that State urging its passage.

W.C.T.U. READY TO LABEL FOES

Candidates to be Listed as Wet or Dry

Enforcement Planks Will be Insistently Demanded

Federal Officer Tells Women Beer Barons Beaten

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A blue book of wet and dry candidates for public office was opened to entries today by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Closing their two-day mid-winter campaign conference, national officers of the W.C.T.U. sent out word that its organization lieutenants in every State, county and precinct are to place every aspirant to office definitely on record as friend or foe of prohibition.

Under the plan of attack outlined today by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, a resolution will be presented to every party leader from national chairman down to ward committeeman, demanding the insertion of a plank in the party platform indorsing prohibition and pledging its enforcement through the appointment only of "undoubted friends" to power. The crusade will be carried right down to the national nomination conventions of both parties, Mrs. Boole said.

MRS. BOOLE TO SUBMIT PLANK

Mrs. Boole herself will submit the dry plank to the Republican national convention, while Mrs. Nelle Burger Springfield, Mo., assistant recording secretary, will represent the W.C.T.U. at the Democratic convention.

"No party or candidate has the right to ignore any issue that is agitating our people," declared Mrs. Lotta Holman O'Neil, Illinois State Legislator. "Political parties must be made to take notice of issues sponsored by women voters."

The question is "not, whether we are wet or dry," in the opinion of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for Congress who addressed the conference this afternoon.

"We are dry and dry for good," she asserted. "The terms 'wet or dry' are rapidly befog the issue. The question is whether we shall or shall not enforce the prohibition law."

BEER BARONS LOSING OUT

"The beer barons and alcohol kings no longer reap the enormous profits they have collected in Chicago, Capt. John Wallace, Federal prohibition official declared at the conference. "They have gone back to their old trade of bootlegging and vice, because the liquor traffic is unprofitable. The government prohibition officers have driven them to cover."

Rum row has been eliminated, boat-rum smuggling curbed and bootlegging druggists and doctors checked in their illicit activities, Capt. Wallace

Horace of Cornell University Synthetically Given Stylish Ailment in Effort to Test Breakdown of Brain by Habitual Reactions

ITHACA (N. Y.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Horace, the game old wether of Cornell University, has had a nervous breakdown—a synthetic one, so to speak, for it was produced at the will of a physiologist.

Dr. Howard S. Liddel of the Cornell physiological field station, who is studying conditioned motor reflexes in animals, upset the balance in the sheep's brain by overtaxing his habit-forming ability, and the result was that Horace became a neurasthenic. A long rest reconditioned him, however, and he is ready for further contributions to science.

The object of Dr. Liddell's painless experiments with Horace is to substantiate the theory of Dr. I. P. Pavlov, celebrated Russian physiologist, that the brain of an animal is only a storehouse for reflex actions in which definitely localized processes of excitation and inhibition are delicately balanced. Positive response, or action, is regarded by Dr. Pavlov as the result of excitation, and negative response or inaction, is considered the corollary of inhibition.

These abstractions were tested on Horace in a very practical way. He was placed on a table in a quiet room where no distractions could divert his attention. aFstened to one leg were two thin wires. In the next room, out of the animal's sight, Dr. Liddell started a metronome, causing it to beat once a second. Every sixth second he sent a weak electric current through the wires. The prick of the charge caused the wether to lift the leg.

After this experiment had been repeated many times Horace moved the leg immediately after the fifth beat, without waiting for the sixth stroke which always brought the shock. This was the conditioned reflex sought by Dr. Liddell. Horace's nervous system was automatically responding to the combined excitation of the tick of the instrument and the delayed urge of the current. But his brain was still preserving the balance between action and inaction.

The animal's breakdown came when the physiologist attempted to hasten the formation of the leg-lifting habit by doubling the daily number of experiments. Horace's power to control his response to the metronome disappeared, and he would lift the leg on each beat, apparently being in a highly excited state.

The sheep was then given a month's vacation. During that interval his mental equilibrium was restored and when the experiments were resumed he was back at his old trick of lifting his leg at the completion of the fifth beat, without waiting for the shock that marked the sixth.

Although Dr. Liddell is not ready to draw any lessons for human beings from his observations of the sheep's behavior, he believes that what is popularly called nervous breakdown due to overwork seems similar in every way to these experimentally produced nervous disturbances.

"It may be," he says, "that neurasthenia and hysteria are disturbances of this nature; in other words, unusual situations that upset the brain balance."

GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF FREE STATE INDUCTED

DUBLIN, Feb. 1. (AP)—Escorted by a troop of Free State cavalry, James McNeill, new Governor-General of the Irish Free State, went to Leinster House today, where the chief justice administered the oath of office. The cavalry escorted Mr. McNeill and his wife, who rode in a motor car over a route of three miles to the vice-regal lodge. There was no demonstration en route and the spectators were few, because of a heavy rain.

said. The stringent action of E. C. Yellowey, district prohibition administrator, in revoking industrial alcohol permits has shut off the illegal withdrawal of alcohol to a remarkable extent, he asserted.

SLAYER DOOMED

SAN QUENTIN, Feb. 1. (AP)—George Watters, negro wife slayer of Sacramento, must hang Friday unless he is reprieved again. He was to have been hanged January 20, but Gov. Young gave him a two weeks' reprieve on request of attorneys to consider a report that Mrs. Watters had been seen alive in Southern California.

COL. STEWART IN OIL SPOTLIGHT

Trading of Indiana Standard Chairman Gone Into

Senate Continues Check Up on Old Continental

Still Fails to Find Where Huge Profit Went

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—The activities of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of Standard Oil of Indiana, loomed large today in the Senate's investigation of the extinct Continental Trading Company of Canada, which bought millions of barrels of American oil and sold it back to American companies at a profit of 25 cents a barrel.

Stewart, together with Harry Sinclair and others, guaranteed the contract of the Continental in buying the oil from the Humphreys interests of Denver for $1.50 a barrel, and it was testified today that the Standard man had placed before his board of directors the proposal that the Sinclair Crude Company, partly owned by Standard, should contract for oil from the Canadian concern at $1.75.

E. G. Seubert, president of the Indiana Standard, testified that in November, 1921, Stewart returned from New York with a "tentative" contract for the purchase of oil by the Sinclair Crude from Continental, declaring it to be a good contract and adding that the board could "take it or leave it."

HUGE SAVING MADE

It was disclosed by E. L. Carlson, secretary-treasurer of the Sinclair crude, that that company had bought the contract of the Continental subsequently, paying $400,000, and saving, he said, $3,000,000. He did not know who drew up the contract.

Part of the profits of Continental, the government asserts, found its way to Albert B. Fall after he leased Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair.

Examination of the additional witnesses today failed to shed any light on what became of the residue of these profits.

Under driving questioning by Senator Walsh, Seubert told how he and other directors approved the Continental contract.

"Did the board question that 25 cents difference?" Walsh asked, referring to the price the Continental was paying and the price it was proposed to pay that company.

"Yes. I believe one director asked about it," Seubert said. "Col. Stewart told us it was the best price we could get."

IMPLICIT FAITH

"Didn't anybody, on your board, ask how it was the Continental company was able to buy the Humphreys' oil at $1.50 a barrel and cut out Mr. Stewart, who had been seeking to buy the same oil?" Walsh pursued.

"We had implicit confidence in Col. Stewart and were satisfied that was the best bargain he could make."

Seubert said that, of course, he knew somebody was getting the 25 cents a barrel differential and Walsh asked him if he didn't think Stewart had proved himself a poor business man in making the deal.

"I consider Col. Stewart an excellent trader." Seubert shot back.

"We all do," Walsh observed, amid laughter.

EXPLANATION GIVEN

Earlier Mr. Carlson, secretary and treasurer of the Sinclair Crude Company, conceded that he and the other directors of that oil company approved the Continental contracts because they had been executed by the principal directors, Stewart and Sinclair.

"Now we have some kind of a reasonable explanation of your directors' action," Walsh said.

From the third witness, former Senator Charles Thomas of Colorado, the committee learned that while the Sinclair Crude and Prairie Oil and Gas Company were entering into the $50,000,000 deal to buy oil from the Continental at $1.75 a barrel, the Pure Oil Company of Ohio, of which Beman G. Dawes is president, was buying oil from the same source as the Continental—the late A. E. Humphreys of Denver—at $1.50 a barrel.

HAD STOCK INTEREST

The Pure Oil, however, had a stock interest in the Humphreys companies.

Thomas repeated to the committee the testimony he gave at the recent Fall-Sinclair criminal conspiracy mistrial that Stewart, Sinclair and James O'Neil, president of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, and Henry M. Blackmer, then chairman of the board of the Midwest Refining Company, were at the conferences at New York City when the Continental contracts were negotiated.

It was Sinclair, Thomas said, who suggested that the four guarantee the Continental contracts. He could not recall that there was any explanation why this was done.

LAST CAB QUITS WHITE HOUSE

Auto Supplants Horse-Drawn Coach and Negro Driver for Market Trips

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Progress finally has claimed the last of the White House horse-drawn cabs.

The coach which once conveyed distinguished visitors of the President and more recently used by Miss Riley and other White House housekeepers, has been ordered to the Army stables along with the faithful mare which hauled the cab around the city on buying expeditions. In their place is a late model automobile.

Tom, the old negro coachman, who ceremoniously guided the cab as he took Miss Riley from market to store, has laid away his high silk hat to engage in other duties.

SINCLAIR SEEKS CASE DISMISSAL

Defense Says Government Has Not Proved Charges

Court Refuses to Expunge McMullin's Testimony

Surveillance of Jurors No Crime, Judge Told

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Contending that the government has failed to prove a single charge in its criminal contempt actions against Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and their four associates, defense counsel today asked Justice Siddons in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to dismiss the case.

The defense move followed the court's refusal to strike from the records the testimony of William J. McMullin, the government's star witness. McMullin, who, while acting as a Burns detective in shadowing the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury, informed the government of the detectives' activities, testified he prepared false charges against a juror on instructions from Burns officials.

MISTRIAL PLANNED

The false charges, he said, were intended as a basis of an affidavit with which it was hoped to bring about mistrial of the oil case if it appeared Sinclair was in danger of conviction.

In permitting the testimony to remain in the record Justice Siddons said he would not rule it out at "this time" but would consider it for what it is worth, making it clear that his action was not final.

SURVEILLANCE ADMITTED

Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Sinclair, in moving for dismissal asserted that the only evidence developed by the government was that the jury was kept under surveillance by detectives in Sinclair's employ. This, he said, was admitted by the respondents, adding that such action is not unlawful. The government, he contended, can not consider the question of intent but only actions which might have constituted contempt.

"I submit to the court that the mere bringing here of these detectives is a contempt of this court," Dist.-Atty. Gordon retorted.

Gold Doorknob Apartment Sold

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—"The house of the gold doorknobs" as the twelve-story apartment-house at Fifth avenue and Eighty-first street is known, has changed owners. Commodore Arthur Curtiss James, who paid $3,000,000 for the building in 1913, one year after its completion, has sold the property to Benjamin Winter, real estate operator.

The building was erected by James T. Lee, who told his architect he wanted a building that would be better in every respect than the finest house on the avenue.

Every doorknob in the building is gold plated and in one apartment every hinge, door handle and the keys are of gold. It was the first apartment-house in what was then the city's most fashionable residence section, and its erection was bitterly opposed.

Autoists Swamp License Bureau

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive) California motorists who waited until yesterday, the final day for 1928 license renewals, to send in their license fee may have to wait for two weeks to get their plates, Frank G. Snook, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, announced today.

Snook said a landslide of mail orders came to the department yesterday, and he declares it will take until the middle of February for the clerks to get to the bottom of the pile. Motorists who made mail applications should retain some evidence that they have applied for the 1928 license, said Snook. Traffic officers have been instructed to stop cars with 1927 plates and a money-order receipt or a check stub will prevent a summons.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—An invitation was accepted by President Coolidge today to make an address on April 15 accepting for the government a statue of Andrew Jackson erected by Tennessee in Statuary Hall at the Capitol.

The President declared that he is a great admirer of Jackson and is glad of the opportunity to acknowledge publicly his noteworthy place in American history.

The proposal first was submitted to the Highway Commission by Mexican Consul M. O. Ruiz of St. Louis, Mo.

WALLA WALLA (Wash.) Feb. 1. (AP) Art Cleveland of Milton was rescued from the burning jail at Frecwater, Or., today by a passer-by, who broke a window when a short circuit of electric light wires started a blaze. The fire was extinguished and Cleveland was returned to jail.

The prizes are a gold trophy valued at 1000 guineas and an income of £1000 yearly for so long as the winner is unbeaten up to the end of 1930. Sir Charles Wakefield, British oil manufacturer, is donor of the prizes. Both prizes may be competed for by drivers of any nation.

AMERICAN PLAN PROGRESS KEY

Detroit Employers Explain Industrial Advance

Report Cites Scant Success of Unions' Endeavors

Communists Asserted to be Schooling Leaders

DETROIT, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The great advancement of Detroit industries particularly that of the automobile business is due to the prevalence of the "open shop," according to the annual report of Chester M. Culver, general manager of the Detroit Employers' Association. The report declares that there has been "little progress" in attempts to enlarge union membership here and that of the 1,750,000 employed workers in Michigan, less than 2 per cent are members of organizations affiliated with the Michigan Federation of Labor.

Several paragraphs of the report are given over to charges that Communism has spread throughout the ranks of workers here, having gone so far as to operate schools in which leaders are trained to "establish the Russian system in America."

Walter Gordon Merritt, representative of the League of Industrial Rights, addressed the association's annual banquet. He decried the laxity of business men generally in not attempting to understand the purpose and desirability of the antitrust laws.

He said that whereas many industrial leaders are content to leave these laws as they are, union leaders constantly are attempting to wipe out both the antitrust laws and court injunctions.

The speaker pointed out that the bill recently introduced in Congress by Senator Shipstead involved the abolition of court injunctions. He characterized antitrust laws as providing industrial freedom and guaranteeing a square deal to the public.

"If these laws are changed American industry will be confronted with far greater evils than it has known thus far," he said.

"International Spy" Denies His Wife's Charges

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP) — Jacob Nosovitsky, self-styled "international spy," recently implicated in the Hearst Mexican forgeries, went on trial today in the Brooklyn County Court on charges of grand larceny filed by his young wife.

Mrs. Nosovitsky said she married Nosovitsky on September 19, 1927. A few days later he deserted her and, she said, took $1800 with him. She asserted she located him with another woman.

Nosovitsky denied the charges and intimated that they were prompted by his wife's parents who opposed him because he is anti-Socialist and had no money.

Nosovitsky has been named in connection with several attempts to sell forged documents relating to Communist activities in Mexico.

Angeleno Tells Story of Hold-up

NIAGARA FALLS (Ont.) Feb. 1. (AP)—A woman who said she is Mrs. Dora Violet McDonald of Los Angeles, Cal., told the police today that she had been robbed by four men of jewelry, furs and $1700 in cash and travelers' checks on a country road near the city last night.

She said she lost her way after driving her automobile across the Peace Bridge from the United States, and when she stopped an automobile to ask directions the four men took her money, two diamond rings, a diamond-studded wrist watch, a number of dresses, a fur coat and cape.

Police have been unable to find the automobile she said she abandoned before making her way into the city.

Chang Tso-Lin Gets Arms Soon

PEKING, Feb. 1. (AP)—The Czecho-Slovakian steamer Praga, carrying 40,000 rifles for the Mukdenite troops of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, the northern dictator, has arrived at Chinwangtao. The arms immediately were placed in transport in the direction of Mukden, Manchuria.

Reports published by the Chinese newspapers several days ago that the Praga had arrived at Tsingtao after an exchange of fire with a Nationalist gunboat, have proved erroneous.

Three Women on Jury to Try Folsom Rioters

COURTHOUSE, SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A jury of three women and nine men to try the case of six Folsom rioters was obtained in Judge Pullen's court at 3:37 o'clock this afternoon.

Counsel announced themselves satisfied when but one name of a special venire of eighteen, called into court this afternoon, remained in the box.

An alternate juror will be picked to guard against loss of time in case of illness.

Opera Company Upheld in Row

NEW YORK, Feb 1. (AP)—The right of the Metropolitan Opera Company to discharge Jessie York, former member of the Metropolitan ballet, because she danced a "dance of the seven veils" at a private dinner without permission of the company, was upheld today by Municipal Court Justice Mcoman.

Miss York had sued for sixteen weeks' salary at $40 a week, stating that she had received oral permission and blaming her dismissal on antagonism within the opera company.

The party was given by Paul Forrester at the Park Lane Hotel on Thanksgiving evening, 1926. Its cost was said to have been in excess of $10,000. Miss York's dance was the feature. Because of the publicity given the dinner Miss York was dismissed.

RUIN LINGERS IN SANDINO'S WAKE

Once Rich Nicaraguan Area Almost Abandoned

Coffee Crop Unpicked as Men Fear Rebel Leader

Many Ranch Houses Burned and Live Stock Taken

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Feb. 1. (AP) Merchants and agriculturists arriving here from Nueva Segovia report that that department has been almost abandoned by property owners. Last year's coffee, they assert, was taken by Sandino, the rebel leader, and this year's crop, worth $500,000, has not been picked on account of lack of laborers, who fear for their personal safety.

The once rich Department of Nueva Segovia is temporarily ruined, and it is thought it will take many years before it can recuperate. Many ranch houses have been burned and live stock taken. The construction of a military road from Leon to Ocotal will build up the territory through which the road passes. United States marine officers think that the passing of troops and pack trains will bring about stabilized conditions, permitting a return to the farms and the reopening of stores.

All available ox carts at Leon are being used to carry supplies to the marines and National Guard at Ocotal.

EVIDENCE FOUND OF HUMAN SACRIFICE IN MAYAN CITY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Human sacrifice was, at one stage, at least, part of the awe-inspiring ritual practiced by the Mayan priests who dominated the highest civilization known to have existed on this continent prior to the arrival of Columbus.

Evidence of this practice, which likewise marks the early history of religions originating on the other side of the world, was discovered by archeologists of the Carnegie Institution of Washington during the last field season of their work, under the direction of Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, at Uaxactum, the Old Empire city of the Mayans, in Peten, Guatemala. The Mayans were settling in that city about the time Christ was crucified.

A skull, buried in a bowl and covered with another bowl, was found under the sanctuary floor immediately south of the altar in each of three temples which, with a pyramid, formed a huge sun-dial which marked the changes of the seasons. The archeologists also uncovered many bat skeletons beneath the sanctuary of one of the temples and two obsidian knives with which they probably were sacrificed to appease the wrath or gain the favor of some deity.

Visit of Aerial Official Points to Island Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Long current reports in aviation circles here that commercial airplane carriers will be serving the islands of the Hawaiian chain in the near future seem to be pointing to reality in the purpose of a Honolulu visit by Clarence M. Young, director of the aeronautics division of the United States Department of Commerce. Embarking here for Honolulu, Mr. Young admitted he is making the trip to name an island representative of the division.

"Hawaiian interests plan to establish an interalliied flying line," he said. "It will be necessary to have government supervision and I am to appoint a man to take charge."

The aeronautics division, he explained, "has to do with regulating and promoting aviation. This includes inspection of airports, examination and licensing of pilots, inspection of aircraft and a host of other details."

Flyer Drops in on Old Friends

WATSONVILLE, Feb. 1. (AP)—When Raymond Crawford, Los Angeles aviation instructor and pilot, made a forced landing in a lettuce field here last night, he learned that he had dropped in on old friends.

His plane turned over in front of the home of Dr. J. T. Higgins, who attended the pilot at his birth, twenty-two years ago at Morgan Hill. Crawford and Jack Higgins, a son of the doctor, were graduated from the same grade school.

Crawford was uninjured in the landing.

"China Mary" is believed to have been one of the first Chinese to come to California.

PROGRESS MADE IN FILM PARLEY

Arbitrators Declared to be Ironing Out Question

Conference Result of Trade Commission Order

Government Will Take Hand in Case of Deadlock

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Favorable progress in ironing out the differences between film producers and exhibitors was reported tonight at the Congress Hotel where six arbitrators are holding a conference on contract matters deemed of vital importance to all concerned in the motion-picture business.

The conference is the outcome of the Federal Trade Commission's order last year demanding that the large producers cease their asserted unfair tactics in restraint of trade.

Under the old form of contract the small exhibitors were often forced to book several uncontested films in order to get a certain desired feature.

Should the arbitrators be unable to agree on a standardized contract, it was said, the government will appoint a seventh whose extra vote can decide the matter.

THE CALIFORNIA BOTANIC GARDEN

THE United States Commissioner of Internal Revenue has written a letter revealing the results of an investigation of the California Botanic Garden. Excerpts follow:

"Your purposes are to promote the study and development of plant life and the application of botanical science. In furtherance of these purposes, you have secured by donation and purchase, a tract of land containing 3,500 acres located in Mandeville Canyon, Los Angeles... Only about 800 acres of the land lying on the floor of the canyon is for garden purposes . . .

"It is contemplated that the land lying on the slopes of the canyon will be developed and sold for high-class home sites . . . The profits, which you may earn from the sale of the land for residential purposes, are to be used for paying off your indebtedness and then for the establishment of an endowment fund for the maintenance of the botanical garden... the establishment of the endowment fund is for the purpose of keeping the gardens in operation perpetually.

"You are not organized and operated for purposes of profit and no part of your income can inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual . . . Such profits (i. e., from the sale of residential sites) are, however, to be devoted exclusively to the main objects of your organization, that is, scientific and educational purposes. It is the destination of your income and not its source that reflects your actual purposes.

". . . In view of the foregoing, it is held that you come within the exempting provisions of the Revenue Act of 1926. You will, therefore, be relieved of the duty of filing returns of annual income . . . Contributions made to you by individuals are allowable deductions in the income tax returns of the donors. . . . . "

MARY BROWNE STILL PEEVED

Won't Ask Reinstatement in Amateur Golf Ranks

Star Says She Does Not Consider Self Pro

U.S.G.A. Head Says Initial Move is Up to Mary

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Miss Mary Browne has, as she says, adopted a watchful-waiting policy so far as her reinstatement as a golf amateur is concerned, she will be obliged to maintain it for the full length of the usual three-year good-conduct period prescribed by the United States Golf Association.

Miss Browne has been quoted as saying she won't ask for reinstatement, but the U.S.G.A. made it clear that no action is possible on her status without a formal application to lift the ban imposed last April after the former tennis champion toured the country with Suzanne Lenglen and the rest of the C. C. Pyle professional troupe.

This is how Miss Browne set forth her case recently in the Cleveland press:

"They said I was ineligible and it's up to them to make me eligible. I have never been a professional in golf and no matter what they said I have never considered myself as a golf professional. Of course, I'm anxious to be allowed to play in all these tournaments but it's up to them. Under the circumstances I do not care to go ahead before the U.S.G.A. I have seen reports that I had asked for reinstatement, but I do not intend to ask for it."

The association's point of view, as expressed by H. H. Ramsay, new vice-president and chairman last year of the committee that ruled Miss Browne out of amateur competition, is this:

"We cannot consider the status

PROMINENT FIGURES IN THE REALM OF SPORTS TODAY

Won't Ask Reinstatement in Amateur Golf Ranks

Star Says She Does Not Consider Self Pro

U. S. G. A. Head Says Initial Move is Up to Mary

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—If Mary Browne has, as she says, adopted a waiting policy so far as her reinstatement as a golf amateur is concerned, she will be obliged to maintain it for the full length of the usual three-year good-conduct period prescribed by the United States Golf Association.

Miss Browne has been quoted as saying she won't ask for reinstatement, but the U.S.G.A. made it clear that no action is possible on her status without a formal application to lift the ban imposed last April after the women's tennis champion toured the country with Suzanne Lenglen and a number of the C. C. Pyle professionals.

In a letter Miss Browne set forth her views recently in the Cleveland Press.

"They said I was ineligible and I had to do to them to make me eligible. I have never been a professional in golf and no matter what they said I have never considered myself as a golf professional. Of course, I'm anxious to be allowed to play in all these tournaments that are up to them. Under the circumstances I do not care to go ahead before the U.S.G.A. I have seen reports that I had asked for reinstatement, but I do not intend to ask for it."

The association's point of view, as stated by E. H. Ramsay, new vice-president and chairman last year of the committee that ruled Miss Browne out of amateur competition, is this:

"We cannot consider the status

Friedman Has Backfield to Worry Grange

If it takes a great backfield to win games in professional football, Benny Friedman feels certain that his Bulldogs will bump off Red Grange's Yankees next Sunday at Wrigley Field, where the gold-grabbing gridders ring down the curtain on their season.

Bolstered up by the addition of Ernie Nevers, former Stanford all-American, the Bulldogs will present a backfield combination that figures to give the Grangemen plenty of worry. Nevers will

EUROPEAN POLOISTS PLAY HERE

"Los Piratos" Squad to Tackle Midwick Four in Sunday Clash

FRANK ROCHE

A real Spanish grandee—in the person of the Marquis de Portago—and his colorful polo team the "Los Piratos" of Del Monte, which numbers among its personnel three famous English mallet aces—Tiny Harry East, Capt. Selby McCreery and Capt. Henry W. Forrester will appear Sunday afternoon on the Monterey Park Field in a special match game of high goal polo with a picked squad of Midwick Country Club riders. Sunday's game will have all the flavor of an international contest as the "Los Piratos" are distinctly a European team while the Midwick four will be made up of American polo players. The Midwick team will either be captained by Carleton Burke or Eric Pedley.

Marquis de Portago's team carries a rating of twenty goals and from all accounts they are well worth it. Little Harry East is one of the leading players in polo. He is numbered among the big ten on the United States polo list and he is rated as an eight-goal man. Capt. McCreery formerly played on the English army international team and Capt. Forrester is a member of the Seventeenth Lancers—present cham-

A TREAT FOR SORE EYES

Says Rickard

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Announcement that Jack Dempsey has retired from the ring and that Gene Tunney will defend his title in June against the winner of the Delaney - Heaney and Sharkey-Risko elimination contest, was made here today by Tex Rickard.

The announcement came after the promoter had conferred with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager.

Gibson, in speaking of the forthcoming bout, said: "We have decided to string along with Rickard who has what seems to me to be a very plausible method of developing one or more contenders this year.

Ditto Dempsey

Jack Dempsey said yesterday that he was sure of only one thing regarding his connection with the fight game and that was that he never would lose his academic interest in the prize ring.

On this phase of the hoary discussion as to whether the former heavyweight champion ever again would climb through the ropes as a contender, he had a definite pronouncement to make, to wit:

"Whether I fight again or not, I'll always keep up my connection with the fight game."

Tex Rickard's announcement yesterday at Miami Beach, Fla., that Dempsey was through did not seem to strike the former boss of the

GREAT MAILS IS IN AGAIN; STARTS TRAINING ALREADY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Walter Mails (the Great,) left-handed pitcher of the San Francisco Seals and established league comedian, who dislikes spring training so much he would vote for its abolishment, gave his owners a real shock today. He started training at the ball park today, twenty days ahead of the regular spring practice time. Mails said he was bubbling over with vigor after a winter's rest up near Eureka and couldn't wait for the Monterey training camps to open. He also announced he thought he would be the best pitcher in the league this season.

TROJANS RECEIVE LETTERS

Monograms and Numerals to be Passed Out Tuesday at Grid Dinner

Sweaters will be awarded to nineteen members of the University of Southern California football varsity Tuesday evening, at the annual grid dinner, at 7 o'clock. At the same time twenty-four frosh performers will be awarded numerals, and members of the Spartan squad will be given jerseys.

The varsity sweaters will go to Capt. Morley Drury, Captain-elect Jesse Hibbs, both all-American men; Frank Anthony, Nate Barrager, Charley Boren, Harry Edelson, Howard Elliott, Chick Galloway, Bert Heiser, Cecil Hoff, Lowry McCaslin, Jim Moser, Don Moses, Russ Saunders, Albert Scheving, Tony Steponovich, Francis Tappaan, Lloyd Thomas and Don Williams.

All of the men, with the exception of Williams, earned their awards through filling certain requirements anent number of minutes played in conference and nonconference games. Williams was awarded his sweater although he was forced, through injuries, to be out of the last two games of the season, in which he undoubtedly would have seen service.

Lloyd Thomas, halfback, played more than seven hours of football during the season and easily leads the squad in matter of minutes played. He had 434 minutes to his credit, fifteen more

LOYOLA TACKLES ST. IGNATIUS BASKETEERS HERE TONIGHT

Tonight Loyola will meet the St. Ignatius casaba-tossers in the first tilt of their two-game series. Both games are slated for the Loyola basketball pavilion.

Coach Richlie of the Lions faces a tough proposition in the visitors from San Francisco. They come south with the reputation as the best bunch of basketeers in that neighborhood. Richlie has been working his hoop artists strenuously in preparation for these two games.

Loyola's chances tonight will depend largely on Capt. McIsaac's playing. Richlie has practically built his system around the versatile cager. McIsaac is generally high-point man, at times scoring at will and playing a wonderful floor game. At the other forward will be Despars, a very

DISTANCE STAR WINS APPROVAL

Grant Tentative Permission for Illinois Meet

German Ace Runs Half Mile in First Trackfest

Board Withholds Sanction on Third Request

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—After prolonged discussion with officials of the Amateur Athletic Union, Dr. Otto Peltzer today was granted permission to run in the Millrose A. A. meet at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night upon condition that he enter the 880-yard run, a fixed feature on the program, and not a special event.

At the same time, the foreign relations committee, which conferred with Dr. Peltzer, gave tentative approval to his engagement to run in a 1000-yard race at the Illinois A. C. meet in Chicago on the 10th inst.

Dr. Peltzer had requested sanction for a third appearance in the New York Knights of Columbus meet on the 29th inst., but approval of this was withheld temporarily. It was brought out that German authorities had stipulated Peltzer's third race must take place within fourteen days after his first appearance or by the 16th inst. This automatically would prevent the German star from competing in the K. of C. games or the national indoor championships here on the 28th inst.

The only other outstanding meet within this limited period is the Boston A. A. event this Saturday.

Peltzer was advised that he must compete in open competition and in regularly scheduled contests in all of his races.

Shade Likely to Get Title Bout in East

Dave Shade will box Mickey Walker in Chicago for the middleweight title if Mickey Walker accepts an offer of $75,000 to defend his title for Promoter Joe Coffey early this spring.

Leo P. Flynn is ready to sign for Shade at once. He notified Shade, who is training for his bout with Joe Anderson at the Olympic next Tuesday night, to stand by and be ready if the bout goes through.

It is known that Jack Kearns is asking $100,000 for Walker's services to put his crown up so

HOLLYWOOD CLUB QUINTET LOSES TO TROJANS, 41 TO 25

Leo Calland's Southern California Trojan basketeers continued on their winning way last night by thumping the Hollywood Athletic Club quintet, 41 to 25, at the Movie City squad's gym. A furious rally in the last half swept the Trojans to decisive victory after the Hollywooders had climbed to within striking distance and the score was 27 to 22.

Southern California was in the lead at all times and for a while in the first half it looked as though the game would result in a walk-away for the Trojans piled up 14 points before the Clubmen could locate the hoop. However the Circle "H" boys finally got started and were trailing by the more respectable score of 20 to 15 at half time.

Ken Schneider, ineligible Stanford frosh star who is playing for the club, was high-point man with 14 digits to his credit. Louis Ferris, who

Coach Philbrook May Pull Whittier College Out of Rut in Coming Track Seaso

OAK PENDLETON TOPS ATHLETES

Former Idaho Mentor Likely to Develop Talent

Poet Hopes Rise After Lean Years on Cinderpath

'Adams Strengthens Quakers in Distance Races

(This is the fifth of a series of articles dealing with track teams of Southern California institutions of learning.)

BY BRAVEN DYER

Whittier College has never occupied a prominent place on the track map of Southern California, but with George Philbrook taking over the duties as head coach the Quaker institution may soon begin to be heard from in this realm of sport. Philbrook, who also coaches the Poet gridders, has the reputation of being a first - class track mentor and if given any material to work with will probably give Whittier something to shout about.

GEORGE W. PHILBROOK

Philbrook was head track coach and assistant football mentor at Idaho before coming to Whittier. He had several good men in the North, notable among these being Cleaver, a two-miler who could run under 9m. 40s.

During the last twenty years Whittier hasn't had any track team to speak about, but several individuals kept the Quakers in the limelight from time to time. Back in 1908 there was Adrian Mills, a half-miler, who used to clean up on all the boys. He was running along about the time that Bill Himrod won all the mile races for Pomona.

Following Mills there was "Big" Rennaker, a fairish shot putter, and then Rogue, a sprinter and broad jumper. Of later years fans will remember the Murray twins, Verle and Earl. The former was a first-class hurdler, while Earl used to do some quarter-milling.

Lately Oak Pendleton has been Whittier's lone track luminary and he's running again this year. Last season he took second in the 100-yard dash and fourth in the furlong at the all-conference meet.

In a dual meet Pendleton also tosses the shot and heaves the discus, but confines himself to sprinting in the bigger struggles. With a real track coach to instruct him Pendleton may blossom out as the best sprinter in the conference, Pitzsimmey of Pomona and Ruth of Occidental being the only men capable of disputing his claim to first honors.

Cliff Adams, a team-mate of Cheeley Unruh, Trojan miler, at El Monte High School, is on the Poet team. He performs in the mile and half-mile and ought to win some points for the Quakers.

Arlington Mills is another possible digit gatherer. He appears in the javelin and half-mile.

Ray Winger, the little squirt who was such a riot on the gridiron last year, is to run the sprints with Pendleton. He is a Whittier High School boy and displayed plenty of speed on the football field.

John Baker is rated a fair broad jumper.

It is too early in the season to tell what Philbrook has in the way of material, but given a fair chance he ought to get the Quakers started in the right direction. Under his guidance the Poets climaxed a great gridiron season by trimming Occidental and Arizona and it is not unreasonable to expect that he can also perform one or two miracles in the way of developing track material.

than Russ Saunders, his nearest rival, who had 419. Jesse Hibbs, with 407, and Bert Heiser, with 406, were the other two players to turn in better than 400 minutes of play.

Just five of the nineteen men receiving letters will not be back next year. They are Drury, Heiser, Schelving, Elliott and Moser. If the remainder of the performers are back they will give Coach Howard Jones a nucleus of fourteen letter men to start the season. He could use a line-up of Tappaan and McCaslin at ends, with Boren and Steponovitch in reserve; Hibbs and Hoff, tackles; Galloway and Anthony, guards, although they played the same guard position last year; Barragar, center; Williams, quarterback; Saunders and Thomas, halfbacks, and Edelson, fullback, with Moses as a sub.

The twenty-four frosh who will receive numerals are Aspit, Barry, Beardsley, Becker, Brown, Clarke, Decker, Deranian, Duffield, Durkee, Jenkins, Larson, Mitchell, Dunn, Oldham, Phillips, Rieke, Sellers, Shaw, Snyder, Thiede, Wilcox, Zaun and Meeks. Cecil Zaun and Vaughn Deranian turned in the greatest amount of playing time with 232 and 228 minutes, respectively, to their credit.

of Miss Browne or any other ineligible player without actual application for reinstatement. Obviously the U.S.G.A. cannot go about the country calling the roll of ineligible players, asking whether they wish to be considered for reinstatement, especially if the usual three-year good-conduct period has not yet elapsed. If an exception to this rule were to be made in Miss Browne's case, and I do not think that it would, it could not be considered without an application from her. We have no controversy with Miss Browne. We have had no word from her since our action last spring. I went over the case thoroughly with her then and I think she understands our position."

So it would seem that unless Mary changes her expressed position there is no prospect of her returning to the amateur golf fold this year, or possibly until 1929.

PAUL'S DOGS, NOT FEET, WERE TOO BIG FOR MRS. BERLENBACH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The recent trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Paul Berlenbach, now happily adjusted, appears to have been due to a difference in dogs. Mr. Berlenbach has very large dogs, and Mrs. Berlenbach's dogs are quite small. I am speaking of dogs in the literal, not the poetic sense, now, for Mr. Berlenbach is one of those strange people who regard Great Danes as house pets instead of menagerie stock, and Mrs. Berlenbach is one of those equally strange people who apply insect powder to the exterior of Pekingese instead of administering it internally.

As the gossip of the small suburban cauliflower set has it, every time one of Mr. Berlenbach's Great Danes would lie down there would be a muffled squeal and a grease spot would appear on one of the Berlenbach's Chinese rugs. So Mrs. Berlenbach would cry a little and send the rug to the dog cemetery for burial, under a tombstone marked "Baby" or "Lambkins." This became quite expensive in time as Chinese rugs cost no little money, and Mr. Berlenbach's Great Danes refused to exercise any care. However, Mr. Berlenbach made no objections until one day when one of the Pekingese got into one of the Great Dane's fur, and the Great Dane with a characteristic impulse started chatting himself on the ear with a hind leg. I am told that on the second slap, the Great Dane dislodged the Pekingese and slapped it against the wall so hard that it stayed there and that Mrs. Berlenbach then wished to cut out this section of wall and bury it in the dog cemetery.

The terms of the reconciliation as I hear them are these:

That Mrs. Joe Kelly of Sparkill, N. Y., a breeder of both Great Danes and Pekingese, has agreed to produce a unique composite-type of dog, avoiding the objectionable features of each and combining the best features, if any of both.

SPANISH RING FANS PLANNING HUGE WELCOME FOR UZCUDUN

Paulino Uzcudun and his party of Spaniards will be in Los Angeles next Monday afternoon. They arrive at 5:25 and a big delegation of sport fans and Spanish celebrities will be on hand to greet him.

The Woodchopper will find himself the object of many social affairs among his own people. He is already being advertised as making an appearance at one of the theaters in Little Mexico. The same theater has asked George Godfrey to attend, also.

The Spanish fighter carries an interpreter at his elbow all the time. He was delayed in Mexico City to accept an invitation to be received by President Calles. He was originally slated to arrive here Saturday.

Jack Dempsey is making special arrangements to give Pauline comfortable quarters at the Manhattan gymnasium, where he will train the first few days. He may continue there unless his board of strategy elects to open an outdoor camp.

Godfrey is doing from ten to fifteen miles' hiking daily in his Ojai camp and Sam Baker has been dispatched to the quarters for boxing purposes. George is heavy and will have many a hard day's work ahead of him before he steps in the ring at Wrigley Field, February 28, with Paulino.

heavyweights as surprising. He said:

"That's fine, so far as I am concerned. It's O.K. with me. As things look now. I may never fight again. The injury to my eye muscle is not serious, but it may keep me out of the ring forever. If it clears up I'll be willing to fight again.

"I told Rickard that I could not be in shape for any fight in June, so it is all right with me if he has made other arrangements."

The ex-champion also said that it was "all right" with Mrs. Dempsey, Estelle Taylor of the motion pictures, whether he fought or whether he did not.

"She never interferes in my business and I don't interfere in hers," he explained.

"Personally, I am somewhat disappointed that an opponent has not been named today, as I have had visions of the champion knocking out his erstwhile contender in a fifteen-round engagement."

Tunney barely looked up from the business of unwrapping a new set of golf clubs long enough to say that Dempsey's retirement is of more concern to Rickard than it is to me; my chief concern right now is my golf game."

HOLLYWOOD CLUB TO HAVE BUSY SPORT DAY

With more than fifty entries in the A, B and novice squash tournament slated to start at the Hollywood Athletic Club today, the squash team of the H.A.C. meeting the University Club this evening, a banquet for the club's star wrestling team and a volley ball game between the men's "gym gang" and the ladie's class all slated for this afternoon and this evening the Hollywood club finds itself busier than it has been in months.

SHADE MAY GET TITLE BATTLE

the Chicago offer may not satisfy the dapper doctor.

Shade is in good shape. He thinks he fights better in California than he does in the East. He was born and raised in San Francisco.

Anderson and Shade fought a slashing bout in New York last year with the decision going to the Flynn entry. However, Anderson did considerable squawking believing that he really earned the duke. Shade took the early rounds with Anderson taking the last four in a wild fusillade of punching. It is said.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams is backing up the card with a strong semi-wind-up. He is using Andy Mitchell, the heavyweight Kearns is trying to buy, with Frank Muskie, the St. Paul slugger. Muskie worked with Gene Tunney for one of the Dempsey fights and proved the best workmate Tunney had. Mitchell went over big a few weeks ago, when he defeated the hard-punching Tom Patrick. He showed enough promise to interest several managers who are seeking one of the "million-dollar titles."

Ben Golden boxes Joe Pimenthal in the special event. The two fours are Tony Tovar vs. Jack O'Brien and Fred Hawkins vs. Roy White.

The weight for the Shade-Anderson scrap is 160 pounds.

NEW BOXING RULE FOR PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Boxing Commission today adopted the closed-ballot rule whereby the individual opinion of the two judges and the referee will not be announced. Hereafter only the decision will be given the public and no reference will be made as to whether the judges agreed on decision or whether the referee gave the final verdict.

This action follows a rumpus at a boxing bout here Monday, when a large number of spectators objected to a decision.

AMERICAN SCHEDULE APPROVED

Club Owners Okeh 1928 Line-ups; Most Valuable Player to Get $1000

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Club owners of the American League approved the 1928 schedule of the American League and a $1000 cash award to all future winners of the "most valuable player" contest today and began consideration of the perennial draft problem.

The draft conference of French Lick in January, 1927, was revived, and, after debate of several hours, was referred back to the advisory board. League spokesmen said the failure to get this French Lick report before the Dallas convention of the minor leagues last December was the cause of the minors' mild insurrection over the draft at that time. Since then the minors have voted to withdraw their ultimatum to the majors and the big five minors, which would have compelled the big five to accept the universal draft of players without restrictions, such as the smaller minors operate under now.

Six players have been awarded the annual honor of "most valuable player" to his team, since the league began this custom in 1923. Heretofore the player received only an engrossed diploma, but future recipients will get a $1000 check. Past winners have been George Sisler, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Roger Peckinpaugh, George Burns and Lou Gehrig. Two years ago three veterans were also given diplomas for honors won before the custom was inaugurated—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins.

One of the Dallas minor league suggestions, on the drafting of umpires as players are drafted, was brought up today, but no action was taken.

plons of the English army polo teams. The Marquis himself is one of the best-known polo'sts on the Continent.

The Spanish nobleman went to an enormous expense to bring his present team to the Coast for the open championship matches of the West Slope. Capt. McCreery and Capt. Forrester shipped their ponies direct from London for the games here. Both McCreery and Forrester are splendid defensive polo players, while East needs no introduction to local fans as forward. East, one of the trickiest polo players in the game, is always good for an afternoon of thrills whenever he plays.

Midwick will send at least two of its highest rated players into the contest Sunday. The line-up for the Purple team will be announced by Carleton Burke, team captain, and president of the Midwick club, later in the week. Following the visit of the Del Monte team the incomparable Tommy Hitchcock and his friends Point open championship four will come to Midwick for a high-goal series.

valuable running mate for McIsaac. McEachen at center and Tunney and Donahue at guards will most likely be the starting line-up.

In Barellies, a forward, Coach Needles of St. Ignatius has a star performer that so performs. He is a master dribbler, a dead shot and has an uncanny way of handling the palota. In all games he has averaged 12 points. Against California he nearly defeated the Bears single-handed, scoring 16 digits himself against the total of 19 for the Bears. He is considered as the most finished forward in Northern California by most of the wiser ones.

The probable line-ups:

Loyola.		St. Ignatius.
1 McIsaac (C.)	Forward	R. Mahoney 4
3 Dwyer	Forward	Barellies 12
6 McEachen	Center	Hale 10
9 Tunney	Guard	Partridge (C.) 3
7 Donahue	Guard	Cameron 6

Substitutes: Loyola—2, Fitzgerald; 5, Marshall; 6, Vandesang; 8, Joyce; 10, Haggerty. St. Ignatius—2, Fowler; 5, Strut; 7, Glass; 8, Kenny; 10, Reichlin; 13, Visotin; 15, O'Marie; 14, C. Malone; 16, McEnerney; 17, Barron.

FRIEDMAN HAS BIG BACKFIELD

be at fullback with with his 205 pounds of drive, while Oscar Welberg, a 210-pounder, and Ed Feather, who tops the beam at a mere 195, will take care of the halfback positions. Add Friedman, himself, to this trio and you can see for yourself that the Bulldogs have a capable quartet of ball packers. Friedman is the midget of the lot, weighing 180 pounds, but Benny wasn't named all-American without a reason.

The return of Feather to the Bulldog line-up will be a big help to Friedman's eleven, for the former Kansas Aggie star is a brilliant receiver of Benny's bullet-like passes, and he also can hit the line plenty hard. Feather injured his ankle in the previous game against Grange's team and his absence was sorely felt last week in the Bulldog's clash against Nevers's outfit.

Nevers and Feather will give the Bulldogs two powerful line plungers, while Friedman's passing ability gives the squad a scoring threat that can't be overlooked. Nevers is also a great passer, as well as a punter of no mean ability.

Sunday's game will decide the Coast pro-football league championship, and the players on both sides are practicing hard for the clash.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

FOR the first time in the three years he has been rattling back and forth between his baronage at Philadelphia and Los Angeles Jimmy Dougherty came ot town unheralded last Saturday. If you know the "Baron" you know that was a terrific concession. There is nothing he likes better than an audience.

Two hours of one-sided conversation enlightened me on this unusual display of self-denial. It seems the good "Baron" desired to seclude his black warrior, George Godfrey, before any of George's black friends of Central avenue knew he was here. George is quit a social lion in his own sphere, and the "Baron" has George here this time for anything but social functions. He is so serious about it that he has a guard posted at Soper's Ranch to keep inquisitive folks away from George.

The good "Baron" was very much interested in reading "Upside Down" Uzcudun's remarks to President Calles of Mexico. "So Uzcudun is going to knock out Godfrey and Dempsey and then go after Tunney," mused the "Baron."

"Well, I'll just bet the baronage at Leiperville that Godfrey isn't stopped by Uzcudun, and when George gets through with him we want Jack Sharkey again. I've never forgotten that Boston decision nearly two years ago. Improved fighter that he is, Godfrey nevertheless won that fight in Beantown."

Although it is entirely aside from the Godfrey-Uzcudun issue of battle late this month, I am reminded that the good "Baron" also has another fighter, and a darned good one in Joe Anderson, who meets Dave Shade at the Olympic next week. Dave is the guy, you know, who all but stopped Mickey Walker two years ago, and there was quite a little hue and cry about Mickey having been heard over the radio begging Dave to let him stay the limit.

And Joe is the chap who floored Leo Lomski and is the foe the New York Boxing Commission wants Walker to defend his middleweight title against. Joe is quite willing to meet Shade, but Walker isn't, so if you think Walker is going to clamber into the ring against Anderson you're more optimistic than I am.

Proving that the heavyweights can outsell the little fellows ten to one and then some, probably, Morris Cohan will play to another packed house at his Pasadena arena tonight, when Mack House and "Indian" George Lamson will trade wallops. House is the ebony thunderbolt who stopped Joe Woods two weeks ago, while Lamson has a record of knockouts including one over Jack Dorcall, Jack Kearns's heavyweight; Benny Touchstone, "Big Boy" Peterson, Frank Farmer and other ponderous fellows. At one time he was said to have been matched to meet Jack Sharkey, but the bout was called off on account of an injury to the latter's hand.

The story that "Uncle Tom" McCarey may be granted a license to stage fights in California again revives memories of the old promoter's historic days at Nauj Junction. "Uncle Tom" staged some of the greatest fights ever held in this State, including many a championship battle. Probably the one that stands out as a landmark was the Rivers-Wolgast battle for the lightweight title in 1912.

Both fighters knocked each other out in the thirteenth round, but Referee Welch of San Francisco raised Wolgast, the champion, and counted out Rivers. Names that were prominent on many a McCarey card include those of Tommy Burns, "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, Jim Flynn, Aurelio Herrera, Billy Papke, Stanley Ketchel, Freddie Welsh, Owen Moran and many others too numerous to mention.

Baseball! That's a business.

Play, not work, is what brings in the dough these days.

Babe Ruth has been collecting $3000 a week during his well-earned vacation.

All you baseball bugs who get $3000 for a whole year's work stand up.

Very well, you may both sit down.

Ty Cobb accepted $40,000 per annum last season. He could have had $50,000, but he took the smaller sum, figuring that if he got released he wouldn't be out so much.

Judge Landis don't even play and he takes in $75,000 the year. Of course, that's not so much. Coolidge gets it and goodness knows, he's no drawing card.

The more I see of professional sports the better I like checkers. There's a game that's played on the square.

Ira Dern Signs to Meet Roller in Mat Tangle

The fastest and most spectacular 190-pound grappler in the country, Ira Dern, the Mormon sensation, has been signed by Lou Daro, local wrestling promoter, to meet Jack Roller, the mauling 220-pound German mat champion, in the special event of his mat show at the Olympic next Wednesday night.

Dern, who is making his first appearance outside of Salt Lake City in many months, is a former world's light-heavyweight champion. He has beaten every heavyweight of any consequence to pass through the Mormon State. He is the biggest mat card in Utah and never failed to pack the arena wherever he wrestled.

Pilots Prepare for Ascot Race

Workmen manicuring the final wrinkles out of Ascot speedway were hurried off the course yesterday afternoon when a half-dozen cars scheduled to race Sunday afternoon appeared at the oval for a warming-up jaunt.

Babe Stapp, Los Angeles youth, who followed up his graduation at the old Ascot track by sensational performances on the board and brick speedways of the frozen East, furnished the sensations for the afternoon when he looped the track a couple of times in under thirty seconds without giving his motor all it would stand.

While Stapp was stepping on the throttle, Lou Moore, Bill Spence and Mel Kenealey were warming up their Ford racing models, but none of these sensational youngsters attempted any speed trials. They will be back again today and run any kinks that may develop in the motors out of the mounts they will pilot Sunday.

LAMAR MEETS GANS AT CULVER TONIGHT

Baby Joe Gans, the "Ebony Thunderbolt" from over Central-avenue way, will jump into the ring tonight at Culver City against Johnny Lamar in the ten-round main event of the weekly show. Gans is a 10-to-6 favorite along Spring street's betting row, but Lamar is being conceded a good chance to upset the dope. Shortenders have done a lot of winning lately and the Mexican is in good enough shape to give Gans the fight of his life.

Luis Ramos of Panama and "Red" Humphries of El Paso are down for the six-round semi-wind-up. They are a pair of classy bantams who never stop throwing punches. Frankie Tierney will meet Twain Mark in the special event. The two fours bring together Johnny Williams and Jimmy De Mint, and Rudy Guyton and George Carpinson.

TROJAN CAGERS DOWN CLUBMEN

filled in at center for the Trojans in place of Capt. Jack Bruner, who is down with a case of tonsilitis, rang up 10 points to lead the Cardinal and Gold squad in scoring. Lehners and Mortensen also performed creditably for the victors.

In the preliminary game the Trojan frosh were given a 38-to-17 thumping by the Manual Arts all-stars.

Line-ups:

Southern California: Forwards, Mortensen (7,) McCalla (3,) Halstead; centers, Ferris (10,) Hinther, Ferguson (6,) Sibley (4,) guards, Lehners (7,) Lewis (4,) Thomas, Bohn.

Hollywood: Forwards, Schneiders (14,) George (1,) Seiler; centers, Fagan (2,) Jansen (5,) Brinkman, McCandless; guards, Harris (1,) Armstrong (3,)

Officials: Dempsey, referee; Ayres, umpire.

HARD TO BEAT

The Toronto Varsity Grads, who will defend their 1924 Olympic hockey title at St. Moritz, Switzerland, have suffered but two defeats out of forty-seven games played in the last two years.

MAC SMITH HEAVY FAVORITE TO ANNEX TEXAS OPEN GOLF

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Macdonald Smith of New York, loomed as a heavy favorite here tonight as practice for the Texas open golf tournament, which starts tomorrow, ended. Smith, in several rounds of the course, has been consistently near par figures.

None of the players paid much attention to scores today. Bill Mehlhorn of Pittsburgh turned in a 73, two over par, but the others picked up on many holes, conceded themselves putts and played second balls, keeping no count of their strokes.

One hundred and six amateur-pro teams will compete tomorrow in a best-ball event, the winning pros to receive $100, $50 and $25 and the amateur members of the winning teams gold, silver and bronze medals.

Angelenos Ask for Ring Bouts Spanish Style

Spanish fighters promise to be all the rage in Los Angeles as a result of the match between Paulino Uscudun, the Basque woodschopper, and George Godfrey here the 28th inst.

Matchmaker Hayden Wadhams of the Olympic Auditorium yesterday practically completed arrangements for a bout between Hilario Martinez and Baby Joe Gans the 21st inst.

Martinez recently beat Sid Terris in New York and belongs to the same stable as Uscudun. He had Terris on the floor several times. Another stablemate of Uscudun's, Tony Ascension probably will spear on the same card as Martinez.

With the Martinez-Gans match sewed up Wadhams will have the following February card up his sleeve:

February 7—Joe Anderson vs. Dave Shade.

February 14—Jackie Fields vs. Vince Dundee.

February 21—Hilario Martinez vs. Baby Joe Gans.

February 28—George Godfrey vs. Paulino Uscudun.

"Pro" Football Gains Foothold

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Plans for a "bigger and better" professional football season next fall, with competition with the college game, were announced today by Mervyn Cowan, promoter.

The 1928 season of the professional football league will open in the middle of September and continue for three months, Cowan said games will be played on Sundays, as in the past, both here and in Los Angeles. For the past two years, the "pro" season has started around the first of the year and continued for about two months.

By opening in September the professionals will compete with smaller colleges and universities and amateur clubs in this district. St. Mary's College, Santa Clara University, St. Ignatius College, the Olympic Club and others play many of their games in San Francisco on Sunday.

Cowan also said that Red Grange, leader of the Yankees pro eleven, plans to take up permanent residence in Los Angeles soon and probably will lead a club representing the southern city in the league.

Pomona Cagers Ready for Oxy

CLAREMONT, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—With his athletes all in the pink of condition, "Beefy" Heath, Pomona basketball coach, winds up training tomorrow for the Pomona-Occidental clash here Saturday night. The rival quintets play a double-header this year, meeting at Claremont this week and at Occidental the 25th inst. Oxy is at present leading the Southern Conference standings with Pomona and Redlands in a tie for second place.

The Sagehen cagers have been improving in condition ever since the opening of the season and have about reached the high point this week. Heath gave them hard workouts on Monday and Tuesday nights and began tapering down tonight. A bit of signal drill and shooting practice is all on the menu for Thursday night and there will be no workout Friday.

MIKE O'DOWD TRIMS YOUNG NATIONALISTA

Midget Mike O'Dowd, Ohio bantamweight, defeated Young Nationalista, Filipino scrapper, after ten rounds of milling in the Wilmington main event last night. In the semi-wind-up Goldie Hess decisioned Vernon Jackson in six. The other bouts: Mike Holland beat Marcellino Ortego in six rounds; Aurelio Mission won from Roy White in the first when the referee tossed White out of the ring for stalling, and Phillip Tantere trimmed Mickey Orosco in the opener.

SWEENEY KNOCKS OUT ART CRAIG IN FIFTH

Pat Sweeney, local 122-pounder, won on a technical knockout over Art Craig in the fifth round of the scheduled eight-round main event at Ocean Park last night. In the other bouts Harlow Navis beat June LaGera in six rounds, Sammy Aquirre bested Mickey Jennings in a six-rounder, Bill Coykendall trimmed Marco Morales in four, and Buck Atkins defeated George Hicton in the curtain-raiser.

OBSERVATIONS

THIS Dempsey business—will he fight?—reminds us of the days previous to the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby. Up until twenty-four hours before the fight, it was on and off every few minutes. We all went down to Great Falls, which was the scene of the rumpus, Dempsey, Kearns and Banker Stanton being there, while Banker Jim Johnson likewise spent more time there than in Shelby. Most of the newspaper men were there running around with their tongues hanging out and pursuing one wild rumor after another from midnight until midnight. After twenty-four hours of this hithering and thithering a number of notables, including Grantland Rice, Heywood Broun, Richard Meany Little, Bide Dudley, Bob Edgren, Hugh Fullerton and Yours Truly decided to leave the latest bulletins on the fight to the Associated Press—which never sleeps (advt.)—and returned to Jim Keeley's Pullman club car on the side track at Shelby, where we whiled away the hours at such exciting pastimes as seeing Tom Gibbons elected an injun chief, etc. The trouble at Great Falls was that Kearns kept the question open so long that all the special trains were called off and he didn't get near as much money as he would have if he had made up his mind to fight a few days earlier.

They're certainly getting all excited over the 1928 Olympiad over in Amsterdam, according to the director of the Royal Dutch Airlines, Mr. Plesman, who has been spending a couple of days in our fair city. Mr. Plesman says that the new stadium, seating 40,000 people, which has been built on the outskirts of Amsterdam, is a beauty and that the Dutch people are expecting to have such a successful series of games that Los Angeles will have to shake a leg in 1932 to improve on them. He adds that they have some Dutch girl swimmers over there who are extremely hard to beat and not so difficult to look at. Sounds like good advertising for the games.

Incidentally, Mr. Plesman went out to that well-known scene of indoor athletic activity, the Cocoanut Grove, along with Harris Hanshue, who used to make a point a minute for Michigan before he started to make a dollar a minute for the Western Air Express. There we saw other noted athletes hard at work, including Sir Charles Paddock, Walter Hagen, who wins the professional golf championship so often it makes the other pros sick, and Lou Daro, who was trying out a few new holds on the dance floor. The boys were apparently getting a fine workout, as they were perspiring freely.

As we recollect it, a lot of good heavy roadwork has been done in the cabarets by such celebrities as Harry Greb, with no little success, so we can think of no good reason why our local athletes shouldn't do as well.

Lamson Faces House Tonight

Morris Cohan, the boy fight promoter, will stage another of his own heavyweight elimination contests which have become so popular at Pasadena, when he throws Mack House, negro sensation and "Indian" George Lamson of Portland, into the ring tonight at the Crown City arena in a ten-round bout. Lamson is one of the most highly touted heavyweights that has come to the Coast in some time. He claims a new record in knockouts and he should be a real test case for House.

Cohan is also offering a fine supporting card tonight. In the semi-wind-up, Pat Corbett of San Francisco, tackles Tony Tovar, sturdy Mexican middleweight. These two boys would rather slug than to eat. The four-rounders on the card are Al Sing vs. Sal Matoras; Quincy Pope vs. Joe Hernandez and Oscar Sifuente meets Jack Haywood.

Hockey Stars Clash Tonight

Another spectacular ice-hockey game in the West Coast Professional League, is expected to take place tonight, at the Palais de Glace, when Mal Malwick's Hollywood Millionaires and Doc Scott's Los Angeles Maroons battle it out for a commanding position and the right to represent the West in the post-season series. Richfield Oilers are leading the league, but only 3 points separate them from Hollywood.

With two straight victories behind them, the Millionaires will attempt to make it three in a row, but to do that they will have to overcome a battling Maroon squad that is out to vindicate themselves for losing their last two starts.

M'Graw Signs Up Andy Cohen

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Andy Cohen, young second baseman, whom John McGraw considers the most likely successor to Rogers Hornsby, today signed a contract with the New York Giants for 1928. A Texas product, Cohen starred with Buffalo last season in the International League where he was shipped by the Giants for further seasoning.

PENDER SKATES TO NEW COAST RECORD

Emil Pender of San Diego won the Pacific Coast ice skating half-mile championship last night at the Palais de Glace and succeeded in whizzing to a new Coast record by covering the distance in 1m. 28s. The previous record was held by Everett McGowan at 1:28.2. By setting a new mark Pender won the Alfred Johnson trophy.

Red Hogan, San Francisco ice-cutter, followed Pender for second honors, while Carl Jacobs of Huntington Park skated into third place.

All players are urged to read without fail the announcement of an Answer Book in next Sunday's Times that will be an invaluable aid in winning a prize.

Numerous queries have been received from players who want to know how they may give more than one title to each picture. Players who already have their catalogue may obtain back pictures thus far published by enclosing 4 cents in stamps. With the Answer Book, however, extra sets of pictures will not be needed—only the daily picture printed in The Times. Don't miss next Sunday's Picturegame announcement.

QUESTION BOX

Apparently nothing is going to escape the eagle eyes of Picturegame players! Numerous letters have been received, calling attention to a mistake in the text that appeared beneath a "sample" picture in the advertisement of January 24. While the picture was not one of the 77 for which titles are to be chosen, many players wanted to know if the title given, "The Peeper," was intended to fit the picture. It was, of course, a typographical error, and should have read, "The Reaper."

• • • •

D.M.K., Los Angeles—Is the most prominent object or idea in each picture intended to indicate the title? ANSWER—The picture as a whole is intended to suggest the title. Players must decide if any one object assumes major importance.

• • • •

J.C.S., Ludlow—There is a possibility of one title fitting more than one picture. What's the solution to the problem? ANSWER—It is permissible to use the same title more than once, if desired.

• • • •

M.E.F.—Is it against the rules to cut out just the pictures and paste them on a background, such as a card, and then write the title beneath the picture? ANSWER—Rule No. 5 provides that titles must appear on coupons. There is no objection, however, to mounting the coupon and picture, in entirety, on cardboard or other background. No doubt the Answer Book would be exactly what you would want. It will be announced in next Sunday's Times.

• • • •

M.C., Ventura—All back pictures are given free with the purchase of catalogue at 10c.

• • • •

R.R.S., Altadena—Are all titles in Catalogue actual titles of books, or are they interspersed with titles not of books? ANSWER—Every title in the Catalogue is the title of a book that has actually been published.

• • • •

A.M.B., Holtville—May I get three similar pictures from three copies of The Times of same date so as to make three complete sets of answers? ANSWER—Yes, but this may be entirely eliminated by the use of Answer Book to be announced in next Sunday's Times.

• • • •

M.S., Los Angeles—Must I subscribe to "The Times" in order to enter the Picturegame? Must you enter my name on your records? ANSWER—(1) A subscription is not required. (2) It is not necessary to enter your name on records.

BY LEE SHIPPEY

POETS are not made, but born, birth control still being an uncertain science.

No one would intentionally make a poet, since the most poetic are so likely to turn out like Shelley while the least poetic are almost certain to become song writers. Yet it seems to the editors that there must be a poet born every minute.

No, poets are not made, but there are plenty of maid-poets, both young and not so.

It used to be that only people with some idea of either rhyme or meter could be poets, but free verse was invented to give everybody a chance.

All you need to be accepted as a poet nowadays is the gall to look serious when you call yourself one, though a gift for obscurity helps a lot.

The world always has marched, fought, loved and rejoiced to the rhythm of poetry, while it has a hard time doing any of those things to rhythmless words. Yet many leading poets have no time for such wornout tricks. They are too busy annihilating the reputations of old masters who still will be lighthouses on the shores of time long after the annihilators have been forgotten.

Yes, Palomine, anybody can be a poet now. But, as it was in the beginning, you can't expect the world to march and sing and work to your words unless they keep some sort of time.

CHUCKLES from LIFE

No Obligation

I am the most sought-after man in town.

Automobiles line the sidewalk in front of my house.

A steady stream of well-dressed men presents itself at my modest door.

Another stream of equally splendid appearance and possibly greater proportions waits upon me constantly at my office.

My home and office phones are constantly ringing, from early morning until late at night.

If I were to accept all the urgent invitations pressed upon me, my day would have to contain at least fifty-five hours.

Beautiful and costly gifts are pressed upon me. My supply of cigars is now sufficient to meet my needs until late in the spring.

Our home is a bower of flowers, presented by our new friends. There is enough candy lying around to make an army of small boys sick for a week.

Daily the attentions directed at me are becoming more pressing.

ARMS MYSTERY INQUIRY LIKELY

League Action Expected in Hungarian Incident

Little Entente Powers Plan to Send Joint Notes

Shipment of Machine Guns Violation of Treaty

GENEVA, Feb. 1. (AP)—Investigation of the mysterious arrival of 2000 machine guns on the Hungarian-Austrian frontier asserted to have been destined for Hungary, discovery of which has caused much commotion in political circles in Europe, appears scheduled to come before the League of Nations.

It was announced today that the machine-gun incident will be the subject of notes from the Little Entente powers to the League, since shipment of arms into Hungary is in violation of the treaty of Trianon by which peace was established between Hungary and the Allied powers.

The plan is for Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania to transmit separate notes to the League secretariat asking that the question be put upon the agenda of the March session of the Council, with the idea that the Council will vote an investigation.

The consignment of machine guns, which is asserted to have come from an Italian firm, has been causing excitement in political circles in Europe, especially as reports have been current that Rumania is hesitating to join her partners in the Little Entente, consisting of Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania, in the protest.

If the joint notes are received they will constitute the first case involving the "right of investigation" by the League Council into the armaments of former enemy powers.

TURK MATES IN HEAVY DEMAND

Thousand Russia Women Must Get Husbands Quick or Go Back to Russia

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 1. (AP)—One thousand white Russian women are looking for Turkish husbands. Unless they find them by the 6th inst., and through marriage become Turkish citizens, they will have to leave the land where they have found shelter since the debacle of Wrangel's army. Among the 1879 white Russian men who are still here, only four of the 900 who have applied for Turkish citizenship have been accepted, and only three have requested and been granted soviet citizenship.

THOUSANDS FILE BY HAIG'S COFFIN

Historic Gun Carriage Will Bear Body to Abbey

Battle-Maimed and Society Matrons in Line

Widow Scatters Poppies on War Hero's Bier

LONDON, Feb. 1. (AP)—When the body of Field Marshal Earl Haig, who commanded the mightiest army Great Britain ever mustered, is taken to Westminster Abbey on Friday it will be borne on a historic gun carriage—the carriage of the gun which fired the first British shell in the great war, and the one that was used at the burial of the Unknown Soldier.

War widows and battle-maimed men trudged in the slow column which moved through St. Columba's Church tonight past the field marshal's bier.

THOUSANDS VIEW BIER

All day long and until late at night thousands of men, women and children filed past the flag-draped coffin, guarded by tall, smartly uniformed soldiers, whose heads were bowed, with hands resting on the hilts of their inverted sabers.

Many in the solemn throng which paid farewell homage to the war chief were weeping; many brought bouquets of red poppies—memorials of the terrible, gallant fighting in Flanders and emblem of the beloved field marshal's tireless efforts to aid the war victims who still survive.

LADY HAIG FIRST

First to come to the church where the dead leader lay, was Lady Haig, her face obscured by a heavy veil. For a time she stood alone by the bier of her husband—then scattered poppies on the coffin, near the medals, the helmet, baton and sword of the marshal.

As she departed the great gates opened to admit the first of the long line, in which stood women in rich furs and others in faded cloaks, men in silk hats and men with ragged caps in their hands.

GERMANY EAGER TO HEAL BREACH

Understanding With France Declared Objective

Stresemann Asks Old Foe to Give Co-operation

Evacuation of Rhine Asked as Good-Will Sign

BERLIN, Feb. 1. (AP)—Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany today declared that all parties in the German Cabinet, including the Nationalists, advocate a policy of Franco-German understanding and made an appeal to France to do her share to make this policy possible.

"I have demanded evacuation of the Rhineland again and again in order thereby to make possible real conciliation and active co-operation between these two peoples. Dr. Stresemann told the Reichstag in a speech closing the two-day debate on the Foreign Office budget.

WARNING ISSUED

"There is no people which has so little interest in warlike complications, and which in the event of war, would so risk its very existence as Germany. The Locarno agreements were intended to clear the track for co-operation between all the nations concerned. Precisely because I wish that this idea of co-operation shall become the common property of the whole German people do I, who always fought for this policy, consider myself entitled to warn the French nation: 'Do your share so this policy may become the common property of the German people.'"

Then raising his voice, Foreign Minister Stresemann made the plea to France:

"Raise the iron curtain in the Rhineland which separates us; make it possible for an era of active co-operation and good-will to ensue."

GAINING GROUND

Asserting Germany's willingness to come to a complete understanding with France, the Foreign Minister said that this desire has gained ground in Germany daily.

"The doubting voices in the Reichstag are isolated and do not represent the majority of the German people, nor the Cabinet, which unanimously stands for a policy of reconciliation," he declared. "Germany demands evacuation of the Rhineland for political and not material reasons, because she does not want this generation to fail to seize the opportunity for a Franco-German rapprochement."

In France, also, the Foreign Minister asserted, the circle of adherents to this policy of rapprochement is widening constantly.

Trial of Clark Probable in May

MANTI (Utah) Feb 1. (AP)—Sheldon Clark, 25 years of age, charged with first-degree murder for the slaying of Don Solovich, former Hollywood butler, on January 6, last, near Gunnison, Utah, was bound over to the Seventh District Court for trial at the completion of his preliminary hearing today.

Court attaches said the case probably will be called some time in May.

STEEL COST CUT BY NEW METHOD

Latest Process Cheap, Like That for Pig Iron

Coking Coal Unnecessary in Making of Metal

Energy Heretofore Wasted Harnessed and Used

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Perfection of a method of making steel, independent of coking coal and at a cost of pig iron, is announced by the American Research Corporation.

The new process, says Edward F. Chandler, vice-president of the company, utilizes energy heretofore wasted in the blast furnace, harnessing internal thermo-chemical interactions to supply the heat and energy needed for making steel.

Technically known as a semidirect method, the procedure first converts the iron ore into sponge which is chemically treated, then fed continuously to a retort of unique design, melted and finally alloyed to produce steel of the desired specifications.

"Certain steel organizations have investigated the new process," Mr. Chandler asserts, "and negotiations now are progressing toward building the initial plant on a production scale.

SELECTION OF LOCATIONS

"The selection of strategic locations for the various contemplated plants is important to give full effect to the economic gains made possible by the low cost of the finished product, the handling of the ore and the independence from coking coal, which is a premium fuel restricted to certain localities.

"The advantages of using sponge iron in the production of steel long has been recognized, but the practice heretofore has not been economical. Our metallurgical engineers and chemists have been engaged on the problem of producing steel directly from the ore for a considerable period.

"Certain ingenious, though simple, apparatus has been developed whereby energy, hitherto wasted, has been conserved and put to work effectively in reducing fuel costs and improving the quality of the product.

BASIS OF PROCEDURE

"The procedure is based almost entirely upon known and thoroughly proven methods now in successful operation in the steel industry. The principles are applied, however, in a new scientific manner calculated to realize best the benefits of the underlying basic discovery.

"The process can be operated in single production units, several of which may be co-ordinated to function virtually as one production plant. This permits a tremendous fuel saving compared with the blast furnace, open-hearth method in use today.

"Many of the accepted traditions of the steel industry must give way to marked modifications when smaller plants are enabled to compete successfully with plants representing many times their capital investment."

'Chasers' Ruled Out of Atlanta Soda Fountains

ATLANTA (Ga.) Feb. 1. (Exclusive) A campaign by the Georgia Health Department against drugless drugstores burst, boom-like, into the ranks of Atlanta's office tipplers here today, with consternation in its wake.

The State Board of Health, in an order which will affect fountain dispensaries throughout Georgia, forbids the sale of bromo seltzer, sal hepatica and sodium bicarb (baking soda) among many other things in one-glass quantities to the casual customer. Like every other city, Atlanta has its quota of drinkers. They usually sink a snifter or two, chase it with a bromo and go home to explain. Tonight they were astonished, on applying for the usual bracer, to find that glass service was forbidden. But, they were told, they could buy a bottle and mix it for themselves.

Police are actively engaged in enforcing the order; meantime there is much complaint, but no person has cared to test the legality of the order.

Negro Seaman Plays Role of Picture Subject

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Unaware of having duplicated in life a famous painting, Jim Betzel, 26-year-old negro, saved after drifting 700 miles at sea in an open boat, was preparing to return home to Florida today.

If Betzel should stray into the Metropolitan Museum of Art before leaving he might see Winslow Homer's "The Gulf Stream," famous painting of a half-nude black prone on a dismasted skiff with sharks cutting the waves about him, and Betzel might well think it was a picture of himself.

Betzel left West Palm Beach on January 17 to take a gasoline launch back to its owner, thirty-four miles away. About half way the engine "died," and from then on there was nothing to do but drift. On the tenth night he attracted the attention of the steamer Pinar Del Rio of the American Cuban Steamship Line and was taken aboard.

Habrá Oposición en la Cámara Contra el "Bill" Sobre Marina Mercante

WASHINGTON, Febrero 1.—Espérase que vaya a haber considerable oposición en la cámara contra el proyecto de ley de Johnson sobre marina mercante del Gobierno, en la forma en que ha sido aprobado por el senado. Aun antes de recibirse informe oficial de la actitud del senado, veíase claro hoy que muchos líderes republicanos de la cámara baja se proponen luchar vigorosamente contra esa medida, encaminada a ensanchar la marina mercante norteamericana y a mantenerla bajo el gobierno de la administración.

En el grupo de diputados oposicionistas está el señor Tilson, de Connecticut, líder tribunicio de la mayoría, quien dice que desaprueba el proyecto de referencia, a menos que se le modifique considerablemente.

Hace reparos a la proposición de que se necesite el consentimiento unánime de la Junta de Navegación para vender cualquiera de los barcos del gobierno, y duda de la cordura del propósito de poner otra vez en condiciones de servicio muchos de los barcos ya descartados.

Coolidge Prestará Acatamiento a Andrew Jackson

WASHINGTON, Febrero 1.—Ha aceptado hoy el Presidente Coolidge la invitación que se le hizo para pronunciar una alocución el 15 de Abril venidero, aceptando, por parte del gobierno, una estatua de Andrew Jackson erigida por el Estado de Tennessee en la sala de las estatuas del capitolio.

Declaró el Presidente ser un gran admirador de Jackson, y sentirse satisfecho de tener ocasión de señalar públicamente el envidiable lugar que ocupa ese héroe en la historia de los Estados Unidos.

Mussolini Va a Combinar sus Fuerzas

ROMA, Febrero 1.—El primer ministro Mussolini ha anunciado hoy que las milicias fascistas, en tiempo de guerra, serán incorporadas al ejército regular italiano.

Dijo el dictador que, bajo instrucciones suyas, el estado mayor general ha resuelto el problema de la incorporación de las milicias voluntarias. "con visión muy clara, y que mucho le honra, de los nuevos tiempos y de los sucesos probables.

"Estoy seguro", manifestó el primer ministro, "de que la legión sabrá ser digna de este honor supremo, preparándose desde ahora para convertirse en tropas de choque. Deberán sus hombres perpetuar las tradiciones marciales de los Arditi (famosas tropas italianas) y de los fascistas guerreros, yendo al combate con una daga entre los dientes, una granada en la mano, y un sublime desprecio del peligro en el corazón."

Alemania Tiene Anhelo de que Sane la Liga

BERLIN, Febrero 1.—Ha declarado hoy el ministro de Relaciones alemán Stresemann que todos los partidos representados en el gabinete de su país, incluso los nacionalistas, abogan por una política de inteligencia francogermana, y le ha encarecido a Francia que haga lo que esté de su parte para que resulte posible dicha política.

"Una y otra vez he pedido la evacuación de la Renania para que lleguen a ser un hecho la verdadera conciliación y la activa cooperación entre los dos pueblos", dijo al Reichstag el doctor Stresemann, en el discurso con que terminó el debate de dos días sobre presupuesto del ministerio de Relaciones.

Después de asegurar que no hay al presente ningún pueblo menos interesado que el alemán en complicaciones belicosas, y más ansioso de cooperar a una política de paz y amistad entre él y las potencias vecinas, concluyó su discurso elevando la voz y dirigiendo esta súplica a Francia:

"Alzad esa cortina de hierro que en Renania nos tiene separados; haced posible el advenimiento de una era de activa cooperación y de buena voluntad recíproca."

Dos Baronesas Húngaras Visitan a Hollywood

La aristocracia de pega tiene ahora más imán que la real, pues atraídas por la nobleza pantallesca de los actores de Hollywood, han visitado ayer los estudios de dicho lugar dos baronesas húngaras llegadas aquí en el Caledonia, vapor de la compañía Cunard-Anchor, a bordo del cual están dando la vuelta al mundo. Apenas hubo atracado el barco, marcharon a tierra las señoras mencionadas, diciendo que en cualquier momento les era dable ponerse en contacto con gente de rancios pergaminos; pero que sólo en Hollywood podrían contemplar de bulto a las encantadoras princesas de cinelandia, que están creando una nueva concepción de la nobleza.

Una y otra de estas aristócratas fueron condecoradas por su bizarría en el frente italiano durante la guerra mundial. La Baronesa Hatvany visita por segunda vez a Los Angeles, adonde no venía desde hace veinte años. La Baronesa Edith V. Weiss viene a esta población por primera vez. Ambas continuarán su viaje a bordo del paquebote que las trajo a estas playas. La mañana de hoy zarparán rumbo a Hawaii y el Oriente.

NEW FREAK TWIST GIVEN MATRIMONY

Annapolis Rites Join Pair in "Partnership Marriage" Sans Ring and Flowers

ANNAPOLIS (Md.) Feb. 1. (AP)—A ceremony described as the first "partnership marriage" was performed in the cellar of a fraternity house on St. John's College campus.

As the happy pair came up the basement steps a jazz band broke into a syncopated wedding march, and fraternity brothers of the groom, five of whom had dressed in women's clothing to act as "bridesmaids," cheered as the bridal couple reached the first floor.

The ceremony, the climax of a courtship of more than two years, "united in the holy bond of partnership wedlock" Walter W. Phillips of Camden, N. J., a St. John's College student, and Miss Margaret J. Rochester of Baltimore. The marriage was performed by the minister of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church.

"We do not consider the marriage ceremony essential," Phillips said, "but realize that we have to conform in some measure to the rules of society. For the words, 'until death do us part,' we mentally substituted 'until love dies.'

"We decided to get married with certain understandings. For instance, neither is obligated to support the other."

The five men students in the garb of bridesmaids did not scramble for the bride's bouquet—for there wasn't any—neither was there a ring—as that was ruled out.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips went to New York on their honeymoon.

Paris-New York Flight Planned by Frenchmen

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1. (AP)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, the French flyers who were first to make a nonstop flight across the South Atlantic, have definitely decided to attempt a Paris-to-New York flight this coming summer at a date yet to be decided.

The aviators, on their way to New York after touring South America by air, asfhounced the plan at a dinner given them by Dwight W. Morrow, American Ambassador to Mexico.

The Frenchmen expect to leave Saturday morning for New Orleans, arriving there Saturday night. They have been informed that an escort of seven Mexican army planes will accompany them to the border.

The sign is fifty-five feet high, 100 feet long, and is lighted by 8115 lamps, which are connected with twenty miles of wire. It was constructed for an automobile concern.

One hundred and thirty-five members of the Swedish Riksdag have proposed his name to the Norwegian committee which awards the peace prize.

KING TUT'S LAST SECRETS KNOWN

Final Mysteries of Tomb Told by Finder

Innermost Recess of Crypt Holds Viscera

Goldsmiths' Exquisite Art Lavished on Jars

LONDON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The tomb of the Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen has yielded its last secrets to its discoverer, Howard Carter, who today announced the results of his investigation in the innermost recess of the tomb at Luxor.

This recess held four canopic jars containing the viscera of Tut-Ankh-Amen. Usually these jars, which are associated with four genii, Hepy, Duamutef, Quebah and Senuf, who in turn, were under the protection of the four goddesses, Isis, Nephthis, Neith and Selket, were placed at the feet of a mummy, but in Tut's tomb they were in a recess opposite the foot of the King's sarcophagus and they were covered by a canopy.

The monument built to protect the canopic jars is more than six feet high and occupies a floor space five by four feet. The canopy is supported by four posts on a sledge. The whole construction is gilded and surmounted by rows of brilliantly inlaid solar cabras concealed in the canopic chest of semitranlucent alabaster. This chest, with a dado of gold, rested on a silver handled sledge covered with silver pall and held four jars containing the King's viscera.

The canopic chest has tutelary goddesses carved in relief on the four corners. The massive lid, which takes the form of an entablature, was fastened down by means of four seals attached to gold staples. When this lid was raised there were disclosed four human-headed covers, finely sculptured in alabaster in the likeness of the King. They covered the mouths of four receptacles, each of which in turn contained an exquisite miniature inlaid in the gold coffins in which the viscera were placed.

These miniature coffins show the perfection of the goldsmith's art. They stood upright perfect replicas of the great gold coffin which contained the King's body, but they are even more elaborate in design. Each bears the formula of the guardian goddess or genie to whom it belongs and each has engraved inside texts pertaining to its protectors.

PLAN LARGE WAREHOUSE IN SAN DIEGO

J. C. Allison and Group of Associates Will Construct Storage Facilities

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Indicating the start of what is believed to be the greatest industrial project ever given expression for the development of San Diego Harbor as a commercial port, J. C. Allison, lessor of 100,000 acres of cotton land in Lower California and possessor of a tidelands lease here between B and Ash streets, along the bay pier head, announced tonight that the J. C. Allison cotton storage warehouse, first of five similar units, will be under actual construction within sixty days.

This first unit, 300 feet long and 100 feet wide, will extend north and south along the municipal mole within 100 feet of deep water. Its southern end will be opposite the north side of Municipal Pier No. 2, and will extend to A street. The Allison lease runs to Ash street and back to Atlantic street, and the erection of four other units is contemplated on this tract.

The warehouse will be of concrete and structural steel construction with corrugated-iron roof. Between the warehouse and the pier-head line will be only the railroad tracks and the mole pavement, so that it will be almost possible to swing a bale of cotton from the ship along the pier to the warehouse doors.

The exact cost of the warehouse has not been computed, Allison said tonight, but complete plans and specifications have been approved by the Board of Harbor Commissioners and bids are to be asked for within the next few days. The lease demands that actual construction be under way within ninety days, but Allison said that the building will be in course of erection within sixty days.

The warehouse will be a United States government bonded warehouse, and, in addition, a Mexican bonded warehouse. This unique feature has come about in the issuance of a permit by the Mexican government which will allow cotton destined for reshipment into Mexico to be stored in San Diego without carrying export and import duties across the international line. Under the present permit, Mexican cotton may be stored in the Allison warehouse for a year, but a new permit extending this time is expected soon.

While the warehouse is to be primarily a cotton warehouse, with a compress in conjunction, it is to be used generally for warehousing purposes on the water front.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians prescribe cascara as a PERFECT laxative — why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal tonic to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation"!

Perfect regularity is possible today for all of us. We have cascara in pill form; the very delightful-tasting cascarat gives us pure cascara. Millions have helped at least a million people to gain habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to strong cathartics and acquired only the laxative habit.

NATIONS' SOCIAL ANGLES STUDIED

Pan-American Committee to Report Friday

Conference May End Labors in Threre Weeks

HAVANA, Feb. 1. (AP)—Social problems of the nations will come under the consideration of the Pan-American conference at a plenary session on Friday. The delegates will take up the final report of the committee on social problems, which now is complete.

It is probable that this session also will receive the final report of the intellectual co-operation committee, which wound up its affairs today.

THREE WEEKS LONGER

Indications from the American delegation, which is endeavoring to speed up the sessions, point to the termination of the conference about the third week in February, but some of the delegates are of the opinion that it will not end before March 1.

A complicated and exceedingly technical discussion of the manner in which the Pan-American Union affairs committee should proceed with its problems took up completely today's session of that committee, to the exclusion of any positive action. Sufficient evidence was at hand, however, to show that a majority of the committee were favorable to avoiding consideration at this time of the question of politics in the activities of the Pan-American Union by referring all projects of the kind to a subcommittee.

The committee approved one article—that the expenses of the Pan-American Union should continue to be divided among the countries represented in the ratio of their populations, with the added provision that budgets may not be increased more than 25 per cent over those of preceding years without the unanimous approval of the governing board.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEMS

Another matter of interest before the delegates today was immigration. Contending that immigration problems of the Latin Americans should not be definitely taken over by the sixth conference, Hernandez Cartaya of Cuba asks in a report presented to the economics committee that the issue rest with the second International Immigration conference, which will meet at Havana in March of this year.

In a lengthy preamble to the proposal, Senor Cartaya outlines the immigration problems existing in America, urging uniform regulations so that prospering may be introduced through the medium of emigration and immigration. He points out that regulation would preferably come from the Immigration Congress, rather than from the committee of the Pan-American conference.

Full protection for the immigration workman in social and judicial issues is urged in the Cartaya proposal as fundamental.

Loaf Still Gray Despite Ruling

PARIS, Feb. 1. (AP)—White bread still is a trifle gray, but the adulteration of wheat flour has been reduced again by the government.

Wartime bread had as much as 15 per cent of rye, rice, barley and almost anything else in it. This was reduced when peace came, but later increased when times got hard and wheat ran short.

Recently the requirement of 10 per cent adulteration with barley, rice and tapioca was changed to 6 per cent of rye, which makes a decided difference, in fact, but doesn't alter the color of the bread, as the rye is darker than were the other ingredients.

ROTARIANS AID PEACE

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Two international conferences for the furtherance of world peace were called by the board of directors of Rotary International today. Rotarians of Central America and the northern part of South America will convene at Panama City March 19 to 21, to consider business problems and to promote the peace of their region. On October 1, a two-day conference will open at Tokio to foster the friendship of the Pacific.

OIL FATAL TO BALLOONIST

Capt. Gray Unable to Measure Oxygen Supply When Cold Lubricant Stopped Timepiece

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Although he sought only knowledge, the glory of achievement comes to Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray three months after his death in an army ballon alone six miles up in the air. The instruments he took with him on his last ascent, November 4, together with his uncompleted log, found with his body in the basket of his balloon near Sparta, Tenn., tell the dramatic story of his trip to "the highest point up."

They show how carefully and successfully he planned the purely scientific phases of his effort to gain knowledge of atmospheric conditions at extremely high altitudes. They show also how carefully he planned to survive so that his own experiences under those conditions might be known.

FORGOT ABOUT CLOCK

But there the personal element crept into his calculations. It didn't occur to him to take the same precautions with his clock that he took with his less personal recording instruments. That, air corps experts are convinced, is the reason he stayed up too long and after reaching for a second time the unprecedented altitude of 42,470 feet suffocated on the way down, somewhere between the 39,000 and 29,000-foot levels.

He was determined that his thermograph and at least one of his two sealed barographs should give an accurate record of temperature and altitude during every minute of the flight. So they were sent to a jeweler and all oil and grease was removed from them. But the clock, which was to show him how his ascent was progressing and give him an idea from time to time how much longer he could count on his oxygen supply, was not cleaned of oil, and it stopped at an altitude of 30,000 feet, where the temperature was 35 deg. below zero.

DUPLICATES RECORD

One of the barographs failed, but the other, examined by the Bureau of Standards, discloses that Capt. Gray duplicated on that flight his unofficial altitude record of 42,470 feet, established May 4, 1927, when he rose 3900 feet higher than the world's altitude record for airplanes, held by Lieut. Carleton C. Champion of the Navy, and 7094 feet above the official free balloon record.

The experiences of that ascent, when he had to descend in a parachute from a height of 9000 feet, guided Capt. Gray in his preparations for the November attempt. Extraordinary precautions were taken to assure an uninterrupted oxygen supply, and tests made with animals indicated that with an adequate supply of oxygen consciousness could be retained at altitudes up to 47,000 feet. Breathing rarified air, the animals became unconscious under conditions encountered at altitudes between 25,000 and 28,000 feet.

AIR PRESSURES STUDIED

The peculiar effects of low air pressure or, in other words, high altitudes, upon the human body also were considered in the preparations which were made so as to minimize the exertion required for every necessary act which Capt. Gray might have to perform.

The ascent began at 2:33 p.m. and maximum altitude was attained at 4:20 p.m. That was much slower than the ascent in May, and his descent was likewise more gradual.

Air corps experts who have been studying Capt. Gray's records assume that he ascended more slowly in November with the hope of gaining more accurate knowledge of conditions as his altitude increased, but they are certain that if he had known definitely how long he had been up after his clock stopped at 3:17 p.m. he would have managed to get down alive.

Chicago Auto Show's Sales Set New Mark

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Auto sales records for the twenty-eighth annual automobile show here are setting new high marks, dealers and exhibitors today reported to S. A. Miles, general manager of the show. Attendance records, too, are being shattered.

Walter P. Chrysler predicted that by 1935 the "United States will have on its streets from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 registered vehicles."

Vienna Guards Negro Dancer

VIENNA, Feb. 1. (AP)—A police guard was placed around Josephine Baker, American negro dancer who has become a darling of Paris, on her arrival today from the French capital since university students have declared their intention of preventing negro artists from playing in Vienna.

In view of the students' resentment against the jazz opera "Johnnie," in which a negro boasts that all white women capitulate to him, police are taking precautions to protect the young woman while she is here.

Students threw chemical bombs containing sneezing powder at a performance of "Johnnie" Saturday, causing a number of women to faint. Twelve were arrested.

PRAYER BOOK TARGET FOR NEW ATTACK

Church Organization in England Declares Stand on Modifications

LONDON, Feb. 1. (AP)—"Uncompromising resistance to any change endangering the scriptural purity of the teachings of our church" is expressed in a statement by the council of the Church Association, an organization of the Church of England, issued today in regard to the new prayer book rejected recently by the House of Commons.

The statement declares: "Modifications which the bishops propose to embody in the deposited (rejected) book are totally inadequate (to entitle it to new consideration.)

"As long as the deposited book continues to offer shelter in our church for what that church itself teaches to be blasphemy—the sacrifice of the mass and the abhorrent idolatry of the adoration of the sacrament—so long will it merit the unwavering antagonism of those who venerate the gospel truth for which our martyrs died."

The council also expresses the opinion that the reports of the Malines conversations, looking toward reunion with the Roman Catholic Church, place the whole question of the deposited book on a new footing. The agreement between the parties at Malines, that by consecration the bread and wine become the body and blood of Christ, "simply means acceptance of 'blasphemous fables and dangerous deceits' which our church cast out nearly four centuries ago," says the statement.

GROWERS ORGANIZE FOR WAR ON INSECTS

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Ventura county citrus growers today took steps to protect their groves from insect and parasite pests, organizing the Associates Insectary which not only will investigate insects and parasites, but also will actively strive to control them. Copies of articles of incorporation were filed with the Secretary of State. The growers are headed by A. C. Hardison, former president of the California Farm Bureau Federation: C. L. Sheldon, Santa Paula Citrus Exchange, and C. E. Hawley, I. P. Browne, H. B. Carver, J. N. Thille, all of Santa Paula, and Howard F. Pressey of Saspe. Any citrus grower is eligible to join the insectary, with the membership charges levied on an acreage basis of $6 per acre.

CONDEMNED SLAYER ASKS FOR REHEARING

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Willard Shannon, condemned murderer of Harold Lage, Stockton auto salesman, today asked a rehearing of his case before the State Supreme Court. The review is asked on the ground that the evidence is insufficient to support the death penalty verdict. Shannon's case was upheld by the Supreme Court on January 13, last. He is in Folsom awaiting the outcome of his efforts to escape the gallows.

SHOPMEN FIGHT PARKING ORDER

Chicago Loop Merchants in Injunction Suit

Rights to Streets Asserted by Storekeepers

"King's Highway No Stable," Quotes City Council

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Decrying the Loop parking ban as unconstitutional, business interests today began their legal battle before Judge Hebel in Circuit Court to enjoin its enforcement.

The business men, led by forty of the larger Loop merchants, maintain the antiparking ban is hurtling their business and ask a temporary injunction against its enforcement. They are represented by Attorney William McKinley, former Speaker of the State House of Representatives, and Attorney Leo F. Wormser.

Attorney McKinley attacked the ordinance as an invasion of a property owner's right of "access and egress." This right, he said, has been defined and upheld in numerous court decisions.

"The Legislature did not intend to confer on the city the power to deprive citizens of the use of the streets," declared Attorney Wormser. "It meant that a city could regulate the use of the streets but not prohibit it.

"Strict enforcement of the ordinance would paralyze traffic because it prevents the stopping of vehicles within the proscribed area for all purposes. This would require automobiles to disregard the stop lights."

Citing the parking privilege allowed taxicabs as well as delivery wagons, Attorney Wormser denounced enforcement as discriminatory.

"It seems as though the Commissioner of Police has had this delegation of power and has decided who may violate the ordinance and who may not," said Mr. Wormser. "That makes it void."

Edward C. Higgins, special Corporation counsel, clashed with attorneys for the Loop merchants when the latter demanded that a temporary injunction be granted before evidence is heard.

The city is prepared to answer the petition with decisions dating back to the English law of 1812, when a court ruled that "none can make a stable of the king's highway." More recent decisions, too, will be presented by Assistant Corporation Counsel Drennan, who will defend the right of the city to enforce the ordinance.

More interested parties entered the courtroom as the hearing was begun.

An attorney for the Chicago Chamber of Commerce appeared with the announcement that his organization is behind the enforcement of the parking restriction. An appearance also was entered for the Chicago surface lines, which contend their service has been speeded up by the regulation. The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

BEE SUSPECT IN FALL OF MAN

Museum Official Suggests Likelihood of Creature's Guilt in Tragedy of Eden and Discusses Good and Harm Done by Insects Generally

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—The bumblebee may be responsible for the tragedy of Eden.

"Man's downfall," says Dr. Frank E. Lutz, curator of insects at the American Museum of Natural History, "whimsically might be traced to insects, for there would have been no apple for Eve had not some insect—a bee, perhaps—carried pollen from another blossom to the one which by reason of that pollen developed into the fatal fruit."

But Dr. Lutz forgives this unfriendly act by a six-legged resident of the Garden, and is a warm champion of the bee and the myriad species of other "good insects" which, he points out, make man's life possible.

MANY INSECTS HELPFUL

Most insects, says the entomologist, mind their own business and lead their own interesting lives, either paying no attention to man and his domain or doing him friendly service of vital importance in helping his gardens and orchards to grow.

"A very few insects," observes Dr. Lutz, "are causing an immense amount of damage, this damage being done chiefly by species which man has introduced into countries where the particular sorts of friendly insects that prey upon them do not exist.

"There are more than 500,000 different kinds of insects and the wholesale condemnation of the class has been based on sad experiences with one or two hundred.

HARMFUL SPECIES

Almost all of the objectionable varieties are creatures that are out of place, species that man has brought in his commerce from some other country to our own. Among these are the gypsy moth, the European corn borer, Japanese beetle, Hessian fly, and San Jose scale, to say nothing of the domestic roaches, house-flies, bed-bugs and the like.

"Why should these foreigners multiply so rapidly in the United States? The reason is that when man introduced them he failed to introduce other insects which preyed upon and checked them in their native lands.

"Man upset the balance of nature. Let him try to restore it by importing the particular kinds of insect friends that, all unobserved by him, were fighting his battle for him in the country whence the pest came."

FREE STATE PUT UNDER SCALPEL

Cosgrave Describes Make-up of Irish Government

Country's Foundation Solid, He Tells New Yorkers

President Plunges Into Busy Round of Functions

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Solid foundations, constitutionally, internationally and economically, have been laid down for the Irish Free State since 1921 upon which future generations can build "a worthy edifice," William T. Cosgrave, Free State Executive, declared tonight. Speaking at a banquet tendered in his honor by the Mayor's Committee for the Reception of Distinguished Guests, Mr. Cosgrave said the principles of democracy enunciated by this country's great statesmen form the basis of the Irish Free State constitution.

In describing the functioning of his government and its civil service, he said:

"We make no religious distinctions. Freedom of worship is guaranteed. We inquire of no man his faith."

DESCRIBES PROGRESS

Mr. Cosgrave described the reorganization of government machinery in his country since the establishment of the Free State, and the progress that has been made along the lines of education, public works, and agriculture.

Touching on finances, he said the Free State's national debt is at present $38 per capita or approximately one year's revenue, and taxation has been reduced from $52.50 to $42.50 per capita. The Free State now faces the future with a balanced budget and a stable currency, he announced.

The Irish statesman declared the encouragement he and the members of his official party have received from this visit to the United States "will give us an immense impetus." He will take back to Ireland, he said, "the most pleasant remembrances of all the courtesies we have received at the hands of the government and people of the United States."

WILL SAIL SATURDAY

Back in New York for a three-day visit, Mr. Cosgrave today plunged into the busy round of functions that are planned to take place unremittingly almost until the moment he sails for home at 5 a.m. Saturday.

After a brief rest in the Hotel Biltmore, he visited Wall street and the stock exchange, where he was greeted by the cheers of floor traders. He then called on John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who was the guest at a luncheon given by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Mr. Cosgrave is still suffering from a slight cold contracted several days ago and he appeared somewhat nervous as a result of the railroad mishap in Canada, when the locomotive drawing his special train was derailed.

WEST TOLD TO PADDLE OWN CANOE

Commerce Chamber Chief Holds Federal Patronage Detriment to Business

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Encouragement of private initiative is vitally essential to the continued upbuilding of the West, and the faster the United States government learns to keep its hands off industries that can be carried on successfully under private enterprise, the better the West will be.

In effect such was the message left here today by Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as he departed aboard the Maui for the chamber's midwinter convention at Honolulu.

Private enterprise was cited by Pierson as one of the fundamental principles approved by the membership of the United States chamber.

"The West," he added, "is a storehouse of natural resources and great progress has been made in developing them, but you really are only on the threshold of their development."

His sentiments were echoed by W. D. Brookings, manager of the natural resources department of the United States chamber in an appeal for "fair play" on the part of the public toward basic industries.

Doctors Make Goats Goat of Medical Test

TUSCALOOSA (Ala.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Resourcefulness is as necessary in the scientific laboratory as it is in industry.

Dogs are among the most valuable animals for laboratory study in the medical sciences. In the South, however, they are difficult to obtain. Regardless of their lack of any sort of a dignified pedigree, hardly anybody is willing to part with them, even for a good price in the interest of training physicians and surgeons alleviate the ills of human beings.

No such sentimental feeling, however, attaches to goats. And they abound in the South. So Dr. George T. Pack of the University of Alabama medical school has turned to these mammals for experimental work in surgery and pathology, finding them valuable substitutes for dogs and much less expensive. They are not only as easy to handle as dogs, he has learned, but they stand operations well and their reactions in certain pathological experiments are satisfactory.

HARTSHORNE (Okla.) Feb. 1. (AP)—Three men were killed and an undetermined number, believed not to exceed half a dozen, are believed entombed as a result of a gas explosion in Mine No. 7 of the Rock Island Coal and Mining Company tonight. The three men were burned to death, a blast of fire catching them as they worked in the mouth of the shaft.

The explosion is attributed to the short circuit of an electric wire.

TWO SIDES TO SHEET STORY

Grave Investigation Discloses Fact That Women Wear Out Covers of Bed at Head and Men at Foot; Perspiration Back of Phenomenon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Women wear out the sheets at the head of the bed; men wear them out at the foot of the bed.

At least, that's the conclusion of the investigation now being conducted quite unofficially by representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association in Washington.

It was learned today that Miss Mary A. Lindsley, manager of the Grace Dodge Hotel, run under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A., in reporting at a recent meeting of hotel men, had said that her hotel's sheets have been used for six years, washed daily, and still are good. She added the postscript that, of course, the greatest wear came at the head of the bed.

House managers of several Y.M.C.A's contradicted her, and said that, of course, the wear came at the foot of the bed. Then the investigation.

"Women now wear low-necked sleeveless night dresses," said Miss Lindsley, "and the perspiration, therefore, is easily transferred to the sheets, at the places where the shoulders, neck and arms touch the sheets.

"But men wear high-necked pajamas, with long sleeves. So the body perspiration centers at the feet, and causes the maximum wear at the foot of the bed."

REED ASKS ADEQUATE DEFENSES

Senator Makes Vigorous Preparedness Plea in Talk Before Women

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Asserting that "inadequate preparation is an invitation to the invader," Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, tonight entered a vigorous plea for the maintenance of America's national defense at a point where "no other nation can successfully attack our shores."

In an address delivered at the opening session of the women's patriotic conference on national defense, the Missouri Senator urged that the United States adhere to a policy of isolation so far as possible from "all world embroilments and controversies."

An intelligent consideration of the national defense problem, he said, must be made with a view to the facts as they are, not as it is wished that they might be.

Senator Reed was not inclined to do away with war although he made no specific mention of the recent conversations between the Washington and Paris governments for a treaty of this sort.

"The experience of the ages," he asserted, "demonstrates that paper theaties are not adequate defense against the artillery of the enemy."

The conference is sponsored by thirty-six women's patriotic organizations and its spokesmen have pledged support to the National Defense Act of 1920 and the naval building program recommended to Congress recently by Secretary Wilbur.

Volcano's Bark Called Worse Than Its Bite

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—After spending a year at the crater of California's only active volcano, Mt. Lassen, waiting for it to stage an act or two for his observation, Roy Finch, volcano expert for the United States Geological Survey, has come to the conclusion that Lassen's bark is worse than its bite.

Finch said Lassen growled 260 times during the last year, but that was all.

"The mountain rumbles, grumbles and roars," he said, "but the accompanying earth movement is slight and of the briefest duration. I found out, though, that the old Indian belief that the mountain is something of a weather forecaster, is correct. The Indians said that a few quakes meant a dry autumn and many of them meant a wet once. I have found that to be correct so far.

"The last lava flow was in 1851. A study of the trees of the region, and other investigations lead to the assumption that these flows occur on an average of once every century. Hence, there should be another in less than twenty-five years."

Mannerstam Guilty Under Law on Guns

OAKLAND, Feb. 1. (AP)—John F. Mannerstam, president of the Pacific Arms Corporation, was found guilty here today of violating the State law governing possession of machine guns. He will be sentenced Friday.

Mannerstam also is under indictment in Los Angeles on a charge of viplating the neutrality of the United States and border customs laws by sending firearms into Mexico.

Man Who Played With Booth Dies

NAPA, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—William H. Hamilton, who played in Shakespeare with Edwin Booth seventy-five years ago, died at the home of his sister here last night at 83 years of age. Born on a Mississippi River steamboat, Hamilton came west as a child. His father, through his friendship with an Alderman, obtained the old Jenny Lind Theater rent free, because it had been sold to the city as a site for a new Hall of Justice and it was there in 1852, that Hamilton appeared in the same cast with the man who was to go down into history as the greatest of all Hamlets.

It was Hamilton's boast that he had played every city in the United States and Canada in a theatrical career dating from 1850 to 1910.

MUSSOLINI TO COMBINE HIS FORCES

Fascist Militia Will be Incorporated Into Italian Army in Wartime

ROME, Feb. 1. (AP)—The Fascist militia will be incorporated into the regular Italian army in wartime, Premier Mussolini announced today.

Premier Mussolini said that, under his instructions, the general staff has solved the problem of the incorporation of the volunteer militiamen "with a clear vision of the new times and probable events that is to its honor."

"I am sure that the Legion will prove worthy of this supreme honor, preparing themselves from this moment to be shock troops," the Premier said. "They should perpetuate the martial traditions of the Arditi (famous Italian troops) and of the fighting Fascists—a dagger between the teeth, a grenade in the hand and a sublime contempt of danger in their hearts."

BOULDER DAM BILL CHANGED

Amendment Adopted in Committee Session

New Navigation Provision Added to Measure

Vote for Thirty-Day Delay Now in Prospect

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP) — The Johnson Boulder Canyon dam bill, heavily freighted with controversy, today moved slowly through a House Irrigation Committee executive session. When the committee adjourned one amendment had been adopted and several rejected.

At the end of the committee's consideration the bill is expected to survive a move to hold it in committee for thirty days, while the Colorado River basin States continue negotiations for a seven-State compact.

PROPOSAL FAVORED

Sentiment in favor of such action is said to be brewing, and two members of the committee are known to be considering the introduction of resolutions to that effect. An amendment offered by Representative White, Democrat, Colorado, carrying the purposes of the bill the development of navigation on the Colorado, was adopted.

NAVIGABILITY QUESTIONED

The amendment was offered to meet any obstacles confronting the measure in view of questions raised as to the possible navigability of the river.

Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, one of the bill's most vigorous opponents, offered several amendments, two of which provided for the construction of a second dam across the Colorado near Parker, Ariz., and under which would insist upon a non-flood compact, all of which were rejected.

Gov. Young expressed regret that the importance of the Boulder Dam project was not appreciated by some members of Congress and in some parts of the country.

"Should the development fail," said the Governor, "the country may see a highly disastrous flood and the possible formation of a second great salt lake in the Imperial basin. A flood would wipe out thousands of acres of productive land and destroy millions of homes."

Harold A. Ickes, a member of the Federal Oil Conservation Board, also spoke on the Boulder Dam project, declaring it to be sound financially.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive) Representative Crail today introduced in the House a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to grant an easement to the city of Los Angeles for right of way through Gaffey street, between Thirty-fourth and Thirty-seventh streets. This is the last section of the street lying within the boundaries of Fort MacArthur which has been opened up to public travel. The Chamber of Commerce of San Pedro had the matter up last year with the War Department, but found that Congressional action would be necessary.

The bill today referred to the Military Affairs Committee the Crail bill was put through the House authorizing appropriation of $2,100,000 for the construction of twelve new barracks at the Soldiers' Home at Sawtelle. A favorable report is indicated.

The Senate committee today reported favorably without amendment the House bill by Crail authorizing appropriation of $200,000 for construction of a mess hall and bakery at the Sawtelle home.

RECENT MAYORALTY CANDIDATE FIGHTS TAG

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (AP)—Milton Uhl, wealthy business man and recent candidate for Mayor, got up today for parking wrongly. Instead of paying his $1 fine, as most motorists do, he posted a $5 bond and said he will appear in Police Court tomorrow to fight the charge.

UTILITIES INQUIRY INDORSED

Campaign Fund Contributions May be Looked Into as Senate Committee Backs Walsh Move

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Another Senate inquiry into the financial affairs and particularly political contributions of huge corporations seems certain with the approval today by the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Walsh power resolution.

After making certain changes in the original measure so as to limit the scope of the investigation, the committee acted unanimously and the resolution will be reported to the Senate tomorrow with prospect of early action since Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, its author, said the modifications are "not unacceptable."

FAILS IN TIE VOTE

An effort to have the inquiry conducted by the Federal Trade Commission instead of a Senate committee failed on a tie vote, 8 to 8 and then opponents gave up their fight.

As the resolution was changed, the inquiry would be confined to public utility corporations—electric light and power and gas—doing an interstate business and to holding companies having the stock of two or more corporations operating in different States.

The special committee of five which would carry on the investigation would be limited in seeking information about political contributions to those made in the election of the President, Vice-President and members of Congress. This amendment, Chairman Watson of the Interstate Commerce Committee said, was designed to keep the inquiry out of primary elections and also out of purely State, municipal or county general elections.

HOW VOTES WERE CAST

Senators Howell, Republican Independent of Nebraska, and Wheeler of Montana, and Black of Alabama Democrats, plan to submit a minority report on the political contributions restriction.

The vote for reference of the investigation to the Federal Trade Commission showed seven Republicans and one Democrat in favor of such a step. These were:

Chairman Watson, Senators Sackett, Kentucky; Fess, Ohio; Goff, West Virginia; Pine, Oklahoma; Metcalf, Rhode Island, and Gooding, Idaho, Republicans; and Bruce, Maryland, Democrat.

Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, joined with the seven Democrats on the committee against a Federal trade inquiry.

Senator Cousens, Michigan and Dupont, Delaware, Republicans, and Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, were absent and not recorded. The vote of Senator Goff, who is ill, was cast by proxy.

SHOALS BILL APPROVED IN COMMITTEE

Governmental Operation of Muscle Power Plant Ready for Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—The Norris resolution, providing for government operation of Muscle Shoals was approved today by the Senate Agriculture Committee by a vote of 11 to 2.

The vote was taken in executive session after more than an hour's discussion during which time it was announced that several amendments will be presented on the Senate floor.

Under the Norris resolution the government would operate Muscle Shoals for ten years for production of electricity which would be distributed equitably among States within transmission distance of Muscle Shoals and authority would be given either for construction or lease of transmission lines by the government.

Income from the sale of current would be used for construction on experimental fertilizer plants "anywhere in the United States."

Alien Refund Plan Advances

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Provisions of the House alien property bill for the immediate return of 80 per cent of the German property and for payment of $100,000,000 on German ships, patents and radio stations seized during the war were accepted today by the Senate Finance Committee in its first work on the measure.

Angelena Urges Change in Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive) Ivan Kelso of Los Angeles, general counsel for the Automobile Club of Southern California, appeared before the House Roads Committee today urging amendment to the Colton bill, which the committee is considering, to provide that automobile clubs may continue to place their insignia on road signs which they erect.

Such an amendment can be adopted, he said, without in any way impairing the main purpose of the measure which is to outlaw erection of advertising signs of official shape which confuse drivers and only add to highway hazards.

DEMOCRATS HURL NEW TARIFF CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—The attention of the House Agriculture Committee was diverted momentarily from the equalization fee of the McNary-Haugen bill today by a charge from Democratic quarters that House far inbloc leaders are helping eastern Republicans sidetrack the Senate resolution calling for a downward revision of "excessive" tariff rates.

Two Democrats on the committee—Jones of Texas and Kincheloe of Kentucky — assailed Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, and other Representative from farm areas for not co-operating with the Democrats in their effort to have the McMaster resolution referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

SENATE PASSES BILL FOR YUMA AIR FIELD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—The Department of the Interior would be directed to lease 640 acres of land to Yuma county, Arizona, for a municipal aviation field under terms of legislation passed by the Senate today and sent to the House. The bill was sponsored by Senator Ashurst, Arizona.

REBURIAL OF SMITHS DEFENDED

Grandson of Mormon Church Founder Insists Graves Long Were Secret

INDEPENDENCE (Mo.) Feb. 1. (AP) Defending his actions in causing the recent disinterment at Nauvoo, Ill., of the bodies of Joseph and Hyram Smith, president of the reorganized Latter Day Saints' Church, today said that charges that his act was a play for sensational effect are "unkind and absurd."

Officials of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) Church at Salt Lake City yesterday charged that "Frederick Smith has debased himself before honorable men and in the sight of God in this unholy and sacrilegious act" in causing the bodies to be molested.

Their statement denied that the resting place of Joseph Smith, founder of the church, and his brother ever had been a mystery and asserted that the church records very definitely describe their location.

"The Utah church errs in that respect," Smith, a grandson of the founder, said today. "Even to the family in which the secret was so long guarded, the exact location was unknown because the 'landmarks' had been obliterated."

A general knowledge of the burial spot "probably comprises all the official records the Utah officials have," he declared.

"It has not been unusual for remains of persons who have died for a cause to be disinterred and reburied for the purpose of adequately marking the spot. Even our government has done this, often at great expense. Our purpose was that of adequately marking the burial spot by a suitable monument. The search was made with entire absence of any attempt at publicity."

Teller Admits Frame-up Plot

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A 23-year-old bank teller has told police that the $40,000 robbery of Industrial State Bank Monday was a "frame-up" with three other men and two women involved. All but one of them are in custody of police today and about $12,000 of the money has been recovered.

James Dillon, the teller, told police that the man who kidnaped him and forced him to open the vault is Albert Rothbart, 19 years of age, a friend. The others he named are Alice Vanderford and Lee Howard who, he said, are the "brains" of the band; Joseph Rennelli and Joseph Vasselli, a chauffeur. Vasselli still is sought by police.

RUM RING USES RADIO

Operation of East Coast Station Described Before Jury

BOSTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—A private radio station on Cape Cod was one of the up-to-date appurtenances of a rum-running ring which the government charges smuggled hundreds of cases of liquor ashore with the protection of Coast Guard men.

In outlining the case to a Federal jury here, Asst. U. S. Atty. Thompson said that John Magnus of Boston had obtained by bribery confidential charts showing the position of Coast Guard patrol vessels and also the secret code used by the Coast Guard.

Magnus communicated to the rum ships by means of his specially built radio station and thus enabled them to know the position of "unfriendly" patrol vessels, she attorney said.

SEATTLE, Feb. 1. (AP)—The largest shipment of shelled peanuts ever to leave Seattle at one time—a full train of forty cars—was being transferred from a freighter to freight cars here today. M. J. Falkenberg, importer, estimates there are 500,000,000 peanuts in the shipment, enough, if laid end to end, he says, to reach from the place they were grown in China to Seattle. The shipment is valued at $100,000. It is going east.

JONES BILL MET BY G.O.P. ATTACK

Coolidge Backed by Tilson, Longworth and White

Senate Ship Measure Scored by House Chieftains

Described as Calling for Government Ownership

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Backing up the position taken by President Coolidge, House Republican leaders joined today in voicing opposition to the Jones bill passed by the Senate.

Speaker Longworth, Representative Tilson, the majority floor leader, and Chairman White of the Merchant Marine Committee, all announced that they are opposed to the measure, at least in its present form.

"I am opposed to the bill," said White. "It is a permanent government ownership bill. It is worse than a declaration by Congress for such a policy, for it in fact leaves our commitment to this course to the Shipping Board."

Longworth contends that the measure will perpetuate government operations of the merchant fleet, emphasizing opposition in particular to the provision that will require unanimous approval by the Shipping Board of the sales of the government-owned ships.

Tilson, while declaring against a number of the bill's provisions, said that the Senate action nevertheless shows clearly that the "great majority of that body, regardless of party affiliations, are convinced that the building of a merchant marine is of great importance to the United States."

White, who heads the committee to which the Jones bill will be referred when formally transmitted from the Senate, said that he expects to introduce next week a measure which he hopes will prove a basis for the solution of the merchant-marine problem. He declined, however, to give any details of his plans.

SPEAKER'S GAVEL HELD BY CRAIL

California's First Termer in House Accorded Unusual Honor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—An honor unusual for a first termer was accorded Representative Crail of Los Angeles today when he was called to the Speaker's rostrum by Speaker Longworth of Ohio and asked to preside over the House. Crail was in the chair for fifteen minutes and wielded the gavel and conducted debate with all the confidence of a veteran legislator. The House was considering amendments to the McFadden Banking Act.

Not many baby Congressmen are asked to pinch hit for the Speaker. Usually the call goes to one of the old-timers well versed in parliamentary practice.

BAY CITY ACTS AFTER DEATH BY RADIO WIRE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A warning to radio fans against constructing aerials close to light or power wires was issued by city officials today as a result of the death of Henry Belliham, 16 years of age, who was burned Sunday when his radio antenna came in contact with a power line.

The City Department of Electricity issued orders banning radio antennae over streets and over wires carrying more than 600 volts. Attaching antennae to light or power poles is forbidden.

The total since Mills Field opened for business last May is 3812 flights and landings and 5722 passengers carried.

SOVIETS' BONDS GO UNDER BAN

Secretary Kellogg Frowns on Flotation Here

Formal Word Asks Banks to Oppose Sales

Issue to Build Railways Causes Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Secretary Kellogg announced formally today that the American government does not view with favor the sale of Russian soviet government bonds in the United States and that he is confident American bankers will co-operate with the government to that end. The Secretary said the American banks concerned in the proposed bond issues had been so notified by the State Department.

NAMES BOND ISSUE

Mr. Kellogg was referring particularly to the recently advertised sale of approximately $30,000,000 worth of Russian soviet government 9 per cent gold bonds offered to the American public at 93 to obtain funds for Russian railway purposes.

Several American banks, including the Chase National Bank of New York, are named as agents for the payment of interest and it is proposed by the soviet government that the bonds will be delivered by mail to subscribers.

In setting forth the American government's attitude, Mr. Kellogg said:

TENT OF PROTEST

"The department objects to financial arrangements involving the floatation of a loan in the United States or the employment of credit for the purpose of making an advance to the soviet regime. In accordance with this policy, the department does not view with favor financial arrangements designed to facilitate in any way the sale of soviet bonds in the United States. The department is confident that the banks and financial institutions will co-operate with the government in carrying out this policy."

Schools and Shops All Must Replace Picture Ordered Hung Last Year

ANGORA (Turkey) Feb. 1. (AP) All schools, shops, theaters, restaurants and government and private offices in Turkey must take down the portraits of President Kemal which they were ordered to hang up last year, and replace them with a copy of the official photograph which is now being prepared.

To do away with what the Turkish press calls "the existing photographic anarchy" in the manifold likenesses and unlikenesses of the Gazi published to date, the government has issued this authorized and obligatory version. The official photograph is being made from the painting just completed by the German artist Kampf.

Sandino Stamp Barred by New

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. (AP)—Postmaster-General New today approved the ruling made by Solicitor Donnelly prohibition use of the "so-called Sandino stamp" on United States mail.

"It is a manifest absurdity," said New, "to permit political agitators and advocates of various governmental policies to utilize the United States mails to propagandize the public and to institute a comparison between the refusal to permit the use of the Sandino stamp and the permission to grant its use in the case of those who would use it in the fight against the spread of tuberculosis is too ridiculous to be entitled to a moment's consideration."

PORT JERVIS (N. Y.) Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The price of automobiles dropped with a thud here today when three went in a lot for $10 and one for $5 at the sale of cars abandoned on the streets, and on which the city owed $200 for storage.

ROADS LOSERS IN WAGE FIGHT

Petition Against Increase by Western Lines Dismissed

Ten Days Remain for Appeal to Supreme Court

Award Will Add $4,000,000 to Fifty-five Pay Rolls

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (AP)—A petition by western railroads to set aside an award increasing the pay of locomotive firemen and hostlers on fifty-five systems, was dismissed today by Judge George A. Carpenter, in Federal District Court.

The effect of the dismissal is to make the increase effective unless the roads take an appeal to the United States Circuit Court. They have ten days in which to ask a review by the higher court.

Whether an appeal will be taken rests with executives of the Western Roads' association, declared Kenneth Burgess, general counsel for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, who represented the roads in the litigation.

The western systems challenged the wage award of a board of arbitration on the grounds that it was made after the board previously had advised the Federal Court it could not agree. Later, four members signed the award, two others, representing the railroads, declining to participate. Chief Justice Burks of the Colorado Supreme Court, was chairman of the arbitration board.

The award provides an increase of 20 cents a day for passenger firemen and 35 cents a day for all other members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen of western roads. Approximately 55,000 employees are affected and the award, if it becomes effective, will add $4,000,000 annually to pay rolls of the roads involved.

TWO THOUSAND ESPEE MEN TO BENEFIT IN PAY RISE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—If the wage award of 20 to 35 cents a day to engine men and firemen on western lines, as signed in Chicago today by Federal Judge Carpenter, becomes effective without further litigation, it was announced by Southern Pacific officials here that 2065 workers on their Pacific lines will be benefited to the extent of $324,000 annually.

SALES OF MEAT STOCK GROWING

Local Stockyards Company Reports Banner Year

Receipts of Cattle, Hogs and Sheep Register Gains

Increase in Combined Value Placed at $2,500,000

A new record for cattle trading was established by the Los Angeles Union Stockyards Company for the year just closed, the fifth and most successful twelve-months' period in the company's history, according to J. A. McNaughton, vice-president and general manager.

Receipts of cattle for the twelve months ended December 31, were the highest ever recorded by the company and aggregated 310,386 head, as compared with 300,190 during 1926, an increase of 10,196. This is an increase of more than 186,000 head over receipts of ten years ago and three times the receipts recorded in 1912, or fifteen years ago. An average increase of about 10,000 head a year has been shown by the figures compiled by the company since 1923.

Receipts of hogs and sheep both showed substantial increases for the year. Hog receipts amounted to 561,-943 head as against 486,866 head in 1926, an increase of 15,177, while sheep receipts totaled 616,515 head as compared with 551,704, a gain of 64,-811 head over the preceding year. Calf receipts were lower for the year by 10,000 head to 127,000, as compared with 147,000 in 1926.

Value of live stock handled by the company for the twelve months was approximately $27,500,000, an increase of about $2,500,000 as compared with the previous year.

The increase in value of live-stock receipts is proportionately greater than the increase in volume, due largely to a strengthening of the market price for meats, Mr. McNaughton said. The gain in population has exceeded the pace of cattle production, which accounts largely for the higher price levels, he said. The population of the United States as a whole has increased 35,000,000 in twenty-five years, while cattle production has increased 22,000,000. Dairy cows represent 8,000,000 head of this figure, which leaves an increase for meat consumption of 14,000,000.

The highest market prices for beef were recorded in the month of January, last, reflecting a greater consumer demand, Mr. McNaughton stated, and there is every indication that meat prices will maintain the present high levels, and will tend to become stabilized for the next few years because of improved methods of breeding and feeding.

Mining transactions were responsible for a new record in volume of trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Sales aggregated 394,087 shares, and seven mines recorded new price levels. Considerable irregularity was shown in the balance of the market.

Sunnyside and Black Range led the mining group in activity with 87,900 shares and 73,000 shares, respectively. Sunnyside touched a new high at 48 cents but closed off at the end of the afternoon session at 45, up 1 cent on the day. Black Range reached a new high at 5 cents and closed at 4½. North Star opened at a new top of 4 cents and held steady at that figure throughout the session. United American opened up 2 cents to a record price of 8 cents, but closed firm at 6.

Western Apex closed at 6½, up ½, after touching 7 cents, which is a new price for that stock. Virginia Louise was high at 2 cents and San Francisco Gold up ½ to 2½, another peak. Big Jim lost a part of its gain of the previous session and closed down 4 cents to 47.

OIL REPORTS TELL STORY

Statements Now Coming Out Disclose Ability to Ride Through Depression; Analysis Required

BY EARLE E. CROWE

In the oil trade the reduction in the Pure Oil dividend was not an unexpected development. No advance information on the status of the company or the intentions of the directors was available, but the well-posted oil men have been anticipating developments of this kind for some time. The stock market, however, was somewhat surprised at the reduction in the rate.

As more of the annual reports come out, the pessimistic expectations of the trade will undoubtedly find corroboration. The opinion on the inside is that most of the reports will register generally unsatisfactory conditions among the smaller companies, and perhaps among some of the larger ones. Smaller companies admittedly are nervous over the duration of the depression, and those that hoped to ride it out are now taking a different point of view.

The prospect of unsatisfactory annual statements has been forecast for months, but it was generally hoped that conditions would have improved by the time that the reports were made public. Improvement has not materialized, and now the public will have to place its own interpretation on the items set forth in the income accounts and balance sheets.

Of most concern at this time is the statement of cash position. Companies comfortably situated with sufficient cash to carry out purchase contracts, drilling obligations and meet the general run of operating expenses, may be considered in good shape. But the operators who have either not had time to accumulate a cash reserve, who have been paying out too much in dividends, or who have been expanding injudiciously, are not particularly happy over their statements of condition.

Ratio of crude-oil production to purchases is an important item, both for the large, as well as the small, company. In times like this when the price is low, the company that follows the policy of buying more than it produces is plainly in a more advantageous position than the company that produces more than it buys. Conversely, when crude-oil prices are high the producer is better off than the purchaser.

Several of the large companies have clearly manifest their policy on these points, and can easily be classified. Some of them, as shown in previous annual reports, have emphasized the production and sale of crude oil, while others have either fixed a fifty-fifty balance, or some other relationship.

As an indication of how some of the doubtful companies will report for 1927, the Marland Oil report, issued yesterday, shows the ravages of depression. Evidently this company has intended to meet conditions squarely, for the net loss is reported after such charges as reserves for intangible drilling costs, and reduction of crude-oil inventory to the market price. The net loss was $7,621,076, against net profits of $11,690,811, in 1926.

In the stock market there was a tendency to believe that the oils were due for some activity until the Pure Oil dividend news was received. But it is probable that these incipient rallies will continue to meet with counteracting influences.

Cotton Futures Off Sharply on Bearish Mart

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The failure of the Liverpool cotton market to respond to our good rally of yesterday had an unsettling influence on the market here today. Prices went off 25 points on the average, or $1.25 a bale, before the decline was checked. It brought March contracts down to 17.3-4, May and July 17.50 cents, and October and December of the new crop to little below 17.25 cents.

When it was learned Liverpool's early sharp decline had been on selling by London and Liverpool operators, who had taken an entirely too pessimistic view on steel and iron trade conditions in this country from the report of the United States Steel Corporation's earnings for the last quarter of 1927, cabled from here last night, there was a renewal of good trade buying from spot houses.

This caused a sharp rally of 20 points in the most active months from the early low level, bringing March back to about 17.60 cents, May and July 17.70, and October to about 17.40 cents before this fresh upturn was checked by some new selling from New Orleans and other southern accounts, giving the market another setback in the late trading when prices were carried a few points under the low levels reached early in the day.

Liverpool cotton futures made a maximum decline of 31 to 14 English points for the old-crop months and 8 for the new when they should have held an advance of 3 to 8 to have met our closing prices of yesterday. There was a rally there just before the close, however, on covering of shorts on cables from this side explaining the Steel Corporation's earnings statement was in no sense indicative of present conditions which have improved materially in the steel and iron trade since last November and December.

HOME LOAN VOLUME AT HIGH MARK

Security Housing Report for 1927 Total Business of $8,000,000

Loans totaling $8,000,000 were made in 1927 by the Security Housing Corporation for the building and refinancing of homes and small income properties, the stockholders were informed yesterday at the annual meeting by T. W. Hendrick, president. Resources increased more than $5,000,000 over 1926, he said, and net earnings were more than double those of the previous year.

In commenting on the loans made in the year through the offices in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco, he said:

"This is more than the total closed business for the years 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925 combined. It exceeds 1926 by $400,000. Net earnings for 1927 were more than twice those of 1926. Resources mounted from $15,765,000 in 1926 to $20,600,000 in 1927. The preferred dividend of 7 per cent on our outstanding stock was earned actually over two and a half times."

Mr. Hendrick also told the stockholders that the suit filed by minority stockholders against the National Mortgage Company, Security Housing Corporation and certain individuals has been amicably settled by the consent of all parties through court decree. The suit was based on the legality of the issuance and acquisition by the two foregoing companies of capital stock of the other company. The transactions were canceled without admission of the validity of the allegations.

Directors of the new board include the following: H. H. Braly, Lyman McFie, Louis Cole, Abe Frank, Cecil Frankel, Roy Nafziger, C. A. Rohe, G. E. Moreland and T. W. Hendrick. The officers elected are: T. W. Hendrick, president; Louis Cole, H. H. Braly, H. R. Thompson, C. A. Rohe, vice-presidents; Carl F. Burrell, treasurer; G. T. Sturtevant, secretary.

Grocery Chain in Arizona on Safeway's List

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—The Safeway Stores Company, Inc., one of the largest chain grocery organizations of the country, has absorbed the Arizona Grocery Company of this city and twenty-four self-service stores in all parts of Arizona. These stores last year did a business of $6,000,000. The retail establishments are to be continued under their present name of Pay'n-Takit and are to be managed by George T. Peter and L. C. Lakin, who have been Arizona grocery executives.

Most of the stock transferred comes from George W. Mickle and David J. Peter, founders of the enterprise. They became associated in 1915 in the purchase of an East Washington-street grocery, from which has developed the present chain. In 1922, the wholesale department started in the purchase of the Hall-Pollock business, in 1925 was purchased of business and buildings of the Meiczer company and later were absorbed the Central Commercial Company of Flagstaff and Duffy Brothers of Williams.

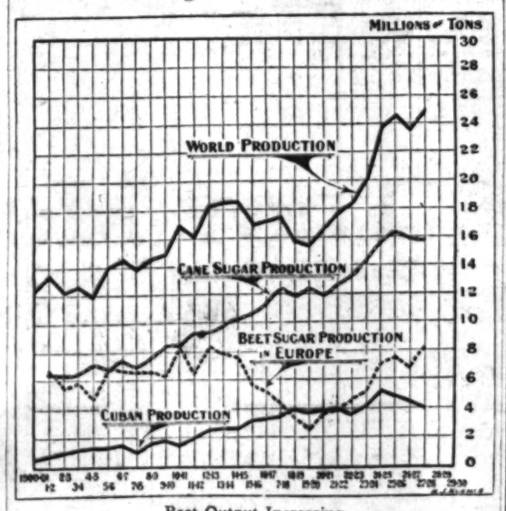
Move Afoot to Merge Trio of Arizona Mines

Rumors that negotiations are under way to effect a consolidation of the Big Jim Mines, Inc., and the Tom Reed Mining Company were confirmed yesterday by W. J. Lawrence, secretary of the Tom Reed company, who stated that the negotiations were only tentative and that nothing definite had materialized.

The combination would result in one of the largest mining companies in this section, for the consolidation would incorporate three operating properties, the Big Jim group of mines at Patagonia, Ariz., the Allison group of mines situated near Tucson, and the large estate owned by the Tom Reed company at Oatman, Ariz.

The three properties have milling plants already erected and operating. Production of the Tom Reed Mining Company to date is reported at more than $16,000,000.

World's Sugar Production Traced



Beet Output Increasing

Graphs on this chart indicate decline in cane sugar production, a rise in beet sugar production. The recent decree of President Machado of Cuba restricting the next crop of that republic to 4,000,000 tons, a reduction of 500,000 from the present figure, brings its graph lower and may affect also the cane sugar graph. It will be noted that world production and beet production are rising. The gain in beet production is due in large part to the comeback of Europe's beet fields.

BANK GIVES VIEW OF MART

National City Bulletin Finds Broker Loan Condition Similar to That in March, 1926

[Copyright, 1928, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A loan condition in the market that resembles March 1926 has been developed in recent months through the expansion in brokers' loans, in the opinion of the National City Bank, authorities, as expressed in that institution's February bulletin, published today.

All through 1927 the ratio of brokers' loans to the total market value of listed stocks held fairly consistently around 8.50 per cent. Its jump to 8.91 per cent at the end of December raised the ratio to its highest level since early 1926—that, of course, everybody knew. What the National City Bank's interesting bulletin explains is the view that the ratio is even closer to early 1926 than the figures indicate—that, in other words, it is even more unfavorable than the official figures reveal.

In explanation of this opinion the bank points out that in recent years an important number of high-grade stocks have been sold to investors. The contention is that, while the market value of these stocks is reflected in the listings, such shares have been largely taken out of the market.

Consequently, says the bank, "these additional listings have not correspondingly increased the floating supply of stock against which money is borrowed. In other words, the percentage of loans to the floating supply of active stocks is probably considerably nearer to the 1926 high levels than the published figures would indicate."

Whatever views on stock speculation these comments may imply, the bank emphatically predicts an improvement in business as 1928 proceeds. It not only notes that the trend of industry and trade has been toward betterment since the first of the year, but is cheerful regarding the future. It says: "The trend has been forward and the outlook for spring trade is appreciably brighter. So widely has the policy of reducing stocks been practiced that there exists a large backing of unfilled demand in many branches of industry which is now beginning to be translated into orders."

Perhaps it is natural that the bank authorities should express confidence in the future, since as it happens the two industries that have shown greatest recent improvement are those that carried business down last year. The 1927 industrial recession reflected largely declines in automobile and steel activities. These are the two lines in which present signs of improvement are most striking.

Exception Taken to Stage Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Pickwick Stages System takes exception to a recent ruling by the State Railroad Commission that it will not countenance a corporation under its jurisdiction making a profit from a company it owns for the supplying of equipment. The ruling was handed down when the Pickwick Stages sought permission to issue securities to buy new stages from the Pickwick Corporation. The latter owns Pickwick Stages. The commission did not and does not object to the purchase but did and does object to the issuance of securities in an amount sufficient for Pickwick Corporation to make a profit on the transaction. The decision was given after an investigation, which convinced the commission the manufacturing company was making a decided profit.

In filing application for a rehearing of the case, Pickwick Stages System expresses the conviction that the railroad commission erred in its decision.

Slump in Steel Profits Bearish Factor

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Irregular price movements, reflecting the uneasiness of professional traders, characterized today's stock market. It opened relatively steady, advanced during the forenoon, experienced a bad sinking spell in the early afternoon and then made irregular recovery. Trading showed a tendency to slacken on rallies and quicken on declines. The day's sales totaled 2,000,000 shares.

Fears of increases in the New York and Philadelphia Reserve Banks' discount rates, which proved unfounded, were believed to be an important factor in the day's weakness. Publication of the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation, showing $1.05 of the $1.75 common dividend earned also had a depressing effect on speculative sentiment, although it was offset extensively by reported increase in the corporation's mill operations to around 69 per cent of capacity. United States Steel common closed 1 1-4 points net lower at $140, Colorado Fuel dropped 1 1-2 points and the other steels showed only fractional changes.

RAILS WEAK

Selling of rails started with a drop of more than 5 points in Baltimore & Ohio common, which declined 3 3-4, and quickly embraced other investment and speculative issues. Net declines of a point or more were recorded by Atchison, Erie, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Delaware and Hudson and others.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The possibility of oil development in the Fruitvale district near Bakersfield, which has been a subject of speculation for the past several months, begins to loom on the petroleum horizon, with the discovery by the Pacific Eastern Production Company of encouraging showings of oil and gas in the wildcat well which it has been drilling there for the past six months. It is understood that during the water shutoff test, which has been conducted during the past few days, the well has shown considerable life, and has made actual flows of fluid showing a high proportion of oil.

The Fruitvale test is down about 4675 feet, at which point the California-Eastern stopped drilling and set casing. During the swabbing test the well spurted over the crown block on several occasions, but failed to hold the pressure. The test indicated a water shutoff, however, and the well made several hundred barrels a day of oil, mud and gas, without any indications of formation water.

The crew of the Fruitvale well is engaged in fishing for a bailer line at present, and when this is extracted, the test will be resumed.

Three New Wells

The Standard Oil Company has brought in three new wells during the past two or three days, according to official reports. One well was completed at Coalinga, another in the Midway field, and a third at Huntington Beach, with an aggregate output of more than 500 barrels a day.

At Coalinga the Standard finished its No. 8 well at a depth of 2872 feet, with an initial production of about 110 barrels a day. The No. 45 well was finished in the Midway field with an output of about fifty barrels a day, from a depth of 3100 feet. At Huntington Beach, the Standard finished the largest well of the three with its Bolsa Chica No. 33, which went on production at the rate of 350 barrels a day from a depth of 3748 feet.

Well Sands Up

The Pan American Petroleum Company's Hobson-State No. 1 well in the Rincon field sanded up about two days ago, after being on production for nearly a week. The well was brought in last week with an initial production of about 800 barrels a day, according to field reports, but this output declined to about 300 barrels a day, which it was making when it sanded up.

The Pan American has picked up a water sand in its Hobson-Fee No. 7 at about 2700 feet, according to field reports. It is understood that the well took several cores showing oil sand, and then got a gray water sand, and immediately afterward penetrated a ten-foot formation of shale.

Superior to Wildcat

The Superior Oil Company, which until about two years ago was one of the most active wildcatting companies in California, is preparing to start a new wildcat well in the Edison district, near Bakersfield on a lease located southeast of the Kerwin property of the General Petroleum Corporation, according to unofficial reports. Drilling is to be started immediately, it is said, and boilers are being installed and material for a derrick is being hauled to the site.

The Superior has drilled only three or four wildcat wells in the past couple of years and has confined its operations principally to the development of proven leases. The Kettleman Hills and Poso Creek fields are the most recent scenes of Superior prospecting activity.

Still Cleaning Out

The crew of the General Petroleum Corporation's Kerwin No. 1 well in the Edison district, south of Bakersfield has not yet completed the cleaning out of the well, which sanded up about ten days ago. It is understood that the work is progressing satisfactorily, and the well is expected to go on production again early next week.

Good Gas Showings

The Smith-Bogeler well in the Potrero district is about ready for a test, according to field reports, which indicate that the well has been developing strong showings of gas during the past few days. It is understood that pressure on the casing has built up to about 600 pounds, and that considerable gas is escaping around the valve, which by evaporation has formed a thick coating of ice on the pipe fittings.

The Carpenter interests which are drilling the well, and which have allowed it to stand idle for about three weeks, are getting ready to go into the hole and test it, it is said. The well is down about 5400 feet, and is cemented through perforations at about 5300 feet, with about 100 feet of perforated pipe in the combination string.

In Gray Sand

The Petroleum Exploration Company is down 3000 feet in its well in the Rincon district at Seacliff in Ventura county, and at that depth is drilling in a gray sand formation, it is said. The correlation of the formations in this well indicates that it is considerably lower on the structure than most of the other wells now drilling at Rincon.

Ready for Test

The Mariand Oil Company was preparing to drill out its two deep wells in the Seal Beach field yesterday, and another test probably will get under way today, according to authentic reports. Selover No. 16 at a depth of about 6660 feet was recemented last week after a test had demonstrated a faulty shutoff job, and Selover No. 10 was cemented for the first time after going through several hundred feet of oil sand.

Ready to Start

W. W. Stabler expects to spud in his latest wildcat well on the Tejon Ranch, near Comanche Point some time within the next two weeks, according to official reports. The well is rigging up and moving in machinery.

Spuds New Well

The General Petroleum Corporation yesterday spudded in its Hobson No. 2 well in the Rincon field, according to unofficial reports. Besides this new well the General Petroleum has two active drilling projects in the Rincon district, the Hobson No. A1, at about 2850 feet, and the Thompson No. 1 at 2835 feet drilling in oil sand.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—The bond market today experienced one of the quietest sessions of the year total sales falling below $10,000,000. Money rates remained unchanged and about $173,000,00 was disbursed in interest and dividend payments at the first of the month, but buyers refused to come into the market in any great force. Prices, except in a few isolated instances, remained steady.

There was no unusual rush of new offerings to compete with the listed market, although a few issues of formidable size are due within a few days. Public offering will be made tomorrow of $36,000,000 City of Rio de Janeiro 6½s, priced to yield about 6 3-4 per cent. This will be the largest dollar loan ever obtained by a South American city. A new issue of $5,000,000 Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s also will be marketed tomorrow on a 4.40 per cent basis. A new high for bond redemptions was established in January the aggregate approximating $202,800,000 against a previous high total of $236,000,000 in April, 1927.

Convertible and semispeculative issues provided the bulk in today's listed market. Such issues as Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, Continental Paper and Bag 6½s and Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s followed a strong course. Renewed agitation for a 7-cent fare gave impetus to most of the New York traction issues, New York Railway income 6s taking the lead. Prominent rail and industrial mortgages were virtually at a standstill.

Few features appeared in the foreign group, in which prices had a firm undertone. Brazilian features were bought in moderate amounts, probably in anticipation of the new Rio de Janeiro offering.

Federal securities were steady with nominal transactions.

The following represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transaction, 2s (the unit) when the same as the low and both low and close when same as the high.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Large arrivals of rubber to the United States points to upward bearish activities in the outside crude rubber market and further liquidation of long accounts resulted. New York spot under heavy pressure yielded ¼d and closed at 24d. London cables reported a weak tone, with spot closing 1/16d. off ¼d.

According to Washington reports arrivals to this country from the Far East during the past week amounted to 41,000 tons. An official report from London states that it is estimated rubber-grown in restricted territory in the Far East for 1928 will amount to 323,000 tons, or 5000 tons less than last year.

DRIFT OF STOCK PRICES ERRATIC

ers. The extremely unfavorable character of the December earnings reports which have been showing net operating income more than 30 per cent below December, 1926, has dislodged a number of stale long accounts in the rail group.

Violent bidding for some pool specialties was again a feature. Montana Power jumped nearly 3 points to a new high record at 163½ and then lost all but a fraction of the gain. Montgomery-Ward also showed a small fractional net gain after running to a new peak at 132. Amalgamated Heater preferred, Christie Brown, Detroit Edison, Diamond Match, Fidelity-Phenix, International Business Machines, Midland Steel Products preferred and Warren Brothers closed 4 to 8 points up.

MOTORS STEADY

Nash Motors held steady in face of a cut in automobile prices by that company. Studebaker, Packard and Willys-Overland were fairly active on the upside, while General Motors, Hudson, Hupp and Chrysler lost ground. Unconfirmed reports that Henry Ford was having difficulty in getting into full production owing to alleged inability to obtain accessories were circulated as bullish propaganda on the motor group.

Oils were reactionary, reports of the smallest week's production of crude since 1926 being offset by publication of a poor Marland report and the recent reduction in the Pure Oil dividend. Atlantic Refining broke 4 points and Pure Oil, General Asphalt and Producers and Refiners declined a point or so.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were firm. Foreign exchanges were irregular, with a 13-point jump in pesetas to 17.10 cents as the lone feature. Sterling cables ruled $4.87 3-16.

Cotton broke $1.50 to $2 a bale, following weakness of the Liverpool market, where prices sank to new lows of the season as a result of failure of Manchester spinners to reach an agreement on mill curtailment. Wheat was firmer on improved export demand. Coffee advanced moderately and sugar showed little change.

Grain Futures Turn Higher on Brisker Buying

CHICAGO, Feb. 1. (Exclusive)—Continued dry and cold weather over the Southwest is attracting more attention and was largely responsible for an upturn of 1¼@1⅝c in prices after a small decline early. The close was at about the top, with net gains of ⅝@1c, with July leading. March closed at 1.29⅝@1.30⅛; May, 1.31@1.31½, and July, 1.30⅝@1.30⅞. Corn gained ⅛@⅝c, with March 85½c and May 81⅝c. Oats were ⅛@⅝c higher and rye ⅛@⅝c higher.

There was some enlargement in the commission house trade in wheat and, as the buying was fairly persistent and offerings not heavy, the advance was easily attained, with selling on setting orders and against offers the main factors in checking the bulge. Outside markets failed to follow Chicago upturn here, and there was some selling aimed chiefly to credit to the Northwest. Liverpool was also affected by the dry weather in the Southwest and closed ¼@¾d higher, with July leading. A leading Kansas City house reported that there was around 14,000,000 acres in the so-called dry belt.

Commission houses were fair buyers of May wheat at times, while shifts were good bulers early, and taken as a whole the market showed more activity than for some time past. Wheat may gained ⅝c for the day, while Buenos Aires and Rosario were ¾c higher. There was a limited demand at the outbreak for cash wheat, and no reports sales of consequence were reported.

Receipts of corn, at leading interior markets Chicago excepted, and with reports that outside markets, including Peoria, were after cash grain here, local sentiment became more bullish, and while there was considerable profit-taking, as well as selling against offers, the bulge was well maintained. Basis in the local cash market was ⅝@1c higher as compared with May. Some investment buying was reported through outside commission houses.

While there was some corn sold to have been sold for export, the demand from abroad being less aggressive than of late. Weather over the belt was decidedly favorable for the movement, but country offerings to arrive were limited, and consignment notices "non" to evidence. Boston Atlantic cleared exchanges to ⅛c higher, and Seattle ⅛@1½c lower.

Local traders and commission houses were on the buying side of oats, with strength in corn a factor. The Northwest was a seller early. Trade showed some enlargement. Some export business was under way in, too, but quantities were not given. Reports with eastern authorities bought freely, and there was also buying in sympathy with the strength in wheat.

Trading in lard futures was fair, with packers and sellers and eastern interests the main buyers. At the close prices were 5½c lower to 2½c higher.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. (AP)—Trading in today's curb market concentrated on industrial specialties and the utilities which moved upward on pool operations. There were a few new highs but most gains were small.

The 13-point rise of Singer Manufacturing to a new high at 442 on a turnover of ten shares and the 10-point advance of Deere & Co. were outstanding in the industrial group. Nichol & Shepard which previously had accompanied Deere to higher ground, sold off a point and the bonds lost about 2 points. Bancitaly established a new high at 149⅛ under heavy buying and Nelville Shoe gained 6 points, touching a new top at 147½. Gains also were recorded by American Rolling Mills, Campbell Wyant, Canadian Marconi, General Baking and Metropolitan Chain Stores. Tubize Art Silk, Firestone and Ford of Canada lost 2 points each on small turnovers.

Decision of the Senate committee to recommend Interstate Commerce Commission investigation of public-utility companies doing an interstate business apparently checked the rise of utility issues although Electric Bond and Share gained 5 points and Electric Investors was up 2. National Public Service A, however, dropped 2 points and Northeastern Power and Lehigh Power Securities sagged. The rise in pipe-line issues lent strength to oils. Northern Pipe Line advanced 2 points to 100. 1-4, a new high, and Cumberland Pipe Line gained 4. Calena Signal Oil touched new high ground at 35. Humble, Prairie, Vacuum and International Petroleum were lower.

Newmont Mines again led the mining shares upward, advancing 1 point to a new high at 164 3-4.

The ... price is omitted when same as the last, and both bid and ... when same as the high.

NEW HORROR IN HICKMAN CASE

Juror Collapses as Confession is Told

Slayer Admitted Victim Died Under Knife

Detective Relates Ghastly Story of Slayer

New horror was injected into the Hickman case yesterday when the confession of the butcherer of little Marion Parker, written by his own hand and given orally to detectives shortly after his capture, was made public in detail for the first time as "evidence for the defense" in the Hickman trial. Introduced in the hope of persuading the jury that Hickman must have been insane by reason of the incredible brutality of his crime, the confession made terribly plain the fact that Marion's little victim did die of strangulation or of gas, but as the result of dismemberment at the hands of Hickman.

The details of the butchery, as set down by Hickman's own words, are nauseating. As the testimony was read, women members of the jury wept and sobbed from sheer horror. A messenger had to be sent for smelling salts for one of them.

DESPERATE MOVE

The act of the confession, written by Hickman, as made to the Los Angeles police officers who brought Hickman back from Pendleton, Or., near which he was caught, had been withheld by them until yesterday, in the hope that through the whole truth being known, Hickman would be moved, by a peculiar turn of circumstance—and perhaps betraying the ghastly straits of the defense—to aid Hickman's own behalf by the confession was introduced.

After the last of the "insanity depositions" had been read, the first detective was Detective Lieutenant Robert Lucas, one of those who received the confession. The defense had subpoenaed all the other officers for the State, apparently with some purpose in mind. District Attorney says that this move invited the admission by the defense of the facts in an effort to establish identity by the facts themselves.

GHASTLY STORY

In a deep, husky voice, his great hands gripping the arms of the witness chair, Detective Lucas told the ghastly story as he heard it from Hickman's own lips. Repeatedly, the witness said, Hickman was stopped and asked if the slayer added new details to show that death was due to something, and to nothing that had gone before. Not until the spinal cord was severed, he quoted Hickman as declaring, was the slayer certain that his victim was dead.

Much of the first verbal confession had been told the jury, the witness was questioned as to whether the statement had been obtained by any offers of reward or promise of help out to the prisoner. Laying a foundation in the records, Defense Counsel Walsh next asked if young Hickman's two confessions cut in his own hand, describing the crime and all of it, were from before the kidnaping of Marion Parker and the other a separate document attempting to explain his motives.

MOTIVES TRACED

Both of the documents were offered in evidence and were so ordered by Judge Thomas, who had sat motionless on the bench while Detective Lucas read his horrid tale.

Reading of the dramatic meeting between himself and Hickman in the Pendleton Jail, Detective Lucas said that the prisoner "threw his head back." The prisoner, the witness added, was feigning sleep when indicated, was feigning when his actions when notified that he was not deceiving the local officers.

Hickman, according to Lucas's testimony, signified his hope that he would be tried before Superior Judge Thomas. In quoting Hickman along this line, Lucas said: "The prisoner told me that Judge Thomas had handled his case before and he hoped he would."

PORT RAIL UNITY REALIZED

Document Effecting Important Harbor Transportation Reform Signed in New City Hall

The dream, several years long, of unifying the $50,000,000 of railroad properties operated by the five separate interests in the harbor district yesterday became a reality through a ceremony held in the room that is to be the Mayor's office in the new City Hall. It is the first official action of the city government in the new building.

"It is fitting," Mayor Cryer said, "that such a document as this should be the first to be signed in the new City Hall. It is an achievement over which those who are responsible for it may feel highly gratified."

END OF RAIL ROWS

President Allen of the Harbor Commission signed the unification contract for the city, President Carl Gray of the Union Pacific Railroad system signed for his people, Vice-President G. L. King signed for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and Vice-President D. W. Pontius for the Pacific Electric Railway Company. General Manager W. K. Etter of the Santa Fe was present to pledge the signature of President W. B. Storey of that line. Burt A. Heinly, secretary of the Greater Harbor Committee of Two Hundred, is to take the document to Chicago for the lacking signature.

"This is the funeral of those railroad troubles at the harbor," President Allen commented as he prepared to sign the contract.

President Gray said:

"This is as unique a proposition as has taken place in such circles anywhere in the country. On the part of the railroads it is a surrender of years of intrenched advantages for themselves in favor of the general public interest. It is a step in a new direction. The attitude of the Greater Harbor Committee of Two Hundred has been remarkably helpful in this action."

"It will redound to the benefit of all concerned," President Robinson said. "I congratulate Mayor Cryer

Occidental College will build a new student social union building to cost $150,000 and to be ready for use at the fall term, Dr. Remsen D. Bird, president, announced yesterday. Ground will be broken on the present campus, April 19, Founders' Day, and work on the structure will start immediately afterward.

Sufficient funds have been obtained already to warrant going ahead with the project, Dr. Bird declared, and the balance will be obtained before the building is completed. It is to be erected in the heart of the campus and will conform in architecture to the other school buildings.

BARONESSES PAY VISIT TO HOLLYWOOD

Two from Hungary on World Cruise Anxious to See Film Notables

Nobility of the world of make-believe has more appeal right now than nobility of real life for Baronesses Alexander Hatvany and Edith V. Weiss of Hungary, who arrived yesterday on the Cunard - Anchor liner Caledonia on a cruise around the world. They left the ship immediately for Hollywood.

BARONESS EDITH V. WEISS

"We can see persons of title any time," explained Baroness Hatvany, "but it's only in Hollywood one can behold the charming princesses of filmland, who are remaking the world's conception of nobility."

BARONESS ALEXANDER HATVENY

Both women were decorated for gallantry on the Italian front during the World War. Baroness Hatvany is making her second visit to Los Angeles in twenty years. They will continue on the ship, sailing this morning for Hawaii and the Orient.

EXPOSITION SITE BRINGS DEBATE

Grand-Stand Space Wanted by Two Boards

One Plans Swimming Pool; Other Conservatory

Problem to be Passed Upon at Meeting Monday

An Exposition Park controversy of far-reaching consequence is engaging directors of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, members of the municipal Playground Commission and members of the Park Commission. The issue, which thus far has been discussed without acrimony among participants, is whether the southeast section of the park shall be the site of a swimming pool or a conservatory, either of which it is proposed to make an outstanding attraction of the community. The problem is to come up for solution Monday.

The State owns the park. The association controls it. The Playground Commission, under an agreement with the association, operates that part of the park in which the southeast section lies. In the area is a large, old grand stand, now more or less unsightly. It once was the stand for the horse race track, abandoned when the Coliseum was built, and now used only for storage purposes.

PLANS FOR POOL

The Playground Commission wishes to build a great, outdoor swimming pool in the tract in such a position that the grand stand will be utilized. The stand is said to be worth between $75,000 and $100,000 for this purpose. It is proposed to equip the pool for all-year use by heating the water in winter and to furnish the plant so that it may be made the center of an intensive aquatic sports program that shall include not only neighborhood purposes but also shall become the center of city-wide aquatic sports and even State-wide and generally Southwest water sports events.

Such a pool, it is estimated by the Playground Commission, can be built for between $150,000 to $200,000 and is proposed as a great municipal asset promoting water sports in the Southland to a heretofore unheard-of extent. The location, because of its proximity to the Coliseum, is said to be ideal for such a project. Its appropriateness during the international Olympic contests, scheduled for the Coliseum in 1932, is admitted. Water events will form an important part of the 1932 program.

Before the Playground Commission may build the pool and remodel the grand stand, it must obtain consent from the association. This consent, the commission has been unable to get and now is campaigning for it. The association's directors, who thus far have controlled the situation, are understood to be inclined now toward encouraging further cultural projects in the park rather than further recreational projects. A Park Commission proposal complicates this situation.

PLAN CONSERVATORY

Somewhat contemporaneously with the Playground Commission's planning for a great swimming pool to become the center of aquatic sports, the Municipal Park Commission planned for a great conservatory and horticultural exhibit to add to the city's attractions.

The Park Commission wishes to erect a building to cost from $400,000 to $600,000, wherein it may house the present exhibit in Lincoln Park and add thereto as convenient. It believes that Exposition Park is a good place for the conservatory. The State exhibit is housed in a building there. The park also contains the Los Angeles County Museum. The Park Commission is developing there the largest rose garden in the world, and other facilities are favorable to such an institution as well as the general character of park attractions being along that line.

When the Park Commission laid its proposal before the association's directors the proposal was favorably received and some of the directors are understood to believe that the proper location for the conservatory will be on the site now occupied by the unused grand stand.

MUST GET CONSENT

So it is that the controversy arose over whether the tract should be used for a swimming pool or a conservatory. The Playground Commission claims, under an agreement it has with the association, the right to use of the tract for recreation purposes, but admits it cannot build the pool without consent of the association, and recognizes the association's general supervisory control as to building proposals. The Park Commission assumes the position that it merely has requested the association for a site and that certain of the association's directors suggested the grand-stand site, which the commission acquiesces is ideal.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

NOW let us be frank about this thing.

And examine the real facts of this hullabaloo about police brutality.

Sparing neither side.

BRUTALITY

A Hollywood paper had a long editorial the other day "exposing" police outrages. It told of numerous incidents where cops had dragged innocent young men out of automobiles, beaten them up and sent them to jail without cause.

A woman has written to me, telling of another incident. She says she saw two cops in an automobile crowd two boys on a motorcycle into the curb; drag them from the machine, beat them and send them to jail. One of the cops warned them of further dire fates if they reported the incident.

THE CHIEF REPLIES

I sent her letter to the Chief of Police.

He promptly replied that he will discipline the two men if they can be identified; also that he will deal severely with other such incidents; but he reminds me that the police are dealing with terrible conditions of crime.

TOUGH PROBLEM

So there are two sides to this.

I don't believe there is another city in the world with such a police problem.

We get not only our own crooks, but crooks from all over the world come here for the winter—like other tourists.

HICKMANS

They are nearly all respectable-looking, well-dressed young men—like Hickman. And they do not go around with their criminal records pinned on their coats.

The only way the police can find the Hickmans is to grab them and find out. In the process a great many innocent young men are grabbed.

THE DANGER

The most dangerous state of affairs that can possibly exist is for a sort of informal feud to start between decent citizens and the cops.

There aren't police enough in the world to protect Los Angeles without the active assistance of the public.

ENEMIES

Every policeman who shows rudeness to decent citizens is a fool. He is making an enemy of some one he may need desperately some day.

Every citizen who is antagonistic to the police makes a Hickman snicker with joy.

COPS FOR PALS

Every decent-minded citizen and every cop ought to regard themselves as bosom pals. The spectacle would make crooks weep with despair.

ROUGH STUFF

Every cop is not a diplomat. Many of them have a way of looking at you as though to say: "Well, I haven't got you in jail—yet."

On the other hand, suspicion to the essence of the police business. A cop without suspicion is about as useful as a plasterer without arms.

SCHOOL CHILDREN

The most useful sociological event going on in the United States is the detailing of policemen to help school children across crowded traffic. These little people will

LEWIS SCUTTLES OWN CRAFT

Julian Defendant, Exonerating Self, Drops Bomb on Structure of Defense Attorneys

Questions propounded by S. C. Lewis who, with nine other men, faces charges of having wrecked the Julian Petroleum Corporation, yesterday were construed as the first admissions made in the trial so far that there was an oversisue of Julian shares, and proved a staggering blow to other defense attorneys.

The questions asked during Lewis's examination of James K. Gregory, star witness for the prosecution and expert accountant, were intended to show that the first overissue of Julian stock came shortly after the company's permit to sell stock was revoked on July 3, 1925, six months before Lewis took charge of the company.

Instead, however, of bringing forth the desired information from the witness, the question boomeranged and during the afternoon recess defense attorneys were open in their declarations that the question had been one that tended to reflect against rather than aid the defense.

Lewis's unexpected line of examination climaxed a day replete with heated arguments and one stinging rebuke from Superior Judge Doran over defense tactics.

The court's rebuke followed a demand made by Defense Attorneys Joe Ford and Le Compte Davis that Gregory be made to produce the work-sheets he used in arriving at his conclusions regarding the overissue of stock and also a declaration by the defense that Gregory "is a reluctant witness."

"I have heard nothing here to indicate that this is a reluctant witness," the court said, "and furthermore, I instructed him to refuse to produce them at the time you were attempting to cross-examine him during a court adjournment."

The court's remarks referred to the recess granted last week for the purpose of allowing Gregory to go over his work-sheets.

HESSION GETS VALLEY POST

Inyo District Attorney Made Trustee of Watterson Estate and Creditors Express Pleasure

Owens Valley ranchers who are creditors of the defunct Watterson Brothers, Inc., won a victory yesterday when Earl Moss, referee in bankruptcy, appointed Jess Hession, District Attorney of Inyo county, as trustee for the estate.

Appointment of Hession had been requested by Owens Valley creditors and creditors in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Hession is declared to be the only candidate for the position of trustee who had "the confidence of the Owens Valley people."

JESS HESSION

Attorney George W. Rochester, appointed by United States District Judge Henning as receiver, bitterly protested the appointment of Hession and gave notice that he will appeal the decision of Referee Moss.

At hearings conducted by Referee Moss earlier in the week, Receiver Rochester was accused by attorneys representing Los Angeles and San Francisco creditors with having violated his oath of office by seeking to line up creditors in support of his candidacy for the trusteeship.

"The failure of Watterson Brothers is particularly a funeral of the Owens Valley people," Attorney A. H. Swallow, former resident of Owens Valley, declared. "It seems that the only just thing to do would be to give the Owens Valley people one of their own men as trustee. Such a man is Jess Hession."

Bond for Hession was set at $100,000.

FLEET FIRE TEARS TARGETS

Observer in Plane Describes Flood of Screaming Steel That Dwarfs Distance in Annual Practice

BY WALDO DRAKE
"Times" Staff Correspondent

AT SEA, ABOARD U.S.S. CALIFORNIA, Feb. 1.—A mile above the sea, from the cockpit of a navy plane, I watched America's electric fleet reach out over the horizon today and smother the enemy with a flood of screaming steel. The battleship divisions were engaged in their annual long-range battle practice and the enemy ships were stimulated by target rafts, but the scene brought home in striking fashion several things; chiefly, the immense distances of modern naval tactics and the absolute co-ordination of efforts in this fleet.

The far-flung field of action today presented a beautiful panorama to the watchers from the skies, but more clearly it demonstrated how distance has been dwarfed in the navy's harnessing of science to the job of national defense.

EYES AMONG STARS

The giant dreadnaughts California, West Virginia, Maryland and Tennessee—each the length of two city blocks—seemed like pygmy ships cleaving the blue sea and the ten miles that separated ships and targets was spanned with wink of an eye, while away off eastward the purple mountain ranges of the Mexican coast crowned the horizon. Airplanes have literally put the fleet's eyes among the stars—a far cry from the old days of sail, when the range of vision was what a boy could see from the skysail yard.

Down aboard the dreadnaughts, however, things close at hand seem

Ghastly Details of Little Girl's Murder Revealed

HICKMAN STORY STUNS JURORS

Women Nearly Overcome by Horror of Confession

Defense Plans to Call Many of State's Witnesses

Trial Expected to be Over by Saturday Week

and that he was against capital punishment and that he would not hang him on account of his religious affiliations.

"He told me that he would throw a fit for the judge and asked me what I thought of the fits he had thrown in the Pendleton jail and I told him that he might be able to fool the officers in the north, but that he couldn't fool the southern officers with any of his fits.

"Hickman went into great detail with me, relative to the selection of a judge and a jury, and then stated that he didn't want to be tried by a jury, but would plead guilty and take his chances before Judge Kerr."

With his hands trembling and visibly disturbed, Chief Defense Counsel Walsh stood directly before the jury box and read in a voice which at times was shaken with emotion first the nineteen-page confession and then the six pages in which Hickman had written his major motives for the crime.

Fear of detection by the police and the belief that to kill the child and dissect the body would assist him in evading suspicion and arrest are the first motives given by Hickman.

The desire to obtain money for a college education and the belief that it would be impossible for him to return the girl alive and escape, came second.

A peculiar complex which urged him to commit murder and the belief that some kind of a Providence was guiding and protecting him formed the third.

GOOD HABITS

In the remarkable document which now forms a part of the court records Hickman goes on to say that he does not believe himself insane and pointed out all of his good habits such as not smoking or drinking or "running around" with women.

In the confession which took Defense Counsel Walsh almost half an hour to read the youthful slayer explained that up to the moment of the actual killing he had no intention of taking his victim's life. He said that he attempted to strangle her on an "uncontrollable impulse."

Following the strangulation and when he believed the girl to be dead, the mutilation was begun, he wrote, only to assist him in disposing of the body. The opening of the girl's eyes was undertaken, he wrote in his confession, only for the purpose of delaying the little girl's father and obtaining for Hickman the $1500 ransom money which he was demanding.

SHOWN MISTAKES

In the confession Hickman went into great detail as to how he had evaded arrest and seemed to be taking great pleasure in pointing out various mistakes made by the local authorities in their efforts to apprehend him.

He told of the police search of his apartment and of how he talked to the officers and offered any assistance that he could give them in arresting the kidnaper. He also related how officers had stopped him in his mad flight from Los Angeles and how he had bluffed his way through a cordon surrounding the city.

While Attorney Walsh was reading this portion of the confession and during the examination of Detective Lucas when he told of taking part in the search of the Bellevue Apartment where Hickman lived, the former "bright student" of Central High in Kansas City showed visible amusement, a slight smile showing at the corner of his mouth as he sat at the counsel table surrounded by his attorneys.

In the major confession young Hickman did not go into the gory details of the strangulation and dissection to the extent told by Detective Lucas.

Detective Lucas in his statement maintained that the prisoner told his entire story in detail the day before he wrote out his confession, and that part of the more hideous details was omitted from the document.

HIS OWN STORY

The confession as introduced in court tells in chronological order the events which led up to and then resulted in the kidnaping and murder.

Beginning with his arrival in Los Angeles Hickman in his writing tells of the inception of the idea and how, on November 23, 1927, he rented an apartment under the fictitious name of Donald Evens. On December 12, he says, he attempted to locate the home of Harry Hovis, a local bank official, for the purpose of kidnaping his daughter. He then recounts changing his mind and deciding on one of the Parker children.

For the next several days, Hickman says, he spied on the Parker home and family, and on December 15 kidnaped Marion Parker from her school and began at once his series of letters and telegrams demanding ransom.

Following the actual kidnaping Hickman sets out in great detail all of his actions and emphasizes the kind treatment accorded the girl.

MORE TO BE CALLED

After telling of his efforts to elude the police and still collect the ransom money Hickman recounts what he declares to have been "the uncontrollable impulse" which seized him, and then tells of the murder, mutilation and delivery of the upper portion of the body.

Immediately following close of the court session Defense Alienist Skoog of Kansas City, met Hickman in the office of Chief Jailer Frank Dewar, for a last-minute analysis of the prisoner's reactions to the sensational courtroom events of the day. The alienist was accompanied by a stenographer and stated he was going to have transcribed Hickman's version of his own emotions while listening to the reading of his confessions and the testimony of Detective Lucas.

At the conclusion of yesterday's session the cross-examination of Detective Lucas had been completed by Dist.-Atty. Keyes and this morning the second defense witness will be called.

Defense Counsel Walsh says that he will call additional members of the police force of Los Angeles to corroborate the testimony of Lucas, and to give additional details of Hickman's sojourn in an Oregon jail and the subsequent trip to Los Angeles.

Following the police testimony the defense will call William Thomas Hickman, the slayer's father, and then the brother, Alfred, to be followed by the mother.

Defense Attorneys Walsh, Cantillon and Seivers, following a conference last night with members of the Hickman family, announced that the exact order of the calling to the witness chair of the slayer's parents depends on the health of Mrs. Hickman and the nature of the preceding testimony. At this time, however, they expect to call the father first.

ONLY A WEEK MORE

As a result of a noon-day conference between defense and prosecution attorneys and Judge Trabucco it was announced that the defense testimony probably will be completed by Saturday noon. A three-hour Saturday session will be conducted.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes and his assistants, Murray and Costello, said last night that they believe that all of the testimony and arguments should be in the hands of the jury by Saturday noon, next week.

Outlining the remainder of the defense evidence and testimony, Walsh said last night that he expects to call some local residents to the stand who knew Hickman during the period of his residence here. These will be followed by the three doctors, Skoog, Shelton and Fettes, who have been observing the youthful slayer since his incarceration here.

Prosecution predictions as to the order of its witnesses were vague last night, because of lack of information relative to the number of its witnesses to be called by the defense. Keyes declared, however, that he has no doubt of completing his case as per the present schedule.

Chief of Police Tom Gurdane of Pendleton, Or., together with State Traffic Officer "Buck" Lieuallen, the two northern officers who captured Hickman near Echo, Or., returned to Los Angeles and appeared in the courtroom yesterday as prosecution witnesses.

Yesterday morning's session began with reading depositions taken in Kansas City from Rebecca Tomlin, a teacher in Central High School of that city. She testified that she believed Hickman insane, but admitted under cross-examination that she was basing her conclusions principally on newspaper accounts of the atrocious crime which he had confessed.

Grace F. Hudson, chief-of-staff of the Kansas City Public Library, for whom Hickman at one time worked, along with other former employers also gave their versions of the prisoner's mental condition.

Two lengthy depositions, one from Mrs. Charles Edwards, and the other from her husband, recited facts of the young man's Kansas City life. Edwards in his deposition refused to say that Hickman was unable to distinguish between right and wrong.

DOUBLE CHARGE

Yesterday, which was Hickman's twentieth birthday, started out with him being led before Superior Judge Hardy at 9:30 o'clock to answer along with Welby Hunt, his 17-year-old companion in banditry, to the charge of having shot down and killed C. Ivy Toms, a Rosehill druggist. The shooting, according to the records and confession of the two boys took place on Christmas Eve, 1926. Judge Hardy set the joint case for trial on the 15th inst. and the proceedings themselves were brief.

While the two young men stood side by said before the tribunal they did not exchange a word or even a glance, although Hickman stood with a deep scowl on his face.

With young Hunt as he stood beside Hickman before Judge Hardy was his father, George L. Hunt, who arrived from the oil fields of Oklahoma Tuesday morning. Attorney Gilmer, counsel for Hunt, joined with Attorney Walsh in the continuance request. The elder Hunt declared, after the trial had been set for the 15th inst. that he intended to remain in the city and assist his son in every way possible.

ATTORNEY DENOUNCED

It was following this arraignment that one of the most dramatic incidences of the Hickman trial arose when Mrs. Rose Toms, widow of the slain druggist, rushed up to Chief Defense Counsel Walsh as he left Judge Hardy's courtroom and in a hysterical voice denounced him.

"I hate you. Oh! How I hate you, I hate you," the hysterical woman screamed before she could be led away by friends. Visibly shaken by the encounter Walsh replied as Mrs. Toms was being led away, "It's not my fault, you know, madam, I am very sorry for you."

The crowds at the trial yesterday increased to such an extent that new guards had to be placed in the hallways and the doorways of the barricade closely guarded by a squad of deputy sheriffs to keep the milling mob from breaking through the lines.

Deputy sheriffs attempting to maintain order in the crowded hallways, outside Judge Trabucco's courtroom yesterday were confronted with a new difficulty when a large fat woman appeared with a camp stool under one arm, her lunch and a bottle of water under the other, and seated herself at the head of the waiting line. Urged to depart she calmly notified the officers that "why don't one of you try to move me."

Later in the day, while attempting to partake of her lunch she was jostled by the crowd and dropped her water bottle on the marble floors of the corridor. While attempting to obtain another bottle from the janitor some one in the crowd stole her folding chair and thereby removed an annoyance with which the officers had found themselves unable to cope.

In all the New England States except Rhode Island, legislation has been passed to allow women to become hygienists and to work in dental offices.

SLAYER MAKES SELF-ANALYSIS

Motives in Fiendish Crime Set Forth at Length

Killer Justifies Murder as Act of Preservation

Points Cold-Bloodedness as Proof of Abnormality

Slayer Hickman's so-called "motive confession" was introduced and read in court yesterday by Defense Attorney Walsh.

The confession was identified by Detective Lieutenant Lucas as having been written and signed by Hickman in his compartment on the train bringing him from Pendleton to Los Angeles. At the top of the first page Hickman had written the single word "Motives." This he later scratched out, but in testimony from the witness chair and by direct reference it is branded "motive confession." It was also referred to as the "second confession" by defense counsel and the witness, Lucas. The statement follows in part:

Dec. 26, 1927.

My name is William Edward Hickman and this statement was made and witnessed on the S. P. train en route to Los Angeles.

This statement regards the kidnaping and murder of Marion Parker. The time of the murder was Saturday morning, December 17, 1927. The place was in Room 318 at the Bellevue Arms Apartments in Los Angeles.

I wish to explain in full the motives which prompted me to commit this crime.

NOT REVENGE

In the first place, let me say that the only circumstances connecting my intention of murder to Marion Parker are purely accidental. I was not prompted by revenge in the killing of Marion Parker. Only through my association with P. M. Parker at the First National Bank while I worked there as a page from January to June, 1927, made it possible for me to see Marion Parker and to know that she was P. M. Parker's daughter. This was an incidental due and I merely picked it up and followed it through.

My motives in the murder of Marion Parker are as follows:

(1.) Fear of detection by the police and belief that to kill and dissect the body I would be able to evade suspicion and arrest. I had warned P. M. Parker to keep the case secret and private but this he was not reasonably able to do, so that the great publicity and search which followed caused me to use what I considered the greatest precaution in protecting myself. After successfully dodging the authorities for two days I was overcome by such fear that I did not hesitate even to murder to escape notice. I consider that this fear and precaution was the result of my instinct of self-protection, in time of danger.

CONFIDENCE PRESERVED

(2.) Marion had a strong confidence in me for her own safety and I considered her own wish to return to her father Saturday morning too deeply. However, my desire to secure the money and return to college were even greater. I knew that if I refused to take her back Saturday morning she might distrust me enough to give some sign which would cause my discovery. Yet I felt that if I did take her back in daylight I might fall in a trap and be caught. So in order to get the money and to keep Marion from ever knowing while she lived that I would disappoint her confidence in me, I killed her so suddenly and unexpectedly, or she passed beyond consciousness so quickly and unexpectedly that she never had a fear or thought of her own death. Then, in order to get her out of my apartment without notice I was prompted after she was beyond consciousness to dissect her body.

(3.) For several years I have had a peculiar complex. Even though my habits have always been clean and although my high-school record is commendable, I have had an uncontrollable desire to commit a great crime. This peculiar feeling, and I believe that it borders on the edge of insanity, or that it comes as a weird relief from seriousness in deep thought, found a means of expressing itself in the Parker case. I am very sensitive and have a strong sense of pride. I have not been able to put a real practical value in religion or enough satisfaction that it is based on absolute reason. My deep thought on this subject and my apparent disappointment with my conclusion have shaken my sense of morality. However, I do not believe that I am insane or crazy, yet I do think this complex of mine should be considered least among my motives in this crime.

SOMETHING WRONG

The fact that a young man is willing to commit crime to secure expenses through college—and especially a church school—helps to explain this complex. I cannot understand it myself, but I do consider it a big motive in this crime. I do not consider crime seriously enough. I think that if I want something, no matter what means I have to use to secure it, I am justified in getting it. My record of crime illustrates this statement very thoroughly. Even in the murder of Marion Parker I could not realize the terrible guilt. I felt that some kind of Providence was guiding and protecting me in this whole case. These facts, I believe, are associated with my complex.

BOASTS MORALITY

I would like to say that I have had no bad personal habits. I have never been drunk or taken any intoxicating drinks. I smoke very little. I do not gamble. In support of these statements reference can be made to my record in the Juvenile Court of Los Angeles.

In giving these motives I have been as honest as I know how. I have searched my mind and impulses under all the circumstances and this is my truthful summary.

LEWIS WRECKS JULIAN DEFENSE

pose of allowing the defense to examine stock certificate books and other documents introduced into the evidence by the prosecution, at which time Gregory accused Le Compte Davis of attempting to cross-examine him in the presence of a shorthand reporter.

At that time Gregory refused to answer questions asked him, and sent word to the District Attorney's office. Chief Deputy District Attorney Davis immediately rushed to Judge Doran's court, where the examination was taking place. Judge Doran arrived at the same time and severely reprimanded the defense for the tactics used. Whether Gregory will produce his original work-sheets had not been decided at adjournment last night.

LAW LAID DOWN

"When you gentlemen were granted a recess of three days last week and two more this week it was done for the purpose of allowing you to examine the rather voluminous documents in evidence in this case," the court said. "It was not, however, for the purpose of allowing to cross-examine any witness in this case and your conduct was certainly discourteous," the court concluded.

Le Compte Davis admitted that he took the witness into the judge's chambers at that time but denied that he was attempting to cross-examine him.

A motion by Defense Attorney Dudley Robinson that the court's remarks by stricken from the record and the jury instructed to disregard them was denied by Judge Doran.

An unexpected blow was received by Lewis during his cross-examination of Gregory.

"How long, Mr. Gregory, would you estimate that it takes to make a survey of these documents," Lewis asked regarding certain records of the Julian corporation.

BACKHAND BLOW

"I cannot say offhand in regard to these particular records, Mr. Lewis," Gregory replied, "but if they were in the condition they should have been in it would not take more than three days."

Lewis in attempting to show that the overissue of stock began shortly after the Julian company's stock-selling permit was revoked on July 3, 1925, by inference tried to link past officials of the company with the overissue.

C. C. Julian, founder and promoter of the company, was president and chief owner at that time, relinquishing his holdings to Lewis on December 9, 1925.

The "little black book," which the prosecution has intimated will play an important part in the trial of the ten defendants re-entered the case yesterday when Lewis attempted to draw answers from Gregory showing that it had been a factor in the conclusions of his examination. Gregory maintained that the books, however, had been used by him and his thirty assistants only for the purpose of checking on cancellations of stock certificates.

"LITTLE BLACK BOOK"

The book in question is purported to be a private record of C. C. "Ted" Harris, former clerk in the transfer department of the Julian company and now an employee of the Julian company receivers. Harris has never testified concerning the book, although he appeared on the witness stand once to identify documents in the case.

Cross-examination of Gregory and his assistants is expected to take several days more.

The five days' recess granted by Judge Doran to allow the defense time to examine documents in the case is to be the last granted for that purpose, the court announced last week and reiterated yesterday.

BATTLE LOOMING

Further testimony by Gregory and at least two other mystery witnesses for the prosecution is expected to draw out the threatened battle between the prosecution and the defense over the character of the indictments drawn against the ten defendants.

Gregory's testimony will deal exclusively with the books of the Julian Corporation. The defense contends that there is nothing in the indictment to show that any of the men were officers of the corporation, through, it was pointed out, an error in drafting.

San Gabriel Dam Arguments May Conclude Today

Argument on the San Gabriel high dam-low dam controversy before Judge Anderson in the Superior Court probably will be concluded today, and the two injunction suits will be ready for decision.

James A. Anderson, counsel for San Gabriel ranchers who are opposing the construction of a 385-foot low dam in the canyon, presented his client's side of the case yesterday afternoon. Today the advocates of a low dam, represented by Attorney Roy A. Linn, will submit their arguments against a 425-foot high dam.

Testimony in the two cases has been taken before Judge Anderson for two weeks.

Divorce Granted to Marie Dodds

Marie Dodds, motion-picture actress, obtained a divorce from Edward Dodds, film director, yesterday after a brief hearing before Judge Beecher in Superior Court.

Mrs. Dodds charged failure to provide and testified that she has supported herself by her own work for two years. A property settlement was approved, whereby she got nothing but $150, with which to pay her attorney, S. S. Hahn.

She was granted the custody of her son, Edward, Jr., for whose support Dodds agreed to pay $15 a week.

Filling Harbor Contract's Dotted Lines

Dream of Years Realized

President Allen of the Harbor Commission is signing the contract which unifies the harbor railroads; seated with him is President Carl Gray of the Union Pacific, next to sign. Above, left to right, are Mayor Cryer, official observer for the city, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the Greater Harbor Committee of Two Hundred, the volunteer civic organization that helps work out harbor problems.

PORT RAILROAD UNITY REALIZED

in that it took place in his administration. It will benefit the public immensely."

D. H. McGarry, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce, described the action as of great public benefit and said:

"There is a spirit manifested on this occasion over which the public may feel glad. The community may be happy also that the officials of the railroads in it have displayed such spirit."

President Allen formally presented Secretary Heinly with the pen used in signing the document.

A host of public and railroad officials and employees attended the ceremony. The suite in which it was conducted has not yet been finished but it is nearly so and furniture was moved in for the occasion so that the Mayor's office might be dedicated by so important a transaction.

LONG STEP AHEAD

As was announced some time ago, a board of control is to have supervision over the combined railroad properties of the city and the four railroads and they are to be operated as a unit by a board of operation under the control board. On the control board will be four representatives of the city and one each for the four railroads. On the operating board will be one representative each of the city, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Pacific Electric and Santa Fe.

The unification has been declared by many in public life to be the greatest step in harbor progress since the building of the breakwater sixteen years ago, which virtually made the harbor.

COLDEN'S MOVE FOR DELAY CRUSHED

The efforts of Councilman Colden to have the signing of the contract postponed for thirty days so that the Council could shoot at the operating agreement came to naught yesterday, when City Attorney Stephens advised the Council that, by the provisions of the charter, the operating agreement is none of the Council's business. In short, the City Attorney told the Council that the agreement is one strictly concerning the operation of the city's belt line and is not a lease of the line and is therefore under the sole jurisdiction of the Harbor Commissioners.

In his report to the Council, the City Attorney pointed out that the agreement represents three years' negotiations between the city and the representatives of the railroads and that all at times the city's legal department was represented to protect the city's rights.

Dr. J. B. Dawson, Veteran Doctor of City, Passes

Dr. James B. Dawson, for many years widely known as an osteopathic physician in this city, died yesterday at his home, 2666 West Third street, following a short illness due to uremic poisoning.

DR. JAMES B. DAWSON

Dr. Dawson had been a resident of Los Angeles for twenty-six years and a practicing physician here for the last twenty-three years. He was 53 years of age and was born in Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p.m. from the undertaking parlors of Bresee Brothers, 855 South Figueroa street. Interment will be in Rosedale Cemetery.

Dr. Dawson leaves his widow, Mrs. Lillian J. Dawson, and two sisters, Mrs. Leona Cherry of Los Angeles and Mrs. William Chambers of Keechi, Tex.

Dr. Lovell will talk on "The Right Way to Good Health." He will answer questions left with the hostesses. All this is without charge. Dr. Lovell is editor of "The Care of the Body" in the Sunday magazine of The Times, and has thousands of devoted followers.

SHERIFF TRAILS ROBBER GANGS

Six Burglaries Reported in Twenty-four Hours

Two Boys Already Seized in Clean-up Campaign

One Thief Invades Houses to Obtain Clothing

With six burglaries reported to the Sheriff's office during the last twenty-four hours, Capt. Purrier, in charge of Sheriff Traeger's burglary investigation detail, yesterday outlined a campaign against several organized bands of thieves operating in county territory.

As a result, two boys already are in custody, having been apprehended while attempting to burglarize a lunch stand at 4966 Whittier Boulevard, owned by J. K. Cowan, according to officers.

CLOTHING STOLEN

The boys gave their names as Wilbur Westfall, 15 years of age, of 562 Ferris avenue, and Frank Robey, 16.

A lone burglar intent on equipping himself with a new outfit of spring clothing invaded two homes in Wilmar. At the home of Mrs. R. A. McCue, 121 West Newmark Place, the burglar took a new pair of shoes, leaving his own worn brogans in their place.

His next stop was at the residence of Arthur J. Faullott, 137 West Fern avenue, where the burglar took a suit of clothes, a kodak and a revolver. The plunder is valued at $125. The intruder used pass keys to gain entrance to both homes.

JEWELS RECOVERED

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Osborne, 6186 Whittier Boulevard, reported the loss of a platinum brooch valued at $100 and $32 in currency taken from their room by a burglar during the night.

Constable Rosell of Compton reported the recovery of a black bag containing a large quantity of jewelry from a sump hole at One Hundred and Thirty-third street and Broadway by workmen grappling for tools.

Fixture burglars entered an unfinished house owned by Peter Powelson at 4092 North Fair Oaks avenue, Pasadena, and took an automatic water heater and a complete set of bathroom fixtures valued at approximately $300.

EUTERPEANS WILL START MUSIC FUND

Opera Tomorrow Evening Will Be First Step in Plan to Aid Stage Aspirant

When a club reaches the stage when it need no longer devote all of its time to business and can launch some philanthropic venture, two things are certain, that it is well organized and that its future success is assured. This stage has just been reached by the Euterpe Opera Reading Club. Evidence is found in the announcement of the formal opera reading and reception to be given tomorrow evening at the Woman's Club of Hollywood.

The affair is to be a benefit. The proceeds will form the nucleus for a musical scholarship fund which will be used to train a young man or woman for the operatic stage.

Mrs. Daisy B. Coats is president of the club.

Mrs. Charles Henry Thompson is to be general chairman for the event, assisted by Mrs. Lewis B. Wood.

The program for the evening will begin at 8 o'clock with a musical reading of the opera, "La Gioconda," under the direction of Roland Paul. The English translation will be used, in accordance with Euterpe's policy to promote opera in English.

Immediately following the reading there will be a reception, with the officers and directors of the club in the receiving line. They include Mrs. Coats, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. M. H. Wolfang, Mrs. Alexander Anderson, Mrs. Lillian K. Floyd and Mrs. R. E. Filcher, and the directors, Mmes. J. C. Ferguson, Carl Earl, W. D. Logie, S. Wright Jewett, Creighton Brown, R. C. Buffum, Harry Shutts and Elmer G. Manafield, founder and first president of Euterpe. Mrs. Hector Geiger, junior past president, also will receive.

Dancing and refreshments will follow the reception.

Mrs. J. C. Ferguson, ticket chairman, is assisted by Mmes. L. S. Blenkiron, Pearl Cole McMullin, Matilda Murdock, A. M. Hargis, C. B. Kerr, W. J. Roach, Herbert W. Booth, Julie Endelman, Eleanor Jeal, J. C. Brown and Misses Charlotte Matis and Elizabeth Blackburn. Doors and ushers will be presided over by Mrs. Creighton Brown, assisted by Mrs. McKenzie Miller. Mmes. Stanley Brown and Mark McChrystal will act as doorkeepers, and Mmes. Sidney B. Van Noorden, Hugo Boorse, Paul Armstrong, David Ayres and Herbert Booth will usher. Refreshments are in charge of Mrs. W. D. Logie, and a committee including Mmes. Paul Kingsberry, E. Bridgman, A. E. Halsey, Thomas J. Okey and Miss Ruth Clayton.

Trial Ordered in Effort to Forge Narcotic Order

Taken into custody when he attempted to forge a prescription for narcotics at a local drug store, Thomas Lee was held for trial yesterday by Municipal Judge Baird on two charges of violating the State Poison Act. Bail was fixed at $3000.

Called to the stand by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Holland, H. A. Henry of the Henry & Coleman drug store, Sixth and St. Paul streets, testified that Lee presented a prescription for morphine on January 24, last. Suspicious of his customer, Henry told Lee he was out of the drug, but expected a supply within an hour. When Lee returned later, Inspectors Ferguson and Burke of the State narcotic division took him into custody.

The name of the physician, Dr. Stanley Boller, was forged to the prescription, the inspectors reported. They charged Lee with forging the prescription and with possession of narcotics.

BRIDGE PLANS ORDERED

The preparation of the final complete plans for the new viaduct to be built across the Los Angeles River at Sixth street was ordered yesterday by the City Council yesterday on motion of Councilman Sanborn. This viaduct will cost more than $2,000,000.

UNCLE SAM'S ROYALTY

There's a postoffice in North Carolina where Robert King is postmaster and Susan Queen assistant. Wonder how much jack they take in in a day?

MIDDLE-AGED LOVE

"A man past 30," says Prof. Will Durant, the philosopher, "is incapable of real love." Perhaps; but some men of 30 can only give a poor imitation of it.

THEIR DARK SECRET

Motor cops who ride up and down Long Beach Boulevard with no lights on their bikes probably have a good reason, but it isn't because "Love is blind."

WHAT IT COST US

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon estimates the cost of the World War to this country at $47,597,000,000. This expenditure has not added anything to the popularity of war from the taxpayer's point of view.

QUICK WORK

That big auditorium in Kansas City, where the Republicans will nominate the next President was built in ninety days for the Democratic convention which nominated Bryan in 1900. It will be put to better purpose this year.

PRESIDENTIAL WORRIES

Increased anxieties and overwork incident to the White House job have shortened the average life span of our Presidents from 73 years for those in office before the Civil War to 61 for those dying since that event, according to an insurance company's statement. Those who have been saying that we should make the duties of that office less exacting have in these facts new support for their arguments.

THE REAL NAPOLEON

The world has created a Napoleon who was a bit of a runt, but the doctor who was with him at his death is said to have taken his measure at five feet six and a half inches—which would be slightly less than his living stature. He was, therefore, as tall as the average of his people. On horseback he would loom up as stately as any of them. His legs were unusually short and in the saddle this was not noticed. The little corporal was big enough to make a world disturbance.

ABOUT MR. INSULL

Born in England sixty-seven years ago, Samuel Insull, whose name has figured so frequently of late in the Senate political investigations at Washington, hates publicity and has not been known to the general public until recently. Insull is a political anomaly. Poverty obliged him to quit school at 14, after which he studied electricity and came to this country as the private secretary of Thomas Edison, afterward becoming vice-president of the Edison industries and acquiring several millions. Just another example of what this country will do for an ambitious and studious young man.

ADORNING BEAUTY

The Prince of Wales indicated a vein of humor in his speech at the unity banquet of the British jewelers and their workers. He said that the earliest disclosures of the archeologists in every period showed a desire of the male to adorn his beloved. He was not sure but that ear-rings were older than trousers. The Prince is right. When they dig up the kings in ancient Assyria or Egypt they find rich and substantial evidence that the earliest rulers weighted their women with gold, jewels and precious stones. The earliest cavaman killed his first saber-toothed tiger in order that his sweetie might have a cloak worthy of her beauty.

LEAKY BUCKETS

Many sport for the division of spoils and then do not know what to do with them. If they were to obtain an equal division today, they would be empty and yowling for more tomorrow. They are constitutional mendicants, chronic propagandists.

It is hard to fill a leaky bucket. Easy comes, easy goes, is the law of the universe. When there is little struggle in getting, there is a weak grip in holding. Nothing but the pinch of poverty can put the hard knot in the purse strings. Hard knocks make hard heads in business. Experience seldom conducts any correspondence course. You get no degrees in absentia. A beneficiary seems to have a penchant for the greased chutes to the poor house. Bankruptcy is nature's way of redistributing holdings of the second generation. Coddled scions know little of keeping coin. It takes an alert mind to deal with sharks.

Leaky buckets, like empty wagons, rattle. Every shower beats a constant tattoo on its cymbals. The full vessel accepts its flood in silence. Leaky pails make poor bells. As receptacles of benefits, they must be discouraging to providence. A leak is not generosity. It has a maw that no charity can satisfy. Helping it is serving a slave.

WORK ON THE COLORADO

In his letter showing that individual States cannot collect royalties from such development projects as the proposed Boulder Dam, Secretary of the Interior Work has cleared much rubbish away from the Colorado River situation and put the discussion back on the firm ground of fundamentals. While his action may appear a hindrance to an early agreement between California and Arizona, in reality it furthers the main purpose by pointing out that these two States are headed up a blind alley and that no progress can be made in that direction.

In other words, according to Secretary Work, it would be futile for California and Arizona to agree on what special remuneration Arizona should receive for water and power provided by Boulder Dam, because the very nature of the project is such that it forbids Arizona to be paid anything. The Secretary instances a dozen cases of interstate irrigation projects in which no compensation is being paid, or demanded, and shows that the Arizona claim is without precedent or merit and that California has been wrong in conceding her right to royalties.

New Mexico gets no revenue from the Elephant Butte dam, though the impounded waters are used in Texas and Mexico; Wyoming is not compensated for the Pathfinder reservoir from which the waters are led into Nebraska, nor for Jackson Lake which waters a portion of Idaho. In these cases the Secretary discusses only water, but power is as much a product of the dam as stored water is and the same rule obviously must apply. It is apparent that the Federal government can sanction no plan which permits itself to be taxed, directly or indirectly, and that if it is held that States own the waters of interstate rivers and can charge royalties for their use Federal irrigation projects will be brought to an end. Such projects, in the future, can only be constructed and operated on a State partnership basis.

The principle so clearly brought out by Secretary Work does not, as he shows, interfere with the right of a State to tax physical properties privately owned, or at least not Federally owned, erected at a Federal dam or incidental to it. Arizona, thus, could tax a power plant erected at Boulder Dam by a private corporation, but not one built by the government.

This leads to the conclusion that those who hold that Arizona is entitled, in equity though not in law, to special revenues from Boulder Dam must consent to striking from the bill all provisions for a government-owned power plant. The erection of such a plant is made discretionary by the bill in its present form, though the attitude of President Coolidge and Secretary Work, heretofore made plain, is that they would sanction a government power plant only as a last resort.

As for charges for water, Secretary Work shows that these are out of the question. The additional cost of the water to be delivered at Yuma and in the Imperial Valley, if no more than repayment of the government is added, will be as much as agriculture can stand.

When the power revenues have repaid the Federal treasury the cost of the dam, the Secretary says, it will be time enough to talk about what to do with this revenue, and no one need quarrel about this income now. At the end of the fifty-year period it is conceivable that hydroelectric power will be out of date; it is also conceivable that it may be immensely more valuable than it is now.

It doubtless will be urged by partisans of the Arizona viewpoint that if the other States are willing to compensate Arizona for power, it is no concern of the Federal government. This is not true. To repay the cost of the Boulder Dam, the government will seek to sell power or lease power rights to the best bidder, and "royalty" payments to Arizona and Nevada would of course reduce the amount any bidder could afford to pay. The interest of the Federal government in the royalty situation is, therefore, direct.

Secretary Work suggests that an opinion from the Attorney-General on the question brought up by the Pittman resolution—that is, the question of the rights of States to the waters of interstate streams—is desirable, before the Federal government proceeds with any more reclamation projects. With such an opinion before it Congress can proceed intelligently to adopt either of two courses.

If the Attorney-General holds that the control of Congress over interstate waters is supreme, Congress can go ahead with the Boulder Canyon project without waiting for a State agreement. If the Pittman idea is held good law, Federal reclamation projects as such are dead and the Boulder Canyon bill with them. In that case Congress can indicate its retirement from the field and leave the erection of a Colorado River dam to the States or to private initiative.

The erection of such a dam is so desirable, so necessary in fact, that some way will be found to overcome the difficulties. But Congress should decide soon how it will act on the pending legislation.

JAPAN AND MANCHUKIA

Touching on the relations of Japan with China, Baron Tanaka, Foreign Minister of Japan, said in a recent speech that his country "would not hesitate at any moment to take proper measures to insure its rights and interests in that country." "With reference to Manchuria," he continued, "we are inclined to think that, in view of their peculiar historical and geographical relations to this country it may be necessary for us to take these provinces into special consideration."

This statement supports the view of those who have held that Japan intends to make Manchuria its particular field of operations with the idea of ultimate annexation. Japan is for the open door, but it wants to be the first one to enter that door, after which it may be closed in the faces of other nations. However, the other powers are not asleep, and are, indeed, watching the movements of Japan in Manchuria with great interest. They are not willing to concede that Japan's geographical proximity to that country or its historical relations with it makes it more open to Japanese exploitation than to that of other countries.

It may be a long time before the fulfillment of the Japanese program in Manchuria, as the other powers, particularly Great Britain, manifest an unwillingness to let Japan go ahead and monopolize a territory upon which each is casting its keen commercial eye.

IF YOU see a man in golf trousers suddenly stop his car in some nearby canyon, leap out excitedly, scoop up a lot of gravel, toss it into a little hand-power machine and begin eagerly turning the crank, don't imagine he's some cameraman who has gone loco and eloped with a patent churn. It's merely one of the 1928 model gold prospectors.

Here and there in the mountains one still comes on old prospectors of the types made famous by history and fiction, but they are widely scattered—as is the gold they seek. For ever since the days of '49 prospectors have been combing all the hills near here, and it is only where erosions of time and flood have brought it to the surface that new pay dirt may be found.

The New Crop

But now dry washing or "gold-finding" machines are being sold in Los Angeles, asserted to be so simple "any fool can use them." And quite a lot of men are buying them who look as if they were fitted to put that claim to test. They are buying the machines with the idea that they may use them while out on week-end trips and vacations, and perhaps discover riches.

Those who want to be absolutely certain to do so may, for only $100 extra, receive a course of lessons telling just how and where to find the right gravel.

Days Numbered

No, the old prospectors are not all dead yet. But we wouldn't wonder if, after they see these new model prospectors most of 'em would die.

Neglected Opportunity

Our street-car seat mate last night chanced to be G. D. Johnstone, Sr., who has been a mining man for forty years and pronounces himself an incurable. Mr. Johnstone was inclined to think there might be a surer profit in selling gold-finders than in using them.

"The greatest and most neglected gold-finding opportunity for this region," he declared, "would be the smelting of zinc. Thousands of tons of zinc are going to waste every year in Northern California because it costs too much to send it back to Kansas and Missouri for smelting unless it is exceptionally high grade. Yet it is just as good zinc as has made lots of men millionaires. The big zinc smelters are in Kansas and Missouri because they use natural gas there—and in Southern California we're letting stupendous quantities of natural gas go to waste. Zinc smelters here would develop a great new industry helpful to both Northern and Southern California."

NEW POMONA COLLEGE PRESIDENT

After eighteen years of devoted and constructive work as president of Pomona College Dr. James A. Blaisdell has won the higher honors of presiding over the central administrative offices of the whole group of affiliated Claremont Colleges and Dr. Charles K. Edmunds of Lingham University at Canton, China, has been appointed to fill the Pomona College vacancy.

Since Dr. Blaisdell originated the idea of applying the group college plan, modeled on the Oxford and Cambridge system, to the scholastic center on the hills north of Pomona, it was meet and right to leave the whole foundation under his supervision, now that the group plan has been placed in successful operation. When two years ago Dr. Blaisdell visited Europe to obtain a broader view of the whole problem of systematizing education he took what was best in the older universities and grafted it on what was best in modern American methods—and the Claremont Colleges are the gratifying result.

Pomona College, founded forty years ago, made such splendid records under the guidance of Dr. Charles Sumner that when Dr. Blaisdell took over the presidency in 1909 the need for more extensive accommodation to meet the demand on its educational activities had become insistent. With the affiliation of the Scripps College the campus was increased to 500 acres to include the famous Indian Hill, and the college buildings were grouped on the Oxford plan in artistic formation. Since then Claremont Colleges have enjoyed a world-wide reputation. On its thirty-ninth anniversary Pomona College had 3500 alumni to its credit, scattered through forty-five States and over eighteen foreign countries.

Such is the institution that has just summoned Dr. Edmunds, a man of wide scholarship and travel, to the presidency of its largest unit. Dr. Edmunds's long experience with oriental affairs and conditions makes him especially fitted for a college that promotes the interests of Southern California. Across the Pacific, through closer trade and cultural relations with the rising nationals of the new China, lies one of the leading goals of achievement in the future of the Pacific Coast. The western ideals of this essentially Californian school of learning will be furthered and the relations between the peoples dwelling on the shores of the greatest ocean will be elucidated to the profit of all by the appointment of an international educator of Dr. Edmunds's experience to the presidency of Pomona College.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE

Coming to this country on what he called "a mission of thanks to the American people," William Thomas Cosgrave, President of the Irish Free State, has been given a most cordial reception by our citizens, and is now on his way back home via Canada. His intense humanism and ready sympathy, characteristic of his race, were exhibited to good purpose when the train on which he was traveling to Ottawa was derailed with fatal results to some of those aboard and serious injury to others. Mr. Cosgrave rendered first aid to some of those who had been pinned down in the wreckage, and helped to calm the passengers.

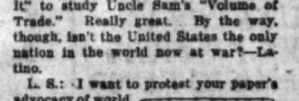
The career of this dynamic personality has been striking. He began life as a grocer's clerk in Dublin, where he early espoused the cause of home rule with such energy that twelve years ago he was sentenced to death and only escaped under the general amnesty of 1917.

Elected a delegate to the Dail Eireann, he advanced to Cabinet rank, though up to the spring of 1922 he was not very well known by his countrymen. Appointed temporary President in that year by President Griffith, who was ailing, he showed marked efficiency and when Griffith died in the same year and Michael Collins, the next most prominent leader, was assassinated, the presidential toga descended upon Cosgrave.

The political group to which Cosgrave has always adhered has made many mistakes, but the ultimate success of its cause and the energy with which it was prosecuted have done much to excuse them.

PRISON POPULATION

According to the latest tally there are now 4010 criminals in the San Quentin prison. This is the high mark for the institution, but it is hardly worth gloating over. There are still a lot of bad actors who should be there, so it looks as if the business of building bigger jails and penitentiaries would go on. The millennium will come when we can put the hoosegow out of commission.



TIME AND THE RADIO
By James J. Montague

I wish my radio would bring
The lilt and trill and quiver
Of songs the thrashers used to sing
Beside the winding river—
I wish, that with an eager ear
Amid the twilight hushes
The river's voice I still might hear—
The river's, and the rushes'.

I'd like to listen to the sound
From some long-lost September
Of laughing child and baying hound
That I so well remember.
The ruffling whirr of passing quail
Which through the dusk came winging,
The cow bells jangling in the vale,
The distant church bells ringing.

And oh, I'd like to hear the shout
Of long-deferred elation
Along in June, when school let out
The day before vacation,
And hear the echoes far beyond
A few short moments after
Of splashing in the shaded pond,
And happy boyish laughter.

But none of these old-fashioned things
From lands long since forsaken
The radio speaker ever brings
Old memories to waken.
For science never yet has cast,
Despite its magic power,
A net whose mesh can hold the past
For one brief fleeting hour.

"Legal Technicalities"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Regarding the editorial, "Let 'Em Bump," in The Times, your attention is called to the fact that proceedings were completed for the approaches of the Fletcher Drive bridge on May 2, 1927, and contract duly awarded, but through the adverse decision of Judge Shaw on a technicality on the San Fernando Road job the City Attorney advised that it would be necessary to rerun the proceedings on about one-half dozen jobs that had the same legal defect that the San Fernando Road job had. Among these were the approaches to the Fletcher Drive bridge.

This legal technicality involved the description relative to the installation of the storm drains. The description used was short form in order to save printing and to facilitate the preparation of the ordinance. The ordinance referred to the detailed plans for more particular description of work. All of these ordinances, of course, were duly approved by the City Attorney prior to their presentation. However, through the adverse decision of the courts it was necessary to rerun them and in the case of the approaches to the Fletcher Drive bridge this was done and contract for Fletcher Drive from San Fernando to Glendale Boulevard was signed on January 23, 1928. The actual work of construction has started. It is, therefore, obvious that it would be a waste of money for the city to spend any funds at this time on resurfacing the existing road.

The ordinance for the improvement of Fletcher Drive between Verdugo Road and San Fernando Road is complete and in the hands of the City Attorney, but is held up at this time pending receipt of the necessary certificates of title to complete the dedication. It will probably be thirty days before such certificates can be had and the ordinance approved.

Federated Farm League

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I wish to reply to the proposition of Senator Nye of North Dakota to unite the farmers of the South and West in a new political party if need be to secure their rights. His speech before the Westchester County Bankers' Association was reported in part by The Times January 29. As a land owner and practical farmer I am thankful for friends who are working in any way to help to better our lot.

Having had experience in organizing the Anti-Saloon League, and finding that both political parties helped temperance when the antirum forces were properly organized, I advocate forming a Federated Farm League of "dirt farmers only." Let these league members go into central county and State committees and get men nominated in both parties loyal to farmers.

I favor new farm journals that will in fact help the farmer, and I think farm journals now being published can be influenced to be more fair. Lincoln said: "The nation cannot exist half free and half slave." What ruins the farmer will soon ruin the nation; what will help keep him contented and on the farm will help all classes.

A. E. POUTCH.

Plenty of Choice

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] If your correspondents who complain of the radio programs will do a little dial-moving occasionally instead of tuning in one station and sticking to it they will get better results. Some one of the local broadcasters is pretty certain to be putting an acceptable program on the air, no matter what may be the taste of the listener.

If I were to express a preference it would be for more chamber music. Some of the finest creations of the composers are written for four strings, and the stringed instruments also are particularly adapted to broadcasting—and to receiving! Even the cheapest and most imperfect receiving sets reproduce such music fairly well, while the symphonic orchestra can only be handled with the aid of the best receivers, the volume and range required being way beyond the capabilities of the cheaper instruments.

Let us have more string quartets, and more programs like those sponsored by a certain local soap company, consisting of a small group of good artists rendering standard music. When the radio attempts to do too much it overreaches itself.

Cheese More Sacred Than Life

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It doesn't seem possible that in this year of 1928 in the United States of America we actually have a case parallel to that of Jean Valjean of "Les Miserables!" Let a Los Angeles judge last week sentenced a man to one year to life for stealing a piece of cheese! Believing there must be some mistake I looked it up in three different newspapers—and each one gave practically the same account.

With brutal thugs, pickpockets, drunken drivers, etc., being given probation or light sentences every day—a man is sent to prison for life for stealing a piece of cheese!

THE ART OF IBANEZ

BY BAILEY MILLARD.

It must be that a large proportion of the readers of fiction have a fancy for the terrible, else the novels of Vicente Blasco Ibanez never would have enjoyed so great a vogue. Like Tolstoy, he reveled in tragedy and painted in crude colors on large canvases. His schemes were spacious, often ranging over great distances, from one country to another. He had a passion for pathos and thought nothing of killing off his heroes, sometimes in a way to make the sympathetic reader shudder.

Many people fancy the terrible, and perhaps, after all, they rather enjoy being harrowed. At any rate, thousands of them have devoured the work of Ibanez, and now that he is dead they will continue to devour it even more avidly. For the death of an author is one of his best pieces of publicity.

Ibanez gained faint recognition by his first novel, "The Cabin," written in his twentieth year soon after his imprisonment as a revolutionist in Barcelona. Before this he had studied law which he never practiced, and had become a journalist, having established an outspoken republican newspaper, soon suppressed by the authorities. The hero of "The Cabin" takes up some waste land and goes to live there with his family. The neighbors make his life miserable, his child dies, and after a long period of torment and abuse he and his people are driven from their holding. It is a touching story, wholly unlike any of the other children of Ibanez's fancy, and perhaps the least bloody of all.

"Blood and Sand," which quickly followed his first novel, gave the young writer world-wide fame. This story follows the career of a young bullfighter from the days when his youthful ambition to shine in the arena fills the hearts of his family with foreboding up to the time when he meets disaster and death in the bull ring before the eyes of the woman he loves, but who has contemptuously rejected him. In this story is found the "strength" beloved of those readers who have a passion for realism of the sanguinary sort.

It is in "The Four Horsemen" that one sees the art of Ibanez at its best. Here he surprises one by his knowledge of the Argentinos, who are painted with rare color and made to live before one's eyes. The story sweeps from Paris to Buenos Aires and the pampas and back to the French capital in a way and with a fidelity of treatment that reveal the cosmopolitanism of its author. Then we see the four apocalyptic horsemen, harbingers of the great war, and Julio Desnoyers, who has been leading an objectless life in the Latin Quarter, rushing forth with the French soldiers to check the threatened invasion of Paris, leaving behind him the woman he loved. But here again we have the Ibanez predilection for a fatal finale, logical enough in this case, but particularly pathetic as one is told of how the eagerly searching father and mother find in the great rough burial field the cross rudely carved with the name "Desnoyers."

In that other war novel, "Mare Nostrum," we are taken out upon the sea with Capt. Ulysses Ferragut, witness his toils and dangers, and when his ship is sunk by a submarine we see him go down into "the infinite levels of the abyss, inert and without volition," while a voice within him is crying, "Amphitrite, Amphitrite!" It is the most highly imaginative and impressive sketch of a drowning I have seen in any book.

Ibanez has been called an atheist, but while I have found pantheism and a sort of agnosticism in his work, especially in "The Shadow of the Cathedral," highly commended by Howells, I see nowhere any denial of the existence of a deity. He was a revolutionary agitator, and for that reason was driven out of Spain. From Paris he recently wrote of the Spanish government: "There has never before been such wholesale corruption in the administration of public affairs. Nothing like it has ever been known. . . . The Premier lavishes military honors upon his friends . . . Today Spain has one more colonel than Germany had before the war."

These attacks added nothing to his reputation as an author. Perhaps by this conduct he thought to make himself known as another Hugo, but he did not mix politics and authorship as effectively and sensationally as did the great Frenchman.

HOME

A poet sung of "Home, Sweet Home,"
A haven fair, a place of rest;
No matter where the feet might roam,
They always turned toward the nest.
Be it the laborer's humble cot,
The banker's mansion 'mid the trees;
It was the one remembered spot
Where weary man could take his ease.

Well, when the poet wrote that song,
And all the world began to sing;
It may be said he was not wrong,
The world was not yet "on the wing."
Now when the evening sun drops low,
No laughter shakes the festal board;
The world is "up and on the go,"
And home is just a little Ford.

STARCH HAS A STORY

The use of search in the laundry began about 350 years ago, and is said to have originated in Flanders. It came into popularity in England in the reign of Elizabeth, whose courtiers and ladies wore ruffs or cambric too large to stand firm without artifical stiffening. The starch was like that of modern times except that it was colored—red, yellow, green and blue—and gave delicate tints to the huge linen contrivances of the beaux and belles of the period.

The method of using starch was a secret and in order to find a person who could properly starch her linen, Queen Elizabeth was compelled to make a nation-wide search and Mrs. Guilham, wife of an official of the royal household, was the first starcher. In 1564, a Flemish woman, Frau Vandh Plasse, came to London and established there a school to teach starching. The school succeeded, and the Frau of Flanders became rich.

PRISON LIFE

There is no comfort in a cell for the prisoners, morose and dull, who look out between the rusty bars and see us in our choo-choo cars and how they envy us and yearn! For we have liberty to burn. The prisoners in tier and cell, surpassed by a musty smell, are weary of the wretched place, of the stigma of disgrace. I am as sinful as they're I mutter, as I tool my car; my ambitions run to crime, but when I see them do their time, I see the lawlessness is punk; it brings to a prison bunk, and puts the mark on his brow—and so I do not steal a cow, or rob a roost, or shove the queer, or swindle the poor auctioneer. I see the rude stuff doesn't pay, and so I put such thoughts away. A man who serves a term in jail for his wicked thoughts prevail. And when he leaves the house of steel he should forget his sad ordeal; he's paid his debt, give him a chance to live his shame down and advance. But always there is some cheap jay to give the wretched man away. For years in virtue's path he walks, at every sort of crime he balks, and when he thinks the past is dead, the truth is by vicious tongues is spread, he served a term in Punktown Jail for stealing seven casks of ale. The price of crime is much too high. I'll stick to virtue till I die.

DISPUTES SHAVING THEORY

For years it has been said that shaving brings more and stiffer whiskers. It is a popular belief that the oftener a man shaves the faster his beard grows. In this day of bobs and shameless gowns women are no longer interested. How often a woman goes to her hair trimmed will enlist the interest of her barber not to use the razor on the neck.

But at home she may do so. Many others of her sex do—disdain all theories to secretly use hubby's or brother's safety razor under the arms. Such women will be pleased to know the conclusion of Dr. Marion B. Trotter, assistant professor of anatomy at Washington University, St. Louis, who has inquired into the subject. She finds that a razor has no effect on hair growth and nothing to do with it. Also that there any relation between menstruation and hair growth.—[Public Service]

BAIL BOND BROKER SEIZED

Malaby Arrested With Three Others in Robbery of El Monte Clothing Store

Charles Malaby, Los Angeles bail-bond broker, arrested as an asserted "fixer" during the recent bail-bound investigation, is held in the County Jail with three other men linked with the robbery of an El Monte store and sale of $6000 worth of stolen goods, it was revealed at the Sheriff's office yesterday.

The other men in custody gave their names as Tom Seymour, 25 years of age, 1526 South Hope street; John P. Farrell, 30, Third and Figueroa streets, and James J. Gormley, 36, Vine street and Fountain avenue. Malaby and Gormley are charged with receiving stolen property while Seymour and Farrell face charges of assault with intent to commit murder, burglary and robbery. Three other men are sought in connection with the same burglary.

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriffs Ousby and Slough, and Capt. Furrier of the Sheriff's burglary investigation detail, after more than six weeks' investigation.

J. A. Waters, proprietor of an El Monte clothing store, was the victim of the burglary. His entire stock of clothing was taken by the intruders, loaded into a truck and hauled away on the night of December 19, 1927.

Immediately after the burglary the truck was sighted by Deputy Constable Wiggins, who crowded it to the curb and was preparing to investigate when a large touring car drove up and opened fire on him. During the gun battle the burglars escaped. Seymour and Farrell are accused of driving the truck halted by Wiggins and the three other men still at liberty are believed to have occupied the car which guarded the truck and assisted in its escape.

Malaby and Gormley are charged by officers with disposing of the stolen clothing to Los Angeles and Santa Monica "fences," who deal in stolen goods.

Seventy of the suits taken from Waters's store were recovered in a Los Angeles clothing store and thirty suits were found in a Santa Monica shop, according to the officers. Clews implicating other merchants have been unearthed, the officers state.

NEW CHARGE HURLED AT PROSECUTOR

County Efficiency Bureau to Investigate Assertion Keyes's Aides Careless

Charges of chaotic conditions and carelessness in drafting pleadings in the District-Attorney's office will be investigated by the County Efficiency Bureau, it was stated yesterday, after a letter containing these assertions was referred to Secretary Sam J. Chappel of the Civil Service Commission for preliminary investigation.

Mr. Chappel said during the week he will work out a mode of procedure for investigating the charges, which were filed by Attorney W. J. Clark, and will report next Wednesday to the bureau.

James A. Anderson, chairman of the Bar Association committee which is investigating the circumstances surrounding the exoneration of a $5000 bond on motion of a member of the District Attorney's staff, declared yesterday that a report on the matter will be submitted to Superior Judge Hollizer within a few days.

Mr. Clark's letter stated that the drafting of indictments and informations by Dist.-Atty. Keyes's assistants was careless and inefficient, and cited three instances where the documents were faulty. He suggested the bureau examine 100 closed cases to determine if faulty instruments were unusual or of common occurrence.

Date Fixed for Stage Row Trial

The recent back-stage fistic encounter between Harry S. Miller, lanky singer in the production "Sunny," and Peggy Hope, diminutive comedienne, will be aired before a jury the 27th inst., Municipal Judge Blake yesterday setting that date for trial.

Miss Hope charges Miller with battery and vice versa. It will be up to the jury to decide which, if either, is to blame.

Miller is in San Francisco, it was said yesterday, appearing on the stage there. Miss Hope is in a sanitarium.

TOWNS FIGHTING RED LINES' PLEA

Chambers Aid Communities Oppose Fare Rise

Hollywood Offered Plan for Universal Transfers

Pasadena, Long Beach and Glendale Arrayed

Opposition to the application of the Pacific Electric for a general increase in passenger fares was offered yesterday by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce and the cities of Pasadena, Long Beach and Glendale at the closing session of the rate hearing before President Whitsell of the State Railroad Commission. The case was ordered submitted with the understanding that the protestants will have thirty days in which to file briefs.

The question of universal transfers honorable on both the local red cars and the Los Angeles Railway system was touched upon slightly after it was raised in the objection of Carl Bush, secretary of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, to any fare increase. Attorney Frank Karr, representing the Pacific Electric, agreed to the establishment of the transfer system if a sufficient increase in rates to warrant it is granted. J. G. Hunter, assistant transportation engineer for the Railroad Commission, testified that the exchange of transfers between the two lines would cost the Pacific Electric $69,111 yearly.

Mr. Bush objected to the proposed rate increase on the ground that the universal transfer system to which the car riders are entitled cannot be established until the rates of the two lines are equalized. He also argued that an increase would result in a falling-off of travel and a substantial reduction in revenues. Declaring that the application for a general increase is not worthy of consideration in view of the reports by state engineers at previous hearings, Mr. Bush closed by saying that the Pacific Electric is not entitled to a virtual monopoly on a large portion of the Hollywood business and higher fares at the same time. He criticised the railway for not giving more adequate north-and-south service in the Hollywood area.

GLENDALE CONTENTIONS

The Glendale interests were represented by L. H. Myers, secretary-manager of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, and V. E. Wilson, public utility attorney. Mr. Myers testified that residents of Glendale are satisfied with the present low experimental rates with the exception of the comparatively high commutation fares, but object strenuously to any increase. In view of the average length of haul and revenue per car mile on the Glendale-Burbank line, according to the testimony of Mr. Wilson, no rate rise is justifiable on that line. Both witnesses agreed that a decrease in commutation rates would stimulate travel and increase net revenues.

Under the direction of Deputy City Attorney Diether of Pasadena, E. D. Mitchell, special transportation engineer, testified that it would not be economically wise or feasible to increase rates on either of the two lines running from Los Angeles to Pasadena.

The witness declared that automobile transportation has become so cheap that residents of the suburban city will use that means of transportation exclusively if higher fares are authorized because it will be less costly for them to do so. He submitted exhibits calculated to show that the revenues from the Pasadena lines per passenger and per car mile already are higher than the average for the remainder of the railway system, and he declared that it would not be reasonable to expect a further increase for these lines.

LONG BEACH'S ARGUMENT

Mr. Melcher pointed out that the 10-cent-fare zone extends from Los Angeles to within 9000 feet of Pasadena city limits, while the cash fare from Los Angeles to Pasadena on either of the two interurban lines is 20 cents. It is possible, he said, to ride from Pasadena to Los Angeles or vice versa for 16 cents. This can be done, he disclosed, if passengers will transfer from a local line in one city to a local line in the other, and in view of this condition an increase on the interurban lines would scarcely be justified.

The Pasadena Oak Knoll line and the short line could be made to pay the net revenue desired by the railway, the engineer indicated in his testimony, if a number of nonpaying local lines in the northern division of the railway system are abandoned. These nonpaying lines, he added, comprise 10 per cent of the northern division and if the company did not have to pay losses occasioned by them the revenue for the division would satisfy the company's needs.

Charles A. Bland, traffic manager for the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, in presenting the case for the beach municipality, adopted much the same line of argument used by Pasadena's representatives. He submitted a table showing that the revenues per passenger and per car mile are higher on the Long Beach and San Pedro lines than any others. He also contended that if a fare increase is granted many owners of private cars will use them instead of riding on the street cars, but, if sufficient reduction in rates is made many automobile owners will return to the use of the street-car lines.

VENICE MAN TALKS

He submitted lengthy briefs showing the growth of Long Beach and its numerous attractions to the general public. Using these as a basis he argued that rates should be as low as possible for the benefit of the community and its future development.

Eugene M. Rittenhouse, member of the Los Angeles Playground Commission, and a resident of Venice, taking the witness stand on behalf of Venice's plea that the Venice short line be classed as local service and fares reduced accordingly, testified that in his opinion one reason why the present rates are not producing the desired revenue is that the Pacific Electric virtually has divorced itself from a short-haul business. This has come about, he declared, because the short line is paralleled in Los Angeles by the lines of the Los Angeles Railway on Pico and Washington streets, and on these lines the local fares are one-half those charged on the red line. A similar situation exists, he added, between Venice and Sawtelle, where motor busses operate. He also objected to the fact that the fare from Mar Vista to Venice is 10 cents, and from Mar Vista to Culver City is 6 cents, although the distance between Mar Vista and Culver City and Mar Vista and Venice is the same.

Duane Funeral Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services for Dr. D. W. Duane, M.D., Ph.D., who died Tuesday at the General Hospital after a prolonged illness, will be conducted at 10 a.m. tomorrow from the funeral chapel of Walter C. Blue, 717 West Washington street, according to announcement yesterday. Burial will take place at Inglewood Cemetery.

J. A. McCAUSLAND'S SHOE SHOP MOVED

J. A. McCausland, one of Los Angeles' longest-established shoe merchants, located for many years at 326 South Broadway, has sold his lease at that location and moved to 410 South Broadway. The new store has been completely refinished and a new stock of spring footwear installed for the opening today. Mr. McCausland remains in direct control and active management of the store.

ANGERED OWNER TURNS HOSE ON CREW DIGGING UP STREET

Nobody can deface property belonging to Mark Bunce, 64 years of age, retired, and get away with it, according to the deal he hurled yesterday at a score of city employees who attempted to dig up the street in front of his oil-station at 403 South Lorena street.

Bunce fumed and fretted and admonished every time the employees dug up a spade of dirt. He appealed to them to "stop damaging my property," but all to no avail. Finally in utter desperation he procured a garden hose and turned it on all who gathered enough courage to continue with the work.

Police reserves were called to halt the loafing of employees on the city's time. Policemen Proctor and Campbell of Boyle Station were first to reach the scene of hostilities. They argued with Bunce to put down his weapon and let them arrest him. He declined with thanks. The officers went into consultation. They decided to rush the business man. They did.

Deputy City Prosecutor Coultas issued a complaint charging Bunce with disturbing the peace. He admitted his guilt to Municipal Judge Bush, but not until he had begged for an injunction, a writ of mandamus and several other court orders to prevent the city from repairing the street in front of his property.

Judge Bush warned Bunce to behave himself and not to attempt to prevent the city workers from cutting up the street between the hours of 8 and 5 o'clock. He sentenced him to pay a $50 fine, but suspended it for a year on promise of the defendant to desist.

SIMPLE RITES FOR DR. DORN

Plans for Military Funeral, Aided by Firemen, Abandoned at Request of Family

At the request of members of the family that there be no untoward demonstration, plans for a military funeral, assisted by the firemen's band under Fire Chief Scott and a police escort for Police Surgeon Norman F. Dorn, who died unexpectedly Tuesday night, were abandoned yesterday.

While scores of his many friends in both the police and fire departments were preparing to attend the obsequies, announcement was made of the funeral services in the form of a requiem high mass at St. Vincent's Church at 9 a.m. tomorrow to be followed by interment in Calvary Cemetery.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock religious services for members of the family and intimate friends will be conducted at the Cunningham & O'Connor chapel at 1021 South Grand avenue. St. Vincent's Church is at Adams and Figueroa streets.

Dr. Dorn, who, for the last eleven years held the position of assistant police surgeon at the Los Angeles Receiving Hospital, died at the Chase Sanitarium Tuesday evening from a severe attack of pneumonia. His death, coming so suddenly, was a severe shock to his many friends. Those more intimately acquainted with him in his work had known for the last month that he had been carrying out his duties at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital through sheer nerve and will power. He was a man of seemingly robust health, having been among the 200-pounders when a football star at the University of Southern California.

Dr. Dorn was a native son, born in Los Angeles. In 1913 he entered the service at the Receiving Hospital under Chief Police Surgeon Goodrich as a student nurse. In 1916 he received his medical and surgical degrees at the University of Southern California, and, as assistant police surgeon, again became connected with the Receiving Hospital staff.

When the World War broke out Dr. Dorn entered the Naval Medical Corps and served as a lieutenant until the end of the conflict. After his discharge he again took up his former duties at the hospital. He was 35 years of age when death closed his career.

Dr. Dorn leaves his widow, Mrs. Angela Eberhart Dorn; his father, W. W. Dorn, and a sister. The Dorn home is at 1044½ Cloverdale avenue.

DR. F. G. GOODRICH IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Scarcely recovered from a severe attack of lumbago of a month ago, Chief Police Surgeon F. G. Goodrich again was confined to his bed in his home at 330 Mt. Washington Drive from a heart attack yesterday. Drs. Saverien and Sebastian, who visited the chief surgeon late in the afternoon, declared his condition is grave. He is being attended by a special nurse, his wife and daughter.

Dr. Goodrich was taken ill Tuesday evening after performing two major operations at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. His last duty before being taken home was to visit his assistant police surgeon, Dr. Norman F. Dorn, who died later that night.

Long hours on duty in superintending the entire reorganization of the Receiving Hospital and establishment of one of the finest hospitals of the kind in the country at the Georgia-street Police Station are believed to have caused the illness which confined the chief surgeon to his bed a month ago. Recovered from this, Dr. Goodrich a week later was back at his work, which many times calls him to perform major operations during the night hours.

Funeral Today for Mrs. Nelson

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Black Nelson, 55 years of age, wife of Col. Hunter B. Nelson, U.S.A., retired, 5343 Russell avenue, Hollywood, will be conducted at the Little Church of the Flowers at 11 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Nelson's mother was one of the Daniels family of Virginia, many of whom have been prominent in army circles. She leaves a son, Willoughby D. Nelson, who is a junior at the University of California at Berkeley; a daughter, Hazel Nelson of Los Angeles, and a sister, the wife of Col. William Force of San Francisco.

She had been ill for about four years, but her condition was not regarded as serious until recently. Rev. Phillip Eccley of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church will officiate at the services, which will be in charge of LeRoy Bagley. Interment will be at Forest Lawn.

ENGLISHMAN TO LECTURE

Dr. John Henry Muirhead, professor of philosophy at the University of Birmingham, Eng., will appear as special lecturer in the department of philosophy of the University of Southern California for the 1928 spring semester, which opens the 8th inst. Prof. Muirhead arrived on the Trojan campus yesterday.

RULE REVIEWED ON ORATOR AGE

Student Few Days Older Than Limit Barred

High School Post Graduates Not Eligible

Private Institution Pupils May Enter Contest

Inquiries concerning the Fifth National Oratorical Contest are pouring into the office of Prof. Alan Nichols, director of the contest for the Pacific Southwest.

One of the questions being asked repeatedly is in reference to the age limit of students who can enter the contest. Loyola High School, for instance, had a young man who was 19 years of age last month, who is anxious to compete, and wrote in to see if the rules would permit him to enter in view of the fact that he was a few days past the age limit.

TWO STUDENTS BARRED

At the same time a query came from Beaumont High School in Riverside county regarding the entrance of a student in the contest who was 19 last July. This youth prepared an oration last year and became ill and was unable to compete. The school wanted to know if the young man could enter the contest this year provided he used the oration written for the contest last year.

Prof. Nichols was forced to reply that both students are ineligible. Only students born since February 1, 1908, are eligible to compete under existing rules.

Several of the more numerous questions asked and their answers follow:

(1.) Are students in private schools in grades corresponding to the high-school grades eligible to enter the contest? Yes.

GRADUATES INELIGIBLE

(2.) Are students in evening high schools eligible? Yes, even though they are only taking part-time work.

(3.) Are students taking part-time work in high schools eligible? Yes, if they are bona-fide students in recognized part-time high schools.

(4.) Are students who have graduated from high school and are taking post-graduate work, but are within the age limit, eligible? No. A graduate student is not a bona-fide student within the rules of the National Oratorical Contest, even though within the age limit.

(5.) What rule governs disqualification? If for any reason, a contestant is disqualified or voluntarily withdraws from the contest after having progressed through one or more of its stages, his place is to be taken by the contestant adjudged next best to him in the last competition in which he participated prior to his disqualification or withdrawal.

(6.) Who decides in case of uncertainties as to eligibility, orations and other matters? The zone director, California, Nevada and Arizona this year are in the Pacific-Southwest zone and contests in these States are held under the supervision of Prof. Nichols.

Wilshire Plan to be Debated Anew Tomorrow

After an all-day session yesterday considering protests against the proposed widening of Wilshire Boulevard between Alvarado and Figueroa streets, the City Council postponed the hearing to tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. At that time opponents of the project are to offer arguments purporting to show why protests which were rejected should have been retained on file.

A semi-judicial atmosphere pervades the hearings, with witnesses being sworn, examined and cross-examined by attorneys representing both sides of the controversy. The principal question at issue seems to be whether a majority of the property owners who are to be assessed to pay for the improvements favor or oppose the widening. Chief Engineer Hoyt testified yesterday that a check of the protests filed indicates only 46.5 per cent of the owners are in opposition to the project.

PAVING ADVANCED

The City Council yesterday ordered the presentation of the final ordinance for the improvement of streets in the Gardner avenue and Silver Lake Boulevard improvement district. The City Engineer reported that the petition asking for the street paving represents 52 per cent of the frontage in the district.

FOUR TENS WIN, YES, INDEED--- LOT OF GRIEF AND JAIL TERM

The difference between four tens and four kings cost Theodore Thomas $100. There is nothing extraordinary about that, of course. But it also cost him three days in jail, which is unusual.

The tale was told in Judge Schauer's court yesterday, where Thomas was trying to explain why he was short $100.

Several days ago he had $100 in the bank and the court had restrained him from drawing it pending trial of the divorce his wife, Ida, has sued for. He admitted the $100 is gone.

"I didn't exactly spend it," he said. "I was sitting in on a little poker game the other night. I drew four tens. You know how it is when you hold four. It looked like a cinch, and I began playing them up. I had all my cash out in front, and I still had a customer. Well, I raised him $100 and shoved in a check for it. He called me and laid down four kings. So you can see how it was."

Judge Schauer was noncommittal on the matter of understanding the situation.

"Well, anyway, you violated the court order and you're in contempt, and it will take three days in jail to purge you," he ruled.

Electric Motors are like hats

A HAT is a combination of inconsequential things—a bit of straw or felt, a few inches of ribbon, an ornament. But a clever hat may be made of these materials by the designer who gets just the right flare to the brim here, the right dent in the crown there, the ornament at the right angle. His skill in balancing materials is what counts.

Building motors is like designing hats in that electrical and mechanical qualities must be balanced. You can vary the proportions any way you wish, and get a different result. There's one right combination for every job. Finding it is a matter of the skill, equipment, resources, and experience of the motor manufacturer.

Westinghouse has all these—especially experience. The life and service which you get from any motor depend on the skill and understanding with which these thirteen qualities have been balanced by the manufacturer:

1. Temperature
2. Torques
3. Efficiency
4. Power Factor (in alternating current motors)
5. Speed Characteristics
6. Insulation
7. Commutation (in direct-current motors)
8. Air Gap
9. Bearings
10. Shaft
11. Steel
12. Assembly
13. Rotating Smoothness

Put one responsibility back of the entire motor application by using Westinghouse control apparatus as well as Westinghouse motors.

OUR HISTORY IN PICTURES 941 The Beginning of Hayes's Administration. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

VOTED INTO THE PRESIDENT'S CHAIR BY AN EXTRA-LEGAL ELECTORAL COMMISSION ONLY TWO DAYS (MARCH 2, 1877) BEFORE HIS INAUGURATION, PRESIDENT HAYES BEGAN HIS TERM OF OFFICE UNDER MANY DISADVANTAGES. HALF THE COUNTRY BELIEVED THAT HAYES HAD BEEN FRAUDULENTLY ELECTED AND THAT THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE, TILDEN, SHOULD BE PRESIDENT.

HAYES WAS NOT POPULAR WITH THE LEADERS OF HIS PARTY. THEY HAD WANTED A "PARTY" MAN WHO WOULD LOOK AFTER THE INTERESTS OF THE "MACHINE" THAT HAD ELECTED HIM, BUT, INSTEAD, HAYES BEGAN HIS ADMINISTRATION WITH THE INTENTION OF REFORMING THE CIVIL SERVICE AND WIPING OUT THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN NORTH AND SOUTH.

HAYES GAVE THE COUNTRY A CLEAN, DIGNIFIED ADMINISTRATION, THOUGH HE WAS HAMPERED IN HIS EFFORTS FOR REFORM BY BOTH THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE. THE HOUSE WAS DEMOCRATIC, WHILE THE REPUBLICANS IN THE SENATE WERE HOSTILE TO THE PRESIDENT FOR HIS CONCILIATORY POLICY TOWARD THE SOUTH.

ONE OF HAYES'S FIRST ACTS WAS TO WITHDRAW THE FEDERAL TROOPS THAT HAD BEEN UPHOLDING THE REPUBLICAN GOVERNMENTS IN SOUTH CAROLINA AND LOUISIANA. THE SOUTHERN DEMOCRATS AT ONCE REGAINED CONTROL OF THESE STATES, TO THE CHAGRIN OF THE NORTHERN RADICAL REPUBLICANS, WHO CENSURED THE PRESIDENT SEVERELY.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the most popular brides-elect of the season is Miss Margaret Burrall, grand-daughter of Mrs. S. W. Goddard and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Burrall (Bessie Lee Goddard) of 999 South Wilton Place, whose betrothal to Thomas Lyons Cook, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cook of 1155 Elden avenue, was announced formally at a beautifully appointed luncheon given by the charming young debutante to thirty-four of her most intimate friends at the Ambassador last Thursday afternoon.

The decorations carried out a most attractive effect with roses and delphinium in a lavender and blue color scheme and the news was told by tiny scrolls wrapped and tied with white ribbons, which were brought in with the parfait in the desert course.

No date is set as yet for the wedding, which, however, probably will be an event of May.

Miss Burrall, who was graduated from Marlborough School, later attended University of California at Los Angeles and is a popular member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, while Mr. Cook is an alumnus of the Agricultural College at Davis, a unit of the University of Southern California and is affiliated with a number of clubs in this city.

Those included were Mrs. Alan William Burton, Mrs. James MacRoberts, Mrs. Richard Stanley McCune, Mrs. Hugh Sutherland, Mrs. Ralph Starkweather, Jr., Mrs. George E. Burrall, Mrs. James Phillips, Mrs. Rae Calendar, Mrs. Bertram Yarnell, Jr., Mrs. Roland Johnston, Miss Peggy Quinlan, Miss Kate Winnett, Miss Kathleen Chaffey, Miss Peggy Morrow, Miss Victoria Reyes Cotton, Miss Adele Brown, Miss Billie Gordon, Miss Betty Howard, Miss Martha Marsh, Miss Jeanette Cook, Miss Ruth Moulton, Miss Marjorie Gilellen, Miss Mary Stimson, Miss Josephine Branham, Miss Helen Lind, Miss Audree Brown, Miss Wanda Yoakum, Miss Jean Cave, Miss Helen Conway, Miss Virginia Crews, Miss Virginia Schafer and Miss Houston Jones.

Series of Luncheons

Among the delightful affairs of the week are the two luncheons with which Mrs. C. W. Gries and her daughter, Mrs. F. M. Dale, entertaining, the affairs taking place yesterday and today at the Jonatha Club, with bridge as the diversion of the afternoon after luncheon.

Mrs. Gries and Mrs. Dale were charming hostesses at a smaller luncheon given last Thursday afternoon at the home of the former's daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Moses Hodge Ross in West Adams street, with whom she makes her home. Covers were arranged for twenty-four guests. The marriage of Miss Evelyn Ross to Charles W. Nibley, Jr., son of Mrs. Charles Nibley of Rimpau Boulevard, will be an event of the early summer although the date has not as yet been settled upon.

The announcement of this betrothal was announced several weeks ago. Miss Ross is an alumna of Marlborough School and later attended University of Southern California and at both of these schools she was one of the most popular students on the campuses.

Mr. Nibley was graduated from the agricultural college of University of Utah and after coming to Southern California took an exhaustive course at University of Southern California here.

Cards of invitation are being issued by the board of directors of the Assistance League of Southern California for the opening of its New Day Nursery at 5610 De Longpre avenue, Hollywood Tuesday the 7th inst., the hours being from 11 in the morning until 5 in the afternoon. The formal dedicatory ceremonies will take place at half past two in the afternoon.

Horse Show Ball

NANCY PAGE

Hooked Rugs Have Early American Origin

By Florence La Ganke

The Nancy Page Club was having its second meeting devoted to Early American life. At the last meeting they had studied the architecture of the first homes. Today two members reported on some of the earliest chairs and floor coverings.

A ladder back chair with a rush bottom seat was mentioned as one of the earliest seats. The rush was gathered in the near-by swamps. The ladder back was a crude affair with high back strengthened by the splats. This same club member spoke of the spinning wheels which soon became an essential part of every home.

A low foot stool with improvised peg legs was found in almost every home. Sometimes a second cushion was fastened to the crudely padded top of the stool itself.

Most front entry ways were decorated with a hooked rug. Some of these were half ovals with a "Welcome" hooked in gay color which stood out on a drab background. Herbs, leaves and seeds were the sources of most of the dye colors. Rag carpets came into vogue a little later. It covered stairways similar to the winding Cape Cod ones.

The club was so interested they almost forgot the refreshments of "Injun meal" pudding and baked apples.

Salads were not known in early American days. But Nancy knows them. Write to her, care of this paper, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, asking for her Salad leaflet.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

Home Offers Opportunities for Quarreling

The harassed mother of two or more children finds very often that instead of playing together like "one happy family" they turn home into a prize fight ring. This is rather natural not only because children enjoy fighting but because of the normal development of the child.

Suppose we have two brothers, one four and the other two. The younger is bound up in himself, he thinks of himself, he babbles about himself, he is thoroughly self-centered.

The older brother is emerging from this stage. He is learning to be social. He is almost ready to go to school where he will sing with children, dance and play games with them, use the same play materials and be unselfish about them. If he sits down to play with baby, his entire selfishness, his desire to grab everything in sight for himself is bound to make older brother angry. Having no very subtle way of expressing himself he very likely will use his own greater strength or he may take a cuff at the baby. Then the fight is on. Baby screams, mother comes running and is simply horrified to find that older brother is so mean and selfish that he would hurt his darling little brother. Mother flying to the defense of her baby puts to route a rather sullen older boy and sends him out of the house with a great sense of injustice. This never ends the trouble no matter how often mother scolds him for his behavior.

Keep children of these divergent ages apart. Don't expect them to play together amiably because the chances are that it will be impossible. Give each his own possessions and make them keep away from each other. In this way only can you be fair to the older and not make a little whiner of the younger.

Five years from now they'll be better companions because they will both have attained to the social plane. If older brother wants to play with the baby he'll try to do it. Perhaps he'll enjoy the responsibility of taking him out riding and pulling him in his cart. This makes him accountable for the baby's safety and he'll like being that. But don't say, "Run and play nicely children," and then be terribly hurt and surprised when the howls begin. Just remember they are at different stages of their development and at this particular stage there is no common meeting ground.

Mayor to Turn on New Wilshire Lighting System

An elaborate celebration will mark the inauguration of the new lighting system on Wilshire Boulevard between Park View and Fairfax avenues, which is planned for Saturday night. Supervised by Gilbert S. Wright, president of the Wilshire District Chamber of Commerce, plans for the ceremonies, in which a mammoth electric switch, said to be the largest ever constructed, will be closed by Mayor Cryer, are rapidly being completed.

The lighting plan, acclaimed the most elaborate and original ever installed anywhere, was designed by J. W. Gosling, chief illuminating engineer for the General Electric Company, and constructed under the supervision of William E. Lauer, City Lighting Engineer.

When the huge switch is thrown Saturday night, Wilshire Boulevard will be lighted almost twice as brightly as Broadway, as the new system provides approximately forty candlepower for each lineal foot of street, while the major downtown artery has only twenty-five candlepower per foot.

Damages Given for Boy Injury

Judgment for $1200 damages was awarded J. T. Martin as guardian of his son, J. T. Martin, Jr., 6 years of age, by Superior Judge Snyder for injuries sustained by the boy on January 22, 1926, in an automobile accident.

B. D. Castanedo and the Jim Black Company, named defendants in the damage action, did not contest the suit, which was for $20,319, and the judgment was ordered in default.

According to witnesses, the boy was on his way home, walking by the side of the road, when a large sedan swerved to the side and struck him, fracturing his skull.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The First Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Unless stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

WHY TEETH DECAY

The causes of tooth decay may be mechanical, chemical nutritional or bacteriological.

The teeth of many children have a poor start in life because the mother, during gestation, does not understand the science of feeding her body properly in order to supply the materials for the growth of the baby's bony structures. If her diet is deficient in calcium and phosphorus the baby's teeth will not develop properly, and when they do burst through the gums they may grow in with faulty positions.

Both the first and second teeth are really formed before the birth of the child but can usually be made to grow better if the baby is fed properly even though the mother's diet during pregnancy is incorrect.

When the child's teeth grow in improperly, and the diet has not been corrected until the child is at the adolescent stage, certain teeth may be affected because they do fit properly with the corresponding teeth on the other jaw. Sometimes one or more teeth will be so out of alignment with the others that they are hardly used at all for chewing, and consequently become weak through a lack of exercise. The teeth which do strike together may be overly irritated through meeting too forcibly, as these few teeth may have to do all the work of mastication. In many cases the orthodontist can correct the trouble by the extraction of one or two teeth or by wiring the teeth to grow in a certain position.

When one eats the ordinary mixed diet, the friction of the food against the teeth is not sufficient to clean off the bacterial molds which forms between meals. To keep the teeth clean from these molds it is necessary to brush the teeth well two or three times daily. It is a good plan to have five or six tooth brushes to use so that there will be time for the brushes to dry out as they are used alternately. Every few days the brushes should be sterilized in boiling water and each dipped for a few seconds in grain alcohol or some other antiseptic.

The teeth should be brushed from all directions, including up and down between the teeth. It is very important to give the gums a good brushing even though they bleed a little at first. After a few days the bleeding will stop if no pyorrhea or trench mouth exists. And good dentifrice may be used to scour and chemically clean the teeth.

The teeth of many people are injured by a poor quality of saliva. It is known that saliva contains ptyalin, which is an alkaline digestive ferment. It may be that other alkalines or bases exist in the saliva of the normal person, but they have not been actually found. Some patients who seem to have a normal ptyalin test to their saliva will still suffer from what appears to be an acid mouth. Eating plenty of green vegetables and whole grains seems to correct this condition, providing the grain foods are used in proper combination with other foods so as not to cause hyperacidity of the stomach.

I had so many requests for a recent article written on the growth of good teeth that it has been reproduced and if you want further information on this subject write to me, care of this newspaper, and ask for that article.

Both the dietitian and the dentist can help the patient to better health through better mouth hygiene.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: A. B. asks: "Will you tell me through your very helpful and interesting column what can be done to check perspiration from the armpits? Are the patent drugs which are advertised safe to use?"

Answer: The best way to stop excessive sweating under the arms is to induce a good sweat all over the body three or four times a week. You can best do this by putting on heavy clothing and taking a long walk. If all of the pores of the skin are active you will not be troubled with an abnormal amount of perspiration under the arms.

Q: Sam S. writes: "Kindly explain the principles of the milk diet and how it cures disease."

A.: The milk diet may be of some benefit in curing disease if the patient is really undernourished, but as most of those who take the milk diet for the cure of disease are really overfed before they start, they do not get from the milk the anticipated benefits. More sickness comes from overeating than from undereating. In some cases the milk diet is beneficial because it is a simple diet, and if only three or four quarts a day are used there is a beneficial effect upon the whole alimentary canal. This is mostly because of the rest from other foods, and from the faulty food combinations which are so commonly used. What to keep in mind is that the body cures itself, and whatever diet is taken, it must be one which will not interfere with this natural cure.

Q.: A. H. asks: "Are sties caused from impure blood or defective eyes and what is the remedy?"

A.: The acidosis which makes sties or boils possible is created through wrong eating habits. The irritating cause may be from rubbing the eyes and infecting the eyelids with a common streptococcus bacterium. Defective vision has its effect in producing sties, mainly because the one who is suffering from eyestrain is liable to rub the eyes more frequently.

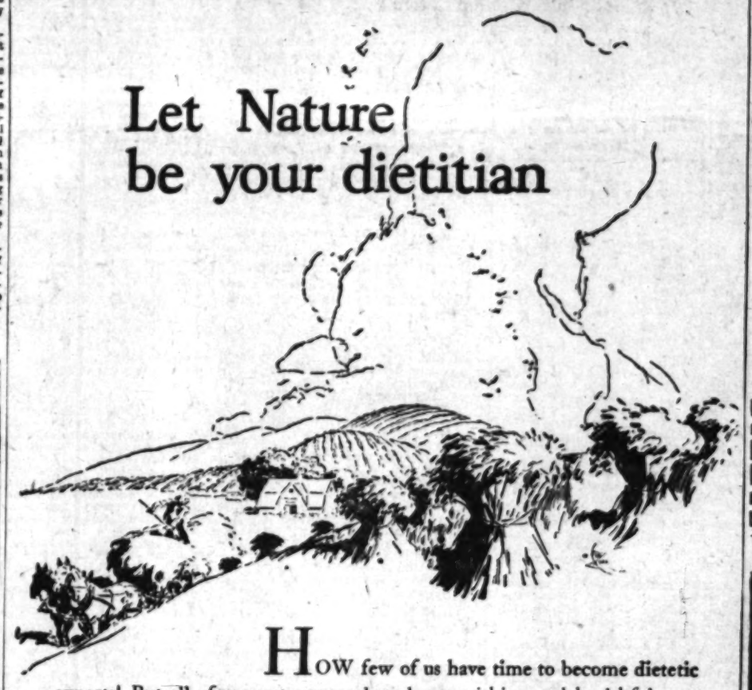
Let Nature be your dietitian



How few of us have time to become dietetic experts! But all of us want our meals to be nourishing and healthful—we want them to furnish all the food elements we need.

Then why not follow Nature's advice? Long before we heard of proteins, carbohydrates, mineral salts, Nature combined them—each in the right proportion—and gave us a perfect food—whole wheat.

Shredded Wheat is all of the wheat—all the food elements for energy and strength—plus all the bran of the whole wheat grain to keep your system healthy and clear. There's nothing added, nothing taken away; it is simply steam-cooked, shredded and toasted to make it more easily digestible.

Shredded Wheat is delicious to eat—try it for breakfast tomorrow. With milk or cream and sugar, or with melted butter and salt, it is delightfully appetizing and refreshing. If you like a hot cereal, just pour on hot milk; there's no other hot breakfast so easy to serve.

No matter which way you prefer Shredded Wheat, it is always nourishing, always satisfying. Just start all your mornings with Shredded Wheat. Or, in the middle of the day, renew your energy with a bowl of Shredded Wheat and milk. Then you'll be giving your body the food it needs, in the way that Nature intended.

Car Solitude

Did you ever enter a street car where each person was sitting alone—if possible? And yet, the one thing most dreaded by the general run of persons is solitude. Place almost anyone—man or woman—in an isolated community, far from the throng, and unbearable loneliness results. Women are especially gregarious, it seems—particularly demand neighbors—and yet how strange that where neighborliness is obligatory, it is resisted. Psychologize this, if you can.

YARDS OF BEADS

The persistence of the long string of pearls, usually of the fine or semi sort, has brought back beads in their glory. Long "chains" of tiny in pearl color, gold metallic, or vivid tint find favor in many forms. Sometimes such necklaces are simply once around the neck, and they are knotted at the throat hang in double or single strands to point well below the waist-line. becoming are these necklaces as may we say—so kindly in hiding defects, that they are destined a lengthened life.

LIGHT WOOLENS

The new light-weight woolens so fine in weave that one must closely study their texture to make certain that they are not of silk. smart sports suits, skirt and long coat, builded upon sport lines, such fabrics are extremely chic. The colors chosen are like the sheen of silk than of woolens known in the past. Nile, rose-beige, blue in the many variations of this cool color, and a shell-pink are favorites in these new, light weight wools.

Simons Corset

A local corsetier exhibits one of the restrictors of the feminine figure fashioned from snake skin. At such is the appearance of the set. That the fabric is really cloth, does not detract from the brilliant effect, nor does it lessen the appearance of the figure fashioner.

Overan by Flowers

Newest evening gowns, shown in leading store on Seventh street, are overran with flowers. Instantly recognizes these floral garniture as those created by the famous Parisian dress, but strange does it seem to see these used on anything else but the lingerie dress through which has gained international notability. gowns bedecked so conspicuously as these charming blossoms are on black lace, chiffon and silk, but also upon the latest lines. Several of these new back dip, which is also gaining prominence for evening wear.

Dune in Angora

Many of the newest hats for spring and summer wear are overwrought with angora embroidery matching the straw of the shape. This embroidery is, as a rule, in conventional design, although occasionally, there is an outstanding flower, done in the same general tone. The effect is pleasing; somewhat like the bloom upon the peach or upon some of our well-known wild flowers.

Black Shoe Enhancement

Many black shoes, pumps and oxfords are shown in spring collections, but almost without exception, they are enhanced by the addition of trimming in contrast both as to color and fabric. While not quite so much reptilian is used as recently, still reptilian colors are employed—grays, browns, tans and metal "skinny" shades.

Pelten Designs

In a shop always in touch with the latest Paris fads, newest shipments of straw are trimmed with designs by the posing of graceful sporting figures cut from felt. Girls at tennis or golf or other active games are especially shown in these characteristic cut-outs.

Press through a potato ricer, sufficient hot baked sweet potatoes to make two cups, place in a saucepan over the fire; add two tablespoonfuls of butter, the beaten yolks of two eggs, pepper and salt to taste, and beat well until the mixture leaves the side of the pan. Cool slightly. Form into cones, roll in fine bread crumbs, dip in beaten egg, roll again in crumbs and fry in hot melted shortening.

BOHEMIAN SALAD

Cover the bottom of a salad bowl with crisp lettuce, arrange over the top alternate slices of hard-boiled egg and boiled beets. Sprinkle with finely chopped onion, cover with French dressing, toss and serve.

FILLET OF SOLE A LA MOUQUIN

Thoroughly wash and pick over four bunches of spinach. Put over the fire with no more water than clings to the leaves, cover and cook for ten minutes, remove from the sauce, drain and chop fine. Have ready thin fillets of fish, cover them with acidulated warm water, a slice of lemon in the water is all that is wanted, and add a slice of onion, a sprig of parsley and a small piece of bay leaf. Simmer for ten minutes and drain. Place the minced spinach in the bottom of a baking dish, arrange the fillets on it, cover with a cream sauce to which a tablespoonful of grated cheese has been added and brown in the oven.

MONTEREY SALAD

Select fine lemons, wipe carefully, cut off the top, scoop out the pulp, remove the tough inner skin and the seeds and to the pulp add one box of boneless sardines finely chopped, one teaspoon of French mustard, two hard-boiled eggs chopped, a few drops of Tobasco sauce and a little mayonaise.

Fill each cup with the mixture, cut a small slice from the bottom of the lemon so that it will stand firmly, serve on lettuce leaves, garnished with chopped hard boiled egg and chopped parsley.

THE BIDDING

South Bids	West Bids	North Bids	East Bids
1 H	2 C	Pass	2 S
3 H	Pass	Pass	4 C
4 H	Pass	Pass	Pas

Final Bid 4 H Played by South

Salient Points of the Bidding

Following South's bid of one Heart, West's bid of two Clubs, and North's pass, East offers an improving bid of two Spades, and, failing any encouragement therefor by West, later on supports his partner's Clubs. South's bid of four Hearts, which concludes the bidding, is clearly an overbid induced by the compensatory presence of 80 honors.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. The first round of Clubs showing the Queen and Deuce missing, West places the Queen positively and the Deuce probably with East to justify his supporting bid, and accordingly leads low to prevent all possibility of the Declarer's establishing a Club trick in Dummy for a possibly needed discard.

Trick 8. West throws South in to escape a damaging lead.

It may be interesting to note that had West made the error of leading the Ace instead of a low card to the second trick, South would have trumped with an honor to assure the nine as an entry in Dummy should West hold the Ace of trumps. With such entry he could lead and establish a Club while still retaining the Ace of Spades, and go game on the hand by discarding a Diamond on the established Club.

SHOPLIFTERS GIVEN JOLT

Two Women Sentenced to 180 Days in Jail as Judge Hears of Previous Trouble

What is expected to prove a deterrent to shoplifters in downtown department stores, was the heavy sentence imposed yesterday by Municipal Judge Rosenkrans on two women arrested on petty theft charges. They were given 180 days each.

The women, Mrs. Lucille Moore, 31 years of age, of 522 West Lexington Drive, Glendale, and Mrs. Margaret McDermott, 40, of 667 East Vernon avenue, both living with sisters, were taken into custody on January 10, last, for the theft of several dresses from the May Company. Miss Florence Scully, an operative of the store, arrested them as they were leaving the building, according to testimony.

Judge Rosenkrans imposed the heavy sentences after Deputy City Prosecutor Ida V. Wells introduced the report of Mrs. Minnie Barton, probation officer, which revealed the women have been arrested on other occasions, Mrs. Moore was held last October for petty theft, but her husband assumed the blame and the woman was freed, Prosecutor Wells said. Since that time the couple became estranged, she stated. Mrs. McDermott thrice was convicted for violation of the Wright Act and also was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon and for petty theft, the report showed.

Department store managers yesterday lauded the action of the magistrate since thousands of dollars worth of merchandise is stolen annually by shoftlifters, some of whom are known to operate in bands.

City Prosecutor Lickley stated that an average of ten complaints is issued daily for these petty theft artists.

LINER ON GLOBE CRUISE IN PORT

Cunarder Caledonia at Dock for Day's Visit

Vessel Arrives With List of 382 Passengers

Eighty-five World Tourists Taken Aboard Here

The Cunard-Anchor liner Caledonia, a new three-stack steamer of 17,000 tons, made her first appearance at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday morning with 382 passengers from New York on a special cruise around the world.

Fog off the heads delayed her two hours, the only incident marring an otherwise ideal voyage. She docked at Berth 60 about 9 a.m., and the passengers were taken in sixty autos for a tour of the city and lunch at the Hotel Biltmore, after which they were left to their own devices.

Eighty-five additional passengers originating in Los Angeles boarded the liner last night and the ship departed at 6 a.m. today for Honolulu and the Orient.

The vessel is commanded by Capt. Alexander Collie, who last year brought the cruise liner California here, and is manned entirely by a Scottish crew of 450. She was built at Glasgow in 1925 at a cost of almost $10,000,000. Her public rooms are furnished in early Italian, Stuart and other period design of extreme elegance, and she is equipped with "iron Mikes" and many ultra-modern safety devices and electrical facilities.

Passengers included the Baroness Weise and Hatvany of Hungary, Mrs. Frank Dek. Huyler and the Misses Jemima and Mildred Huyler of the eastern candy-making family, Robert Kennedy and B. F. McLelland, eastern newspaper man.

The liner is booked to repeat the cruise next winter, and will arrive here January 31, 1929 from New York.

NEW PANAMA LINER CALIFORNIA DUE SOON

Panama Pacific's new $7,000,000 liner California was nearing the Panama Canal yesterday, on her maiden voyage from New York with a capacity list of passengers and is due at Los Angeles at 3 p.m., the 11th inst. Bookings for the eastbound voyage also are said to have been completely taken, and there is a long waiting list now in local offices.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the line's parent body, International Mercantile Marine Company, is aboard, as are many shipbuilding experts, including those of the Newport yard where she was recently built.

Capt. Henry A. T. Candy is commander, John Carstairs, chief engineer; Leo Gallagher, purser, while Lewis Daugherty is chief steward. All are former officers on Panama Pacific ships calling here. The liner carries a crew of 270.

Fog enveloped Long Beach Harbor just as the Shipping Board tanker Meston was entering, causing the vessel to ground yesterday morning south of the west jetty. She got off without assistance an hour later, and divers were sent down to examine the vessel below the water line.

An industrial film picturing Los Angeles Harbor has just been completed for the Harbor Department, whose commissioners yesterday authorized General Manager Cole to expend $1000 in exploiting the film. The port's modern facilities, the fishing and other industries are displayed.

Harbor Commission yesterday appointed a committee to devise a new policy to prevent leasors of city property from subleasing portions of their lease at a higher rate with profit to themselves. Walter Allen, president of the commission, said several concerns are making such a practice, and he suggested future rental agreements provide that the increases shall accrue to the city.

Application of Radiomarine Corporation of America for a site on top of the outer harbor warehouse for a sending and receiving radio station was deferred one week by the Harbor Commission for further investigation. The company must vacate its present location in the Catalina Terminals at Wilmington.

An appeal by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce for the Harbor Department to develop the inner harbor, will be discussed at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce by several civic bodies at 2 p.m. today. Proximity of the inner harbor to Los Angeles proper, is one reason for the proposal by the Wilmington body.

Innovation Planned for Broadcast

Afternoon Music Series Continues

Yale Whitney Joins Staff of Announcers

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Radio fans who have been clamoring for something new, and that includes more than 99 per cent, ought to dial for KHJ's new wave length tonight, 390.8 meters or 750 kilocycles and see what the 8 o'clock hour has to offer.

The bill will need no Barnum publicity to stamp it as something out of the ordinary. The public's reaction should be a fair criterion of its worth.

The hour has been arranged by Robert Wildhack, who will be at the microphone during the broadcast. The feature will be a regular weekly event over the Don Lee station and is to be known as the cartoonist's hour. It will include orchesta and vocal numbers.

"SNEEZES AND SNORES"

I don't know exactly what is going to be on the opening program but it gives ample promise of being something out of the ordinary. Mr. Wildhack is somewhat of an amateur playwright. He has also illustrated and designed for many years and has contributed cover sketches to many of the national periodicals.

His Victor record, with "Sneezes" on one side and "Snores" on the other has taken its place among the most humorous of recordings, and he produced a series of shows for the Society of Illustrators in New York nearly twenty years ago.

RADIO MUSICALE

Miss Ryus brings a wealth of background to this radio series. Once a pupil of the famous Moszkowski, gifted Polish-Silesian pianist and composer, she has concertized both here and abroad with remarkable success.

During the afternoon music-lecture series she introduces the works of Rachmaninoff, Ravel, Cyril Scott, Palmgren, Cadman, MacDowell and many others.

Her brilliant and sympathetic interpretations of music of the masters is apparently filling a useful niche in broadcast programs of Los Angeles.

NEW ANNOUNCER

For two or three weeks radio evening listeners have been hearing a new voice through the KHJ transmitter. It is Yale Whitney.

But behind that statement lies an interesting history. Mr. Whitney who, by the way, entered broadcast activity through his duties as baritone soloist in a church, was formerly manager of WGBU, of Miami, Fla.

During the hurricane the 350-foot towers of the stations were twisted around and bent double under the terrific force of the heavy winds, and the studio roof was blown away. It was never even located afterward although it would have been of little use except as a souvenir of the occasion.

NEW ARRIVAL

The station, which originally cost $75,000 to build and equip, was sold a year later for $2500 cash to WQAM. There was practically nothing left after the storm except some metal and spare parts which were stored.

Since that time Mr. Whitney has lived for several months in Pittsburgh, where he was guest announcer at KDKA several times. He has been in Southern California the past month and almost immediately on his arrival became evening announcer for KHJ where his cheery voice registers especially well.

NEW HOURS AT PASADENA

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—With an enlarged broadcast schedule, KPSN, will give a 4:30 p.m. program daily to consist of phonograph recordings. The station has never been on the air during the afternoons in the past.

FIREMEN VISIT KMIC

INGLEWOOD, Feb 1.—Instead of its customary two hour period of dance music by the local orchestra, KMIC tonight between 10 p.m. and midnight will broadcast a program by the Los Angeles Firemen's Orchestra.

HOLLYWOOD STATION TO MOVE

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—KFWB will observe its fourth radio birthday on March 4, and it is hoped the station will move to its new studio at that time. It was recently granted permission to use 1000 watt power.

SHE'S AVERSE TO SPITTOON ON HER HEAD

But That's No Indication of Dottiness, Says Witness at Will Fight Hearing

If a woman of advanced years declines to wear a hat that looks to her "like a spittoon," she may be a trifle old-fashioned, but it's no evidence that her mind is out of balance, it was contended yesterday before the jury in Judge McComb's court which will pass on the wills of Mrs. Allie Kiefter.

Ordinarily, of course, the taste of an old woman as to her headgear is a matter between herself and her milliner, but it chances that Mrs. Kiefter left $100,000 worth of real estate and a lot of distant relatives when she died, which circumstance has given weight to otherwise inconsequential matters.

For relatives she forgot to mention in her will are fighting to prove that she was a trifle dotty. They brought on evidence that she was "queer" about her clothes, and refused to wear modern garb, particularly chiffon stockings, short skirts and close-fitting hats.

Joseph L. Murphy, one of the "remembered," on the stand yesterday in rebuttal, defended the sanity of his benefactress.

The whole matter is scheduled to be passed on by the jury tomorrow, when it is expected the case will be submitted for a verdict.

Canary's Spirit Tastes Revenge

The spirit of an unfortunate canary bird may get a little satisfaction out of this.

Phillip McCaffrey was ordered yesterday by Judge Schauer to get to work and to pay his wife, Nellie McCaffrey, $14 a week.

Mrs. McCaffrey has a suit for divorce pending, wherein she charges cruelty. She asserts McCaffrey shoved the bird cage into the gas oven and that when she got it out the bird was roasted. They were before Judge Schauer yesterday in alimony proceedings.

AUXILIARY MEETS FRIDAY

The Women's Auxiliary to the Caledonian Club will hold its business meeting Friday at 2 p.m. at the Knights of Pythias Hall, 230 South Spring street. All members are requested to attend.

SWEDISH STAR SIGNS WITH M.-G.-M.

Nils Asther is Released by United Artists for Year; James Cruze Will Make Pictures Independently; De Mille Takes up John Boles's Option

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Nils Asther, Swedish player, will join the ranks of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer actors for the coming year, through an arrangement completed between Irving G. Thalberg and Joseph M. Schenck, by which Asther's contract with United Artists will be taken over for twelve months by the M.-G.-M. organization.

NILS ASTHER

The deal followed Asther's successful work with Lon Chaney in "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," Herbert Brennon's new production. Although but a short time in this country, Asther has already several outstanding successes to his credit including those scored in "Topsy and Eva" with the Duncan sisters and in "Sorrell and Son," both for United Artists.

Born in Sweden, Asther was graduated from the Royal Dramatic School, which also graduated Lars Hanson. He and Hanson are close friends, having played together on the stage. Asther appeared in a number of Swedish pictures before being brought to America by United Artists.

JAMES CRUZE MAKES PICTURES ON HIS OWN

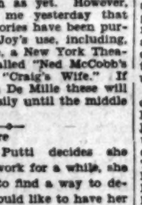
Having left Pathe, James Cruze is about to start out on a career of independent production, releasing quite possibly on a state rights basis, according to announcement made yesterday.

Cruze has a number of important stories which he wishes to film, and he feels that he will have the freedom to produce these stories just as he wishes under the above arrangement.

The director has received a number of offers from various companies, but has decided to remain independent.

John Boles With Leatrice

It is all settled that no less skillful an actor than John Boles will be Leatrice Joys leading man in her next De Mille picture, which Paul Stein is to direct, and which will be called "Man-Made Woman." De Mille has also taken up Boles's option and renewed his contract.



LEATRICE JOY

Whether Miss Joy will leave the De Mille organization at the expiration of her contract in March, or will remain with that organization isn't certain as yet. However, the studio told me yesterday that three excellent stories have been purchased for Miss Joy's use, including, besides the above, a New York Theater Guild play called "Ned McCobb's Daughter," and "Craig's Wife." If she remains with De Mille these will keep her busy easily until the middle of July.

Lya De Putti Here

When Lya De Putti decides she doesn't want to work for a while, she always manages to find a way to defeat those who would like to have her work in their pictures. She has just such an idea now, and so she has returned to the city incognito following a long stay in Europe, during which she made several pictures in Germany. Indeed, I understand she has taken a bungalow and has been here four weeks without anybody finding it out.

Duncans to San Diego

Those lovely young actresses, Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, are bound for San Diego today to fulfill a week's engagement at the Pantages Theater down there.

In the meantime their picture plans are still up in the air, with different companies bidding for the film rights to their "Heavenly Twins," which is to be staged as a musical comedy by Charles Dillingham in New York next fall.

Roscoe Arbuckle to London

Roscoe Arbuckle, according to word just received, is to go at once to London, after finishing his vaudeville dates in this country. He has some music-hall engagements to fulfill there. After that he is to come back to Hollywood and again enter pictures, probably as a director.

Plans for Fod La Rocque

I hear that Rod La Rocque has just flatly refused—so there!—to do any more costume pictures. He doesn't like the funny ruffles on the clothes, and hankers to do only he-man modern stories.

ROD LA ROCQUE

His next for Cecil B. De Mille will be "The Ticket Chopper," in which one senses he will play a railroad man. Also La Rocque got a taste of prize fighting in "Hold 'Em, Yale," which has made him yearn to appear in a prize-fight story. Perhaps this vehicle will offer him a chance for some fisticuffs.

Lasky Switches Directors

He didn't like Richard Dix's story, so they say, and therefore Gregory La Cava and Paramount decided that the best thing for him to do was to direct something else. The result is that the company has assigned Frank Tuttle to the next Dix picture, "Easy Come, Easy Go," while La Cava is to do Esther Ralston's next, not yet titled.

B. P. Schulberg stated that the change in assignments was made to get away from any fixed routine. Tuttle directed Miss Ralston in her last three pictures, while La Cava directed Dix in the star's last four.

Naming Car for Claire

Claire Windsor is having a car named for her. She was going down to see about it yesterday, and said that she did hope it would be called the Claire Windsor, and not merely the Windsor, because then, after all, the car would not really be named for her, but for Windsor Castle or the Windsor tie or something.

Joe Bonome with First National

Joe Bonomo, to whom it is just nothing to tear telephone directories, even Los Angeles telephone directories, in two with his bare hands, has moved over to First National Studios for a few weeks.

and possibly better than any other in the park.

The grand-stand site lies in front of the Coliseum and is prominent in the approach to that structure from the Figueroa-street and main park entrance. Because of this fact, the question of general attractiveness of a conservatory and horticultural exhibit building versus that of a swimming pool becomes a part of the dispute.

Playground Commission, discusses the situation with enthusiasm for the pool project on the grand-stand site.

Van M. Griffith, president of the Park Commission, discusses the situation with equal enthusiasm for the conservatory project, but with insistence that the Park Commission is not desirous of blocking either the Playground Commission's prior claim on the site or its pool project.

BOWEN NOT AVAILABLE

W. M. Bowen, president of the association's directors, is touring the world and is not available for interview, but while he is understood to have expressed himself as favorable to the conservatory on the site as against the pool, he is said to have left word that he will be agreeable to any action of the majority. W. H. Harrison, chairman of the board of managers for the directors, was reserved in a brief interview on the subject.

Harrison was to have made a report on the situation at the December 12, last, meeting of the directors, but so small a number of the eight directors were in attendance that he discussed the subject only informally. It is learned. The subject is scheduled to come up again at the meeting next Monday, at 10 a.m., and a special effort is being made to have at least a quorum of directors present, inasmuch as the whole matter may be definitely settled, not only as to which project shall have the grand-stand site but as to whether any further principal buildings of any kind thereafter will be permitted to be built on the principal park grounds in view of the general desirability of preserving its open spaces.

UNFAVORABLE TO POOL

Harrison's discussion at the last meeting is understood by some in the Playground Department to have been unfavorable to the pool project.

Whether the pool could be built on another site in the park is a question and into this question enters the declaration that if this is done a necessary community children's play space will be sacrificed. The Playground Department avers that originally it had forty acres in the park and that little by little it has been confined by the association to about two acres of ground it actually can use all of the time

Members of the directors' board of managers are Harrison, W. H. Heartwell of Long Beach, and A. T. Richardson of Pomona. They are understood to be looked to by the directors for advice in the matter. The other directors are Dr. George F. Bovard, Standish L. Mitchell and Mr. Bowen of Los Angeles; Frank M. Keffer of Van Nuys and Clark P. Waite of San Pedro.

FIRE OF FLEET SLAMS TARGET

just as immense. Imagine 32,000 tons of steel ship being thrown along at twenty miles an hour, while every few seconds her twelve giant rifles hurl 17,000 pounds of steel at a tiny dot on the horizon—and hit the dot. This is why:

Every effort of her 1400 officers and men, together with the mass of machinery and instruments they manipulate, is working at top speed toward a common goal: Getting out the shots that hit. Un in the fighting tops are men on fire control, singing into phones the changing ranges as the distance narrows.

PRESTO, JUST LIKE THAT

The information, received around the plotting board, deep down in the ship, mixed with speed, deflection, course and a few other factors, goes back aloft to the directorscope operator in such simple form that about all he does is press a button and instantaneously fire all twelve guns. In the engine room, on the bridge, in the conning tower, everywhere aboard every man is working to help deliver the hardest blow in the quickest time. The same unison of efforts holds inside the turrets, where the seventy-ton guns are tossed about—by electricity—as though they were so many slate pencils. Fourteen hundred-pound shells and powder bags rush up from below and are slammed into the guns in the flash of an eye. The ready lights flash on, the ship rolls with the shock of a salvo, the guns recoil and return to position, trained for loading and again they fire—as though the ship had a mind of her own. The spectacular side of this stuff—the thunder and smoke and flame of the salvos, the white geysers of the shells about the targets—has been told many times.

WONDERS NEVER CEASE

But the remarkable thing of all is the co-ordination of effort. Those who tell you about the good old days of the Navy have never seen this thing—32,000 tons of steel, filled with thousands of miles of wire, a world of electric power, steam, mechanisms and the bodies and minds of hundreds of men pulling together as a perfect machine so that the finger of one man every few seconds can deliver, across miles of space, the most destructive force yet devised.

Long-range battle practice was fired this year, for the first time in battle-fleet history, off the Mexican coast, about 100 miles below the American border and fifty miles at sea. Admiral Louis R. De Steiguer brought the fleet down here for superior weather and found it—good visibility and light prevailing winds. All ships have reported satisfactory scores in the difficult practice, on which so much of their annual scores for gunnery competition depends.

The battleship divisions will head northward in the morning and are scheduled to anchor at San Pedro late tomorrow. Next week will be spent in port, undergoing machinery overhaul in preparation for force practice, to be fired during the week of the 13th inst.

PICTURE AIMS AT SMILES AND TEARS

"Sally In Our Alley," New Tower Film, Offers Shirley Mason in Lead

It's a picture for those who enjoy a subtle vein of pathos running through their comedy, for those who relish a smile bordering on a tear, is "Sally In Our Alley," the Columbia production that opened yesterday for a one-week showing at the Tower Theater.

A simple little story, this, of a child of the East Side tenements who, orphaned by her mother's death, was adopted by three old bachelors of Jewish, Scotch and Italian descent, respectively—and yet it touched almost the entire assemblage within the theater yesterday afternoon.

It was Shirley Mason who appeared in the role of Sally, the one bright spot of the New York tenement district, and her characterization was strongly reminiscent of her "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," of several months ago, as, for that matter, was the entire production.

Miss Mason gave a splendid portrayal of the little orphan, one that bespoke her ability and sincerity. A few of her more dramatic scenes suffered because of length. They would have been stronger and equally as effective had they been cut to a third the footage.

Richard Arlen, one of the most prominent of the younger juveniles, appeared to good advantage as the plumber sweetheart of Sally. His opportunities were small, but he made the most of what was offered.

Character honors were divided into three parts, to William H. Strauss, as the Jewish member of the trio, to Paul Panzer as the Italian, and to the ever-popular Alec B. Francis as the Scotchman.

Each of the three was responsible for excellent performances, such as only three experienced troupers could give.

Others in the cast included Kathlyn Williams, Florence Turner and Harry Crocker. Walter Lang directed.

In addition to the screen feature, Vitaphone acts including Stanbury and Cambrelli, New York stars, and Reb Sparks and his Follies Entertainers, were offered.

Wiswell Drama to Move Soon

Louis C. Wiswell, whose production of "Undertow," which is at the Hollywood Play House, announces that this play will be moved from this theater the 26th inst., to open in New York City as contracted for.

Wiswell and his wife, the star and writer, Zelda Sears, are about the busiest couple in theaterdom. Together with A. Leslie Pearce they are rehearsing the Pauline Frederick starring vehicle, "The Scarlet Woman," every morning and afternoon.

Every evening and on Saturday matinee they are busy with "Undertow."

Ace Flyers Are Picture Actors

Capt. Sterling C. Campbell was one of the three outstanding aces of the British during the war; Ted Parsons, of the French; Capt. Karl Von Hartman, of the Germans, and James A. Healy of the Americans.

"Wings" was directed by William A. Wellman, himself a member of the Lafayette Squadron. It was written by John Monk Saunders, an instructor with the United States Air Corps and prepared for the screen by Louis D. Lighton and Hope Loring, the former holding down a like position to Saunders during the conflict.

"Kongo" Given Fiftieth Time

"Kongo," African melodrama now in its second month at the Orange Grove Theater, passed its fiftieth performance mark today, with a record of having piled up, proportionately, a greater attendance at the Orange Grove Theater than in any eastern theater it has played, a report states.

An immediate success, "Kongo" has launched into its second month with indications that it will be in Los Angeles for weeks to come.

MARIAN DOUGLAS FINISHES

Marian Douglas is completing her leading role in "Paloming," with Ken Maynard for Charles R. Rogers Productions. The picture will be a First National release. This is Miss Douglas's fourth feature in three months.

Young, White and Unmarried

"The Triumphant Bachelor"

Portrayed by Kenneth Harlan, doubtless meets a deserving fate and a deserving lady in the comedy opening tonight at the Los Angeles Playhouse. And mayhap the lady is Charlotte Stevens (at right.)

OPERETTA REACHES SCREEN

Music and mirth will be the two prevailing elements at the Metropolitan Theater on its weekly bill which starts today. On the screen the attraction is "Rose-Marie," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adaptation of the musical success. In the cast are Joan Crawford, James Murray, House Peters, Creighton Hale, Lionel Belmore and many more. Lucien Hubbard, a former newspaper man, who has scored many triumphs in Hollywood, produced the picture. Edmund Golding directed.

The story in the screen adaptation follows closely that in the musical show. Rose-Marie, French-Canadian girl, heart-free, is courted by Sergt. Malone of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. She accepts his proposal, and then comes Etienne, of Lyons, French blood, to woo her with soft words.

Next follows the visit to the village of Post Duray of the trappers with their furs. Among them is Jim Kenyon, man of mystery, who makes love to Rose-Marie as a cave man would and wins her heart. Kenyon, suspected of murder, flees to the mountains and Rose-Marie shields him and plans to elope with him. It is at this point in the story that the "Indian Love Call" enters.

The mirthful part of this week's program at the "Met" is "Leave 'Em Laughing," a Hal Roach comedy featuring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

On the stage Panchon and Marco are offering the "Rose-Marie" idea, featuring Al Lyons and his band, Shara Visorka, a singer, and Jimmy Lyons, comedian.

"Dazzling," Say Play's Sponsors

One of the most dazzling events in theatrical circles in Los Angeles will take place when the "Funny Little Thing" by Agnes Christine Johnston has its world premiere at the Morosco Theater Sunday matinee, a theater story avers.

Sun arcs from the M.-G.-M. studio will light the skies above the Eighth and Broadway theater. Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg and other members of the motion-picture industry have worked with the management of the Morosco to make the opening a "gala one," it is said.

Miss Johnston has been a member of the film colony in scenario work for more than thirteen years.

A special musical program has been arranged by Monroe Jockers and his new Morosco orchestra for the opening of the comedy. It will be made up of request numbers from playgoers.

"Funny Little Thing" is being directed by Augustin Glassmire with Gayne Whitman, Kay Hammond and Mitchell Harris in the stellar roles.

Berkova to Play With Orchestra

Frances Berkova, after three years of concertizing abroad and in the East, has returned to Los Angeles and will play with the Philharmonic tonight.

Berkova appears for the first time in Los Angeles, as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, Georg Schneevoigt, conducting, playing the "Conus Concerto," tonight and tomorrow afternoon. She plays her own recital on the 14th inst. under the Behymer management.

Mr. Schneevoigt will conduct Strauss's "Heldenleben" at tonight's concert.

CRIME REASON FOR IT

The appalling wave of adolescent crime and suicide is responsible for the production of "Scarlet Youth," the latest S. S. Millard feature which is now showing at Tally's for men only. Millard produced this picture to show to parents of the nation the pitfalls that beset the young in the larger cities and a convincing indictment is said by critics to be the results.

ROGELL TO VISIT WRIGHT

Albert Rogell has received an invitation to visit Harold Bell Wright, the author of "The Shepherd of the Hills," which Rogell directed for First National. Rogell intends to spend a week-end at the Wright estate in Tucson, Ariz., within the next fortnight.

Brenon Labels "Sorrell" Best

Herbert Brenon's picturization of "Sorrell and Son," the story of father and son devotion based on the novel by Warwick Deeping, is announced as the next attraction soon to be shown for an indefinite engagement at the United Artists Theater following Norma Talmadge in "The Dove."

Brenon, who made "Peter Pan" and "Beau Geste," says that "Sorrell and Son" is his best motion picture. A father himself, Brenon believes the story is that of any father and any son, and that the appeal of the film as entertainment is supplemented by its spiritual effect on men and women who view it.

"Who?" to Run for Two Weeks

Although getting away to a flying start and making a decided hit with Hollywood Music Box audiences, "Who?" the mystery play, is to run for two weeks only, due to the fact that prior bookings will not permit of a longer showing.

A well-selected cast headed by Herbert Heyes and Ruth Saville gives a convincing performance, it is said. Others in the cast are George Cleveland, George Rand, John DeWeese and Howard Macy.

Unless other arrangements can be made "Who?" will close the 11th inst.

Mayor Cryer is Invited to Opera

Extensive preparations are under way at Shrine Civic Auditorium for the celebration this evening of Mayors' Night, which is scheduled to be the biggest event of the many that have been staged since the inauguration of Al Malaikah Temple's light-opera season six weeks ago.

Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles heads the long list of the Southland's mayors who have been invited to witness tonight's performance of "The Prince of Pilsen," as the guests of Al Malaikah Temple.

Original "Girl" Recreates Role

Neville Westman, who recently came to Hollywood from New York, has been engaged by Henry Duffy to play an important role in "Two Girls Wanted," the John Golden hit which had its western premiere at El Capitan Theater last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Westman was a member of the original New York cast of "Two Girls Wanted," and is playing the role she created there. She and Gay Seabrook, who plays the feminine lead, are the "two girls" of the Gladys Unger comedy.

Date of Wampas Dance Changed

Hollywood's socially elite will be present in full strength at the Wampas frolic and ball as a result of the recent action of the board of directors of Mayfair, filmdom's most fashionable social organization.

By unanimous vote, the directors decided to change the date of their next dinner-dance, scheduled for the 25th inst., to the 21st inst., the evening preceding Washington's Birthday. This change was made to avoid conflict with the Wampas fete, scheduled for the 25th at the Ambassador Auditorium.

HAILING HALE

Alan Hale yesterday was hailed as the "comedy white hope" of the new Pathe-De Mille program following the first studio preview of Hale's latest, "Skyscraper," in which he appears with William, Boyd who is starred. Howard Higgin directed "Skyscraper," in which Boyd and Hale are co-laughmakers. "Skyscraper" follows Hale's success in "The Leopard Lady," in which he plays an entirely antipathetic characterization.

Skeptic Asks Al to "Quit His Kidding"

The country visitor at the circus who saw his first giraffe and insisted that "there ain't no sech animal" has a modern counterpart.

He is the man who saw Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" at the Criterion Theater and refused to believe that Jolson is not hidden behind the screen during the Vitaphone sequences in which he sings and talks from the screen. Many letters have been received at the Criterion praising "The Jazz Singer" for bringing Jolson from the stage to the screen, but the oddest is said to be the following, addressed to the star:

"Why don't you just kidding us, Al? You've done it for years on the stage—and that was all right. But I've seen you in person too often to be fooled and when your voice came floating out from the screen in 'The Jazz Singer'—well that was too much!

"Besides, I read in the newspapers that you were in town. Don't think you can hide behind the screen and put it over on me. I expected any minute to see you come out from the wings and take a bow—but when you didn't I was disappointed."

Lubitsch Film Has Elaborate Musical Score

Preparations for an elaborate musical prelude and score were under way at the Million Dollar theater yesterday when it was announced that the lavish Ernst Lubitsch production of "The Student Prince" had been booked for the Third and Broadway house by Harold B. Franklin, president of West Coast Theaters Inc., to follow the current attraction, Emil Jannings in "The Last Command."

The picturization of the play will have its western premiere at the Million Dollar, the 9th inst.

Two Songs Are "Yankee" Hits

The Mayan Theater undoubtedly will house a brilliant first-night audience tomorrow night on the occasion of the premiere of the musical version of Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee." This musical comedy is at present a reigning hit in New York, and is the first of this season's crop to be presented in Los Angeles. Gerhold O. Davis is offering it in association with Lew Fields and Lyle D. Andrews, the New York producers. The music is by Richard Rodgers and contains two song hits, "My Heart Stood Still" and "I Feel at Home With You," which have become as popular as the duo of song hits in "No, No, Nanette." The lyrics are by Lorenz Hart with book by Herbert Fields, son of the producer.

Maurice L. Kusell, who is staging the production and playing the title role, yesterday engaged the Three Troubadours, singers from the Orpheum Circuit. Their names are Lester Reese, Ray Williams and Will Magnitti, and they will sing most of the songs of the show in conjunction with the principals.

Elinor's Score to be Thematic

Both Carli Elinor, musical conductor at the Carthay Circle Theater, and Jack Laughlin, the young stage producer, are promising their greatest achievements in their respective fields for the forthcoming world premiere of John Ford's Fox production, "Four Sons," Tuesday evening.

For weeks now Elinor has had a staff of a half-dozen musical experts under his direction arranging both his overture and musical score for this picture, which he says lends itself perfectly, he announces, to synchronization. In stringing together melodies of Bavaria and the Tyrolean Alps country, Elinor has constructed an overture as a salient feature to prelude the photoplay and has also woven into his score many of these same tunes, giving each character a distinct melody that fits the role he or she is portraying.

Beau Sabreur to Greet Fans

Tonight Los Angeles will be given an opportunity to meet "Beau Sabreur" in person. Gary Cooper, who plays the title role in Paramount's sequel to "Beau Geste" (which has its last showings today at Loew's State) will make a personal appearance with Evelyn Brent, feminine star of the picture, and Arnold Kent, who plays an important role.

Tomorrow will see a new program at Loew's, featuring "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris" on the screen, and Eddie Peabody and his pals on the stage in a new show, "Europe Bound." George Sidney, J. Farrell MacDonald, Kate Price, Vera Gordon, Gertrude Astor and Sue Carol are cast in the new comedy.

'Love' Will Have a Happy Ending

A unique experiment in motion-picture presentation will take place at Grauman's Egyptian Theater for the week starting tomorrow when "Love," starring John Gilbert and Greta Garbo will be shown with an ending totally different from that which was presented in the downtown showing.

"Love" at the Egyptian will have the so-call'ed "happy ending."

DEATH DUE TO RECKLESSNESS

Coroner's Jury Accuses Long Beach Official

Harbor Engineer in Automobile Accident

District Attorney Defers Action Pending Probe

LONG BEACH, Feb. 1.—The recklessness of Maj. R. G. McGlone, Long Beach harbor engineer and former army officer, was responsible for the death here Saturday night of Mrs. Lillian Nishon of Douglas, Ariz., who with her daughter, Isabel Nishon, was run down in the street by McGlone's automobile. The charge of recklessness was made by a Coroner's jury at the inquest held at McFadyen's chapel here this morning.

"Deceased came to her death as the result of crushing of the thorax and fracture of the pelvis, caused by being struck by an automobile driven by Maj. R. G. McGlone, while the deceased was crossing the street between intersections," the jury's verdict read. "We believe the accident was due to the recklessness of Maj. McGlone," the verdict added. It was signed by Edward Bennett as foreman and F. R. Montfort, Deputy Coroner.

No action against Maj. McGlone, now free on his own recognizance after having been booked at police quarters Saturday night on investigation of manslaughter, will be taken by the District Attorney's office until Dep. Dist.-Atty. McCartney has made a personal investigation of the tragedy and has studied the transcript of the Coroner's inquest, Mr. McCartney said today.

"Any action the District Attorney's office will take will follow my own investigation," he said. Police reports, issued on the night of the tragedy, quoted Francis M. Lannon of 9016 Figueroa street, Los Angeles, an eyewitness, as declaring that McGlone was embracing his woman companion in the automobile just before the accident. This was denied by Lannon when he testified at today's inquest.

Lannon declared that Mrs. Lannon, also a witness, had remarked to her husband just before the accident that the woman in the McGlone car was sitting rather close to the driver. Lannon testified that McGlone's car, with McGlone at the wheel, had passed the Lannon car just before the accident, and the McGlone car was going approximately forty-five miles an hour.

In a statement made to police Maj. McGlone admitted having partaken of a quantity of wine not long before the accident. A similar statement, police say, was made by Mrj. McGlone's companion, Miss Threllis Reese, a nurse at a local hospital.

Death Calls Fresno Judge

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—George E. Church, 86 years of age, for eighteen years a Superior judge of Fresno county, and one of the county's most widely known members of the legal profession, died at his home here today as the result of a paralytic stroke yesterday.

In addition to his experience on the local bench, Judge Church presided over a number of important cases in Los Angeles and San Francisco courts, during the period between 1900 and 1918.

Prior to coming to Fresno he was professor of Latin in the University of Nebraska.

The paralytic stroke which caused his death is the third he had experienced recently. He was removed to his home a week ago from a sanatorium where he was receiving treatment, and his wife had been removed to the home from a hospital only a few days previously after undergoing an operation, from which she is reported recovering.

He is survived by three sons by a former marriage, Percy C. Church, Fresno attorney, George E. Church of Sacramento and Walter A. Church of San Jose.

Funeral services will be held Saturday under the direction of the Knights of Pythias, of which he was former Grand Chancellor of California. He was also a member of the Masonic order.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS REACHED DESTINATION

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—A consignment of about twenty-five Christmas bags, containing an assortment of gifts, sent to the Pacific headquarters from the local chapter of the Red Cross for distribution in far-away posts occupied by American soldiers, sailors and marines, safely reached Honolulu.

The local chapter is in receipt of a letter of thanks from Col. F. W. Phisterer, commanding the Coast Artillery in Honolulu. The greater portion of the enlisted men receiving these bags have also responded individually with personal thanks, according to local Red Cross workers.

These bags were prepared under direction of Miss Marion Horrocks, city health nurse, assisted by members of the Visalia Welfare Club and other Visalians.

MONROVIA, Feb. 1.—At a special session of the City Council this morning, formal sale of part of the $295,000 water bond issue, declared valid last week by Appellate Court, was consummated when $195,000 of the issue was sold to R. E. Campbell Co., of Los Angeles.

The Campbell company bid par and accrued interest with a premium of $12,234 on the $175,000 item for general improvement of water mains throughout the city and premium of $950 on the $20,000 issue for purchase of more water-bearing land in the San Gabriel basin.

OFFICIALS ARE HELD TO ANSWER

Councilman and Treasurer of Laguna Beach Placed Under Bond at Santa Ana

SANTA ANA, Feb. 1.—George S. Johnston, 41 years of age, member of the Laguna Beach City Council, and J. B. Neal, 70, the city's treasurer, both formerly connected with a Laguna bank were held to answer at a preliminary hearing this morning by Justice Morrison. Their bond was fixed at $5000 each and the date of the preliminary set for March 1.

The two men are facing six counts charging violations of the State Corporate Securities Act in connection with the sale of stock of the Coast Industries, Inc. They were taken into custody by deputy sheriffs last night and held temporarily in the County Jail. Later they were released under cash bail of $250 each pending their appearance this afternoon.

The criminal actior developed in the midst of a landslide of civil suits that have been filed in Superior Court against the corporation and its officials, who include Johnston and Neal.

F. W. Conkey of Laguna Beach, stockholder in the corporation and plaintiff in one of the five suits against Coast Industries, Inc., signed the criminal complaint. The same complaint includes J. E. Adams, asserted leading promoter of the corporation, who has not been apprehended.

The criminal charges are said to involve issuance of stock amounting to between $40,000 and $50,000. It is claimed that the corporation lacked a permit from the State Corporation Commissioner to issue the stock. The criminal action followed an alleged investigation by a representative of the State Corporation Commissioner.

The civil actions, asking judgment for recovery of stock investments aggregating about $90,000, resulted in the appointment of Norman Robotham of Newport Beach, as receiver.

The fifth action was filed late yesterday by Mayor Thomas Cummings of Laguna Beach, fellow city official of Johnston and Neal.

Murder Suspect Object of Hunt

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—Failing in a search of the county to locate Tony Chiodo, well-known police character, Sheriff Jones today sought the aid of police throughout the State in the search for the Italian, who is suspected as the ambushed slayer of Santo Nasito.

Nasito's body was found late yesterday a few miles from the city after he had told friends he was going out to fight a duel with an unnamed opponent

Heavily armed with a shotgun, six-shooter and two large clasp knives, Nasito's body was found lying face downward with three bullet wounds from a rifle through the head.

Chiodo is believed by the authorities to be the slayer, because of reports that he and Nasito had a few days ago engaged in a row, according to their friends.

According to Sheriff Jones, Nasito apparently had just left his automobile to go to the appointed place for the duel, when he was shot from ambush, as neither of his fire arms had been discharged, and his knives were not unsheathed.

OFFICERS SEEK MAN'S IDENTITY

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 1.—Sheriff's officers were in communication with police authorities in Napa tonight in an effort to identify the body of a man found shot to death near Los Olivos last Saturday afternoon.

Efforts to identify the body through fingerprints and Bertillion measurements so far have been of no avail, Sheriff Ross said, and in the sparsely settled section near where the body was found no person has yet been discovered who could cast any light on the assailant or assailants of the man.

Peace officers of Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo, Lompoc, Santa Ynez and Santa Barbara have viewed the body and are of the unanimous opinion that the man was a stranger to this territory.

The man was probably "given a ride" from the Oakland-Napa section, Undersheriff Jack Ross declared today, and done away with to prevent him from revealing gang secrets.

The man was about 23 years of age, apparently of Italian descent, and of medium build. Two caps, one bearing the stamp of the toggery, St. Helena, Cal., and the other from the Plaza Store, Stockton, in addition to a money bag stamped "The Oakland Bank, Oakland, Cal., C-177," were the only clews to the identity of the slain man.

APPLIES FOR ORDER TO SETTLE ESTATE

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 1.—E. G. Dodge, public administrator for Santa Barbara county, today filed application for appointment as administrator of the estate of Charles H. Ludington, vice-president of the Curtis Publishing Company, who died in Philadelphia recently.

The application was filed by Mr. Dodge after the heirs had agreed upon him for the position and requested him to act. Superior Judge S. E. Crow will act on the application on the 13th inst. The Ludington estate in Montecito, a suburb, is valued at approximately $200,000, according to the petition. The firm of Heaney, Price & Portel will represent Mr. Dodge in the probate proceedings.

COURT ASKS MEMORANDA

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—Judge S. L. Strother of Fresno county, sitting on the Superior bench in Tulare county in the case of the Sequoia National Park Stage Company against the Sequoia and Gen. Grant Parks Company, has asked submission of memoranda concurrently within the next fifteen days. This case involves damages amounting to $15,000 sought by the plaintiffs, as well as a permanent injunction against the defendant company from operating stages outside the parks boundary.

UNUSUAL SUIT FILED

Chino Woman Asks Damages for Injuries Received When Wild Bull Goes on Rampage

CHINO, Feb. 1.—Echoes of a wild bull rampage in this community last August, were heard today when it was learned that Mrs. C. P. Reibold of Chino had filed suit against Adolph Weinberg, Los Angeles cattle buyer and others for $10,700.

Mrs. Reibold narrowly escaped death under the hoofs and goring horns of the bull when he broke away from attendants and spread a reign of terror throughout Chino farming district.

Attendants were attempting to get the bull to enter an automobile trailer. Becoming infuriated at the prodding in his side, and at the ring in his nose, the bull tore loose from the herdsmen, and crashed through a fence to the highway. There it pursued everything that moved. Mrs. Reibold was in her yard unaware of the oncoming animal. The creature leaped the fence to the Reibold yard, knocked the woman down and was trampling her to death when driven off by her husband.

The bull continued his race along the public highways, pursued by armed men in automobiles. Attracted by a small dog the bull took after him and chased the dog into a cornfield. Mystified at disappearance of the dog, the bull stopped a moment and seven shots were necessary to bring him to the ground.

Mrs. Reibold is suing for injuries received, together with the nervous shock. She names Weinberg as one of the owners of the bull.

Ontario Youth Faces Second Criminal Trial

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 1.—Fighting a determined battle to escape San Quentin, F. J. Hudson, Ontario youth today awaited outcome of his second trial in Superior Court, as evidence was nearing completion and the case was made ready for the jury.

Hudson is accused of holding up and robbing Floyd Sabin, Upland service-station operator of $80, last March.

The second trial was put on the calendar when his appeal to the Appellate Court won a reversal from the decision of the Superior Court remanding him to a term in San Quentin.

Sabin occupied the stand most of the time yesterday and repeated his details of the hold-up. According to his story Hudson and Roland Mathis, another local youth, now in San Quentin for the crime, entered his service station, and, covering him with a rifle, ordered him to produce the day's receipts. The two youths were caught by the police through an ink-splashed $1 bill, according to Sabin, who told the jury he remembered seeing the bill over which a bottle of red ink had apparently been tipped.

A letter from Hudson was received by Sabin a few days later in which the peculiarly marked $1 bill was inclosed in payment of a debit. Sabin notified police and Hudson's arrest followed.

Hudson yesterday and today denied that he was in Upland on the night of the robbery. Other witnesses testified similarly.

Mathis, asserted accomplice of Hudson, did not appeal his case and is still at the penitentiary.

Badly Burned in Explosion

HUNTINGTON PARK, Feb. 1.—When Henry T. Richards, 45 years of age, residing at 111 East Fifty-seventh street, stepped out into the kitchen at his home this morning, he failed to detect the odor of gas escaping from a leak in the tube attached to the stove, and struck a match. Instantly there was an explosion. The man's clothing ignited and in a few seconds he was a mass of flames. The force of the explosion threw him to the floor. The burning clothing caused his body to be horribly burned. He was taken to the Huntington Park Hospital, where he is suffering intensely and is in a critical condition.

Richards was picked up by Mrs. Richards, who was in an adjoining room, and was carried to another room, after which the fire department was called. Members of the department extinguished a small blaze in the home, while other firemen took the injured man to the hospital.

ONE CENT TOTAL OF DEAD MAN'S RICHES

PACOIMA, Feb. 1. — One cent was the total amount of the worldly wealth of an unidentified man who sat down and died under an olive tree on a road north of here. The body was found by passers-by and the police notified. The man is about 60 years of age, wore a suit with the Foreman & Clark (Los Angeles) label and had a tattered leaf with a pink flower in the center of the left forearm. The pockets of the clothing were devoid of everything except a Lincoln penny. The body is in the morgue in San Fernando.

OH! FOR THE LIFE OF A POLICEMAN

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 1. — Seventy-two men are seeking jobs on the Alhambra police force. Three appointments are to be made and an eligible list created. The applicants will take an examination conducted by the civil-service trustees Saturday at the high school.

A few weeks ago an examination was held which was taken by eleven applicants. It was then decided to hold a second examination and to rescind the rule requiring all applicants to be residents of the city.

ALARM DEVICE FAILS TO STOP HEN THIEVES

GIRARD, Feb. 1. — A new sort of wire-tapping was resorted to when thieves raided the Brant Rancho on Canoga avenue, near here. Before carrying off ninety-eight Leghorn hens, valued at $160, the robbers discovered they would be unable to work because of a burglar alarm that prevented them from getting the chickens. One of the marauders short-circuited the system that surrounded the poultry pens, and the rest proved easy. The hens were loaded into a waiting auto and probably sold to innocent purchasers in Los Angeles, police assert.

BUILD FIRE BREAKS

ARCADIA, Feb. 1.—As a safeguard during the dry season, two fire breaks are being made on the mountain slopes above Arcadia, under the supervision of Chief of Police A. N. Coberly. Beginning at the Santa Anita Wash on the west, the fire breaks will continue to the east to join those of Monrovia territory, a distance of three-quarters of a mile. The fire breaks are to be thirty and forty feet wide and a half-mile apart.

PRESERVE HISTORIC RELICS

HANFORD, Feb. 1.—Hanford Exchange Club has undertaken a project of placing monuments at all points of historic interest in this county. The club has finished and just opened a museum of more than 3000 Indian and pioneer relics of the San Joaquin Valley which is now open to visitors every afternoon.

Club Comes to Girl's Rescue

ONTARIO, Feb. 1.—How carefully Ontario's health is safeguarded by two city nurses, Miss Bertha Schwarzwalder and Mrs. Amy McNay Boyce, was disclosed today. In the disclosure the Rotary Club's slogan, "Service Above Self," was exemplified and the life of a child was probably saved.

Miss Schwarzwalder learned that a 10-year-old girl in Monte Vista was suffering an aggravated case of rheumatism in one leg and that an out-of-town doctor was unable to find a cure. Miss Schwarzwalder investigated and diagnosed the case as osteomyelitis, an infection of the marrow of the bones. The family was in straitened circumstances, so Dr. C. L. Emmons, city health officer, was notified and the child taken to San Antonio Community Hospital. An X-ray examination disclosed a portion of the bone eaten away by the disease and two quarts of poisonous fluid were drained from the limb.

Ontario Rotary Club arranged to have the girl sent to the Orthopedic Hospital in Los Angeles, where she will receive the best treatment known to science.

It was felt today that with the expert care of the Orthopedic Hospital the girl's life will not be lost to the dread disease.

VALUABLE DIAMOND LOCATED IN PARK

LONG BEACH, Feb. 1.—During the past week several thousand persons have stepped over or walked very close to a diamond ring valued at $2000. It was found today by Detective Sergeants Wright and Dixon. The ring was in Lincoln Park, where it had been thrown by Charles E. Davis, self-confessed burglar, as police were walking him through the park on the way to police headquarters, after placing him under arrest in the amusement zone.

Davis today told police he had ditched the valuable diamond ring in the hope of recovering it in the event he was released from custody later.

The ring is the property of Mrs. A. M. Merritt, Palos Verde Estate, whose house Davis confessed to having burglarized several weeks ago.

The prisoner has confessed to the commission of no less than twenty-three burglaries in Long Beach, in addition to a large number in Redondo, Glendale, and other Southern California towns. Detective Sergeants Wright and Dixon have recovered and restored several thousand dollars' worth of property stolen by Davis to the owners, as a result of Davis's confessions, police say.

CANYON FIRES BANNED TILL IT RAINS AGAIN

CAHUENGA PARK, Feb. 1. — It is now up to campers to pray for rain, for fires in the hill section south of here have been newly barred until some sort of a downpour comes to moisten up the grass and shrubs. The no-fire order has been issued by Capt. Regendorff, head of the mountain patrol, who fears a serious conflagration may occur as a result of the dryness of all foliage on the hillsides and in the canyons. A certain number of homes are in the section south of here. The order also extends to these residents who will be denied the burning of refuse until another heavy rain sets in. Every effort is being made to ward off the usual canyon fires that take place in this part of the Santa Monica hills section at this period of the year.

VAN NUYS SHRINERS ELECT M. A. ROGAN

VAN NUYS, Feb. 1. — M. A. Rogan, prominent merchant here, and active in service club work, has been elected president of the Van Nuys Caravan Club of Shriners, succeeding Walter Mendenhall, who has served since the club was organized. Mendenhall now becomes San Fernando Valley representative for the Potentate of Al Malaikh Temple in Los Angeles. W. G. H. Russell, manager in Van Nuys for the Southern California Gas Company, was elected secretary, and Floyd N. High, assistant manager of the Van Nuys branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, treasurer. The new officers will be installed at a dinner-dance to be given on the 17th inst.

FIRST PAIR OF TWINS

HUNTINGTON PARK, Feb. 1.—The first twins to be reported for 1928 in the Huntington Park district were recorded yesterday from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Franklin Ellis of Liberty Boulevard, South Gate. The twins arrived on January 17, and were named Lucian Franklin Ellis, Jr., and James Harlan Ellis.

CHINESE IS SURE HE IS STILL ALIVE

Brought Before Ventura Court to Testify Tales of Death Were Exaggerated

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—"Then you are not dead?" Attorney Merle Rogers put the question carefully, through an interpreter, to the Chinese who sat in the witness stand in Judge Edward Henderson's Superior courtroom. Soo Hoo Aht, when the meaning of the query had been made clear to him, giggled his delight at the joke.

But funny or not to Soo Hoo Aht, it was serious business to Soo Hoo Peter, plaintiff in a case to determine the ownership of a piece of property in Oxnard's Chinatown. The case came up when a group of Oxnard Chinese appealed to the court and the public administrator to sell a piece of land belonging to one Soo Hoo Aht, alleged to have died, in order to pay his creditors.

The land in question, however, was claimed by Soo Hoo Peter of Los Angeles, who maintained that he had purchased it from Soo Hoo Aht. Furthermore, Soo Hoo Peter claimed that the vender never had died and intimated that his Oxnard countrymen simply wanted to beat him out of the land.

To that end Judge Rogers, to whom he appealed for aid, advised him to produce the missing Soo Hoo Aht and get him to testify as to the sale. It was not an easy thing to do for, as the latter told the court, "He has no residence and since the time of the sale he has lived from San Francisco on down." For a time it looked dark for Soo Hoo Peter and his property. But finally Soo Hoo Aht was found and when produced in court he answered the two pertinent questions satisfactorily for the plaintiff, admitting that he had sold him the property and, further, admitting that he was still alive.

Is Ousted From Medical Society

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—The climax of a controversy which has been waged in Ventura county during the past month over conditions at the County Hospital came last night when Dr. J. E. Whitlow of Fillmore, who recently presented before the Board of Supervisors charges of criminal negligence in treatment of numerous cases at the hospital, was ousted from the Ventura County Medical Society. Dr. Whitlow tendered his resignation to the society when other members threatened to disband the county organization and join organizations in adjoining counties if the Fillmore physician remained in the Ventura county organization.

The campaign started by Dr. Whitlow, however, and the publicity that accrued from it evidently had its effect upon the medical society inasmuch as the organization last night at its meeting here adopted certain recommendations for the improvement of conditions at the hospital, which recommendations are to be presented to the County Board of Supervisors at its next meeting.

Following the announcement of his severed connections with the medical society, Dr. Whitlow promised that he would have further disclosures to make regarding alleged negligent conditions at the hospital.

COMMITTEE TO MEET TO ELECT OFFICERS

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 1.—To elect a general chairman and to effect permanent organization of the Kern county interests of the California Vineyardists' Association, a meeting has been scheduled for Saturday, the 4th inst.

The meeting was called by Alfred Harrell, temporary chairman of the group, which now includes growers interests from every vineyard section of the county with the exception of Arvin. The Arvin group will be completed before the Saturday meeting.

Plans for a great C.V.A. week in Kern county probably will be discussed at the session, following the election of officers. The purpose of the organization is to secure the interest of bankers and business men in solving the grape problems of Kern county and California.

WATER COMPANY HAS BEST BUSINESS MONTH

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 1.—Representing the largest single month's increase since the company has been operating here, the California Water Service Company made thirty-five new service connections in Bakersfield during January, it was announced by S. E. Dillon, local manager of the system. Thirty-two of the January connections were to serve new dwellings, and three were for commercial service.

Indicating a population of 32,872 in the area served by the water company, service connections now aggregate 7100, Mr. Dillon announced. New connections made during 1927 totaled 259.

FIRST SUIT OF SERIES FILED BY COLONISTS

CHICO, Feb. 1. (AP)—The first of a series of prospective suits by Durham land colonists seeking rescission of their contracts with the State Land Settlement Board and State Department of Public Works, was filed in the Butte County Superior Court today. The suit was filed by Attorney J. D. Peters of Chico, representing the colonists. The complaint was filed in behalf of John Wineland, who charges he contracted for land through his confidence in statements made by George C. Kruetzer and Earl Fogarty, representatives of the land board, which, it is charged, "turned out to be false and which were known by Kruetzer and Fogarty to be false when made."

WORKMAN INJURED

AZUSA, Feb. 1.—While working with hydraulic machinery at the Reliance Rock Company, late yesterday afternoon, Pedro Sawhaua, 30-year-old Mexican, received a serious fracture of his left knee when one of the levers became loose, striking a severe blow. Sawhaua was taken to the Monrovia Hospital, where he is recovering.

STORY OF EARLY INDIANS

Director of Museum Tells Pasadena Club of Lives and Customs of Original Settlers

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—The first inhabitants of the American continent—the Indians—migrated from Asia, probably across the Bering Straits, at a time when there was a continuous land connection between North America and Asia, in the opinion of most modern scientists, said Dr. James A. B. Scherer, director of the Southwest Museum of Los Angeles, in addressing the Pasadena Rotary Club today.

"From a state of nomadic savagery the American Indians developed one of the greatest civilizations the world has ever known," Dr. Scherer declared. "They have contributed five-eighths of the agricultural wealth of the modern world. We owe a great deal to them and should learn more about them."

Among the crops which the Indians first grew Dr. Scherer named corn, white potatoes, beans, tomatoes, avocados, capsicum, pumpkins, pineapples, squash, tobacco and others. The Indians grew cotton and wove it, but were not the first race to do so.

The American Southwest is one of the most fertile places in the world for the scientist who is studying past civilizations and the Southwest Museum is conducting explorations at present in several localities, said the speaker.

The greatest Indian civilizations arose in Central and South America, he said. Dr. Scherer declared that the irrigation projects developed in Peru by the Incas centuries ago are astounting to modern engineers, and that the buildings erected by other tribes in Guatemala and Yucatan are comparable with present-day structures in their architectural beauty.

Boy Students to be Taught Biscuit Making

VAN NUYS, Feb. 1.—There is a joke that the modern woman is staying out of the home kitchens so much she is likely to forget how to cook.

The jest is taken seriously at the Van Nuys High School, where it is announced this week that boy students are to be given a course in simple cooking, including the making of a pan of biscuits that will fluff up in lightness something like mother used to make.

The course will be known as the "home activity" course, and boys will be taught to fry steaks, coddle eggs and make coffee. One section of the course will show the boy students how to sew on buttons.

Child Saved From Death

McFARLAND, Feb. 1.—Albert Middleton, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Middleton, yesterday had a narrow escape from what might have been fatal poisoning.

The baby found a bottle of iodine and drank a large dose of it, before his mother, warned by an older child's cries, came to his aid. The Middletons live on the Albert Scheitlin ranch, two miles from town. The father was absent with the car, and the mother sent the 4-year-old son, Delbert, to the ranch of her sister, Mrs. Leonard Schmitz, about a half mile away. In the meantime she administered emetics, which were of no avail. Mrs. Schmitz arrived with the car and they rushed the baby to Dr. Copeland in Delano, who used a stomach pump at once.

The child is now all right, with the exception of iodine burns around the mouth.

POPULAR MATRON DIES AT UPLAND

UPLAND, Feb. 1.—Upland church and social circles were stunned today by the sudden death of Myrtle Manker, 28-year-old wife of Hubert L. Manker, at the Manker home, 595 Laurel avenue. Mrs. Manker died at 8:30 o'clock this morning. She arose at the usual hour and went about her household duties without betraying any indications of illness. Suddenly she fell to the floor and in a few moments expired. Physicians declared death due to a blood clot forming at her heart. Mrs. Manker leaves her husband and an 11-day-old daughter, Shirley, the only child born to couple.

Mrs. Manker was one of the most popular young matrons of Upland and was also active in church work. Funeral services will be tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Draper's Upland chapel, and interment will be in Bellevue Cemetery. Rev. R. C. Stone pastor of the Upland Presbyterian Church, will be minister in charge.

EL CENTRO, Feb. 1.—V. F. Frizzell, district freight and passenger agent for the Southern Pacific Railroad, whose promotion to the office of district freight agent in Los Angeles becomes effective today, was given a farewell luncheon by local business men here at Barbara Worth Hotel at noon.

Speakers commended the railroad man highly for his promotion work in behalf of Imperial Valley during the year and a half he has been stationed here. Frizzell was presented with a gold watch and chain by the Western Fruit Jobbers' Association during their recent visit to the valley, in appreciation for the fine entertainment arranged under his direction.

NOTED PUBLISHER DIES AT PASADENA

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—Benjamin Franklin Lewis, who recently completed fifty years of service as president of the Lewis Publishing Company of Chicago, died early today at the Hotel Green, where he has spent the last seven winters. He was 85 years of age, and had been ill for about six weeks.

He leaves two sons, Benjamin F. Lewis, Jr., who succeeds his father as head of the publishing house, and Kenneth Lewis, and two daughters, Miss Ruth Edna Lewis and Mrs. Edwin Clampett. Mr. Lewis's wife died twenty years ago.

Members of the family started back to Chicago tonight with the body. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at Wilmette, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

Husband Dies; Wife Held for Investigation

EL CENTRO, Feb. 1.—Mack Baker, 35 years of age, died in the hospital here early this morning and his bride of ten days is in the County Jail awaiting the outcome of an investigation to determine the extent of her guilt in connection with her husband's death.

Mrs. Baker admitted that she fired the fatal shot, but says that it was accidental. In a statement at the hospital Baker said his wife threatened to shoot him but he told her she did not have the nerve. He asked the officers not to prosecute her.

Both members of the family admit that they had quarreled over another woman. The shooting occurred on Sunday night. Doctors at the hospital where Baker was taken expressed the belief that he would recover, but his death came after a relapse today.

County Coroner B. H. Lemons stated that no inquest would be held until attaches of the District Attorney's office had completed their investigation.

Court Refuses to Delay Trial

HANFORD, Feb. 1.—A motion by the defense that the murder trial of Perry Allen Coen be continued until Monday because of the absence from court of W. R. McKay, one of the counsel for the defense, who is ill, was denied by Superior Judge K. Van Zante when the case was called today. Coen is charged with killing Mr. and Mrs. G. Mace Artist.

J. C. C. Russell of defense counsel asked that the court appoint an attorney to assist him. His motion was denied.

Deputy sheriff J. E. Sparks was called by the prosecution to identify a coat found in the Artist residence. Sparks related a conversation with Coen in which response to the question: "Is this your coat, Jim?" the defendant's reply had been "yes."

The courtroom was crowded with 100 persons standing around the wall and all seating space taken.

Boost Aviation at New Airport

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—Visalia airport will have a big steel hangar under construction within a short time, and the development program from then on is expected to make excellent progress, as result of a remarkably enthusiastic meeting of directors of the Visalia Chamber of Commerce, which has given special attention to aviation during the past year.

The directors memorialized the board of directors of the Visalia High School to institute an aviation course, securing agreement of Dewitt Montgomery, City School Superintendent, to carry the message with an indorsement to his board. Reports of the aviation committee regarding development and plans for greater progress at the local field received hearty support of the body.

Date for the second annual Visalia air tournament was set for May 6, nearly two months in advance of last year. It is believed weather conditions will be more favorable and the field itself in better condition at that time.

OFFER REWARD FOR ORANGE THIEVES

REDLANDS, Feb. 1.—A hard life is promised for the orange thieves. Today packing-houses again voted a reward of $100 to each person responsible for the arrest and conviction of those guilty of stealing oranges.

And soon after two were arrested charged with stealing seventeen boxes of oranges from the grove of J. A. Pair on East Crafton avenue. The boxes were standing in the grove waiting for the truck to take them to the packing-house. Howard Boles and Dave Stafford were arrested at the county line charged with stealing the fruit and complaints were filed against them in the court of Justice C. O. Potter here. They are being held under $1000 bail.

There have been several cases of theft from the groves in the past week. Roy Shaw reported to the police today that six of his trees were stripped of fruit with a loss to him of about $50.

MIGHT BE CRAZY BUT NOT LIKE FOX

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—Philip Villalovos, 19-year-old Mexican, took a leaf from William Edward Hickman's book today when brought before Justice Elliot Gibbs in a theft charge, but the tactics failed to work.

Villalovos and B. Arrendondo, 23, were accused of stealing articles from Nathan Cohen, junk dealer. They admitted their guilt.

"Don't you boys know it's wrong to steal?" asked the court.

"No, judge," Villalovos explained. "You see, I'm insane."

"Well," replied the court, "sixty days on the county road gang will no doubt restore your mental equilibrium."

EMERGENCY MEASURE

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—An emergency ordinance requiring the vaccination of all dogs in the city is being considered because of the fact that nine cases of rabies in dogs have been discovered by the health department in the last month. Since July 1, last, thirty-seven cases have been found.

JANUARY WAS DRY MONTH

Reports Show All Previous Records Broken

No Harm Anticipated from Arid Spell

Old-Time Weather Reports Recalled

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—January was a peculiar weather record for Ventura. For the first time since the United States Weather Bureau began compiling rainfall records here in 1877 the month of January has passed without a measurable amount of rainfall, incomplete records show today.

There were two Januarys in 1888 and 1889, that came close to the arid record, for in each of those months, only .20 of an inch of rain fell. January, 1888, the year before these two arid periods, told a different story, however, for in that month alone a total of 8.19 inches of rain fell. Despite the fact that this January saw no rainfall, the seasonal rain total to date is .76 of an inch greater than at the same time last season. At the end of January, 1927, 4 inches of rain had fallen this season, while at the end of January, last year, only 6.80 inches of rainfall had been recorded.

An interesting feature of past seasons occurred in 1906-07 when not a drop of rain fell until January, that month, however, there was a total during which a total of 14.01 inches came down.

TULARE COUNTY HAS ONLY .18 OF AN INCH

VISALIA, Feb. 1.—From the standpoint of rainfall, Tulare county has just experienced the driest season since the 1917-18 season, and to have been only two months since in which a lower amount of rain was recorded in the Tulare and Visalia district, according to A. R. Wilson, secretary of the Tulare County Board of Trade. Official rainfall records for January, 1926, was only .18 of an inch, while in 1908 it was but .12 of an inch and Tulare's column was blank. In the year 1917-18, 1.76 inches registered but .12 of an inch and Tulare but .14.

During the last fifty-two years thirty-one January's have been recorded with 1 inch or more of rainfall. Precipitation to date in the district is 4.17 inches.

In cases where light rain came in January, heavy rainfall has been recorded in February. During the season 1909-09 a total of 6.87 inches of rain fell in Visalia district and 5.24 in Tulare, while heaviest rainfall was in 1905-04 when 13.37 inches of rain fell in Visalia district.

BAKERSFIELD AHEAD OF THIS TIME LAST YEAR

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 1.—All of Kern county experienced an unusually dry January, rainfall here to date this season exceeds the total for the same time last year by .16 of an inch, according to records of the Kern County Land Company. The seasonal total to date is 3.99 inches, compared with 3.83 inches this date last year.

Only two rains visited the district in January this year, one yielding .27 of an inch on January 8 and the other yielding .03 of an inch on January 22, in Bakersfield.

Last year .71 of an inch of rain fell here in January, during which storms were recorded on January 6, 8, 21, 22, 25 and 26.

NO RAINFALL RECORDED IN SANTA BARBARA COUNTY

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 1.—For the first time since a United States weather observer was stationed here in 1868, sixty years ago, the month of January has passed without rainfall here.

The closest approach to this dry condition was in January of 1914, when only [illegible] inch fell here.

Ranchers and cattlemen have no fears for their crops and pastures in spite of the lack of rain this month.

In addition to the dry spell, the temperature recorded here twice dropped to 28 deg. for five consecutive days from January 8 to 12, inclusive, the coldest reveal, reaching a high mark of 70 deg. on January 12. The lowest temperature recorded was 31 degrees on January 18. Otherwise, the thermometer was well above freezing for the month.

The closest approach to rain for the last month was three gentle sprinkles forecasts and one fog.

Valley Reports Raids on Booze

VAN NUYS, Feb. 1.—A report made public by police of the San Fernando Valley division shows that the antiliquor squad last year arrested 1[illegible] persons for violations and seized twenty stills being used for the illegal manufacture of whisky. More than 5,000 gallons of liquor were confiscated or destroyed by the squad.

The most active work of the year took place in the last six months of 1927, the report shows, 166 persons having been arrested and [illegible] stills raided. Certain methods in accord with the Volstead Act dictate that much liquor is consumed during the making in the valley and the police at various times "wink" at operations.

All police deny this strenuously, asserting they have strict orders to break every still when located, and that most of the success of their drives comes from tips given to them by private citizens. A number of arrests also have followed as a result of police officers scenting the odor of boiling mash in the air as they motor over the wide stretches of the valley area.

SETTLE ABANDONMENT CASE

HANFORD, Feb. 1.—The [illegible] closed baby case came to a [illegible] session this morning. Mrs. [illegible] ser of Taft and her husband, a couple, were both released by the father on rigid terms of [illegible] he having pleaded guilty to abandonment. The couple agreed to relinquish all claim [illegible] 4-months-old baby to Mr. and W. A. Ledbetter of this city, who [illegible] to adopt it. WOMAN FIGHTS RICH MAN'S SUIT

Asserted Life and Death Pact Advanced

Ex-Secretary Asserts He Pledged Support

Plans to Demand $273,000 to Square Account

Asking judgment for a total of $273,000 on an asserted agreement that Col. E. S. Wheeler, aged millionaire of Nevada, was to provide for her during the remainder of her life and to leave her his wealth at his death, Mrs. Isobel Klein, 720 North Foothill Boulevard, Beverly Hills, today will air her troubles before Superior Judge Fredericksson.

Mrs. Klein revealed the asserted agreement with the elderly millionaire in her cross-complaint to a suit brought by Col. Wheeler for collection of $25,000 on two notes.

SHE'S FORMER LAWYER

The case came up yesterday, but was continued because of a crowded calendar, Attorney George Acred appearing for Mrs. Klein, who is an attractive woman of about 35 years of age, and a former lawyer in Washington, D. C.

She declares in her answer to Col. Wheeler's suit, that while living in Washington in 1920 with her two children and practicing law, Col. Wheeler came to her and asked that she become his secretary for the rest of her life.

According to the purported agreement, she asserts, he was to do as follows:

He was to regard her as his niece, support her and her children for life, give them the best automobiles money could buy, and to provide the best for them in the way of living arrangements.

He was to educate her children in the best schools.

He was to buy her a beautiful home.

He was to put enough money in trust for her so that she would receive $200 a month for the rest of her life.

He was to give her $100,000 of stock in the Nevada Water Company, of which he was a large shareholder.

At his death he was to leave all his wealth to her.

ONE QUART DAILY

Mrs. Klein, in her cross-complaint and answer, avers that she has a signed agreement to the foregoing. She sets forth that she carried out her agreement for seven years, also that she nursed him, cared for him, attending to his diet, that he drank a quart of whisky daily and that he abused and beat her.

She avers the notes she gave him for $25,000, and on which he seeks to recover, cover money for household expenses, that he asked her for the notes so that he could include them in his income-tax returns. She sets forth that in 1924 she met an army officer whom she married with the consent of Col. Wheeler, but that afterward he caused a separation between her and her husband.

She returned to her duties with him, according to her cross-complaint, and he made a will in her favor in 1925, she avers, and bought the home where she now lives. The home cost $67,400, but he paid only $20,000 on it, she states. He paid part of the cost of two automobiles, she asserts and in August, 1928, he disappeared.

She asks for $48,000 due on the house, $2282 due on two automobiles and $100,000 which she declares he promised her in Nevada Water Company stock. She also asks for money to educate her children as she claims he promised and the remainder of the total is for her services while with him for seven years at the rate of $250 a week.

Mrs. Klein also avers that she is still willing to go through with the asserted agreement made between them in Washington, D. C., seven years ago.

TESTIMONY IN KERRICK TRIAL ENDS

Jury Expected to Get Case Today in Murder of Film Cowboy

The case of Mrs. Sarah Kerrick, on trial for the second time on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the gin party shooting of her husband, Tom Kerrick, motion-picture cowboy, is scheduled to go to the jury today in Judge Fricke's department of Superior Court.

Both prosecution and defense closed their testimony yesterday and arguments to the jury got under way. Taking of testimony was concluded with the court adjourning to the Kerrick apartment in Hollywood, the scene of the shooting of the film cowpuncher.

The jury, accompanied by Judge Fricke, counsel and court attaches, viewed the Kerrick apartment in detail.

Mrs. Kerrick is the only one of the original five defendants in the case still to be on trial. Henry Isabel, Joe Hunt, Iris Burns, Anita Davis and Mrs. Kerrick, all of whom attended the party that ended in Kerrick's death, were convicted of manslaughter at the first trial of the case before Judge Hardy, but the conviction was reversed on appeal and subsequently all of the defendants but Mrs. Kerrick were cleared of the charge.

Mrs. Kerrick is being represented by Attorneys Wellburn Mayock and C. M. Booth, while Dep. Dist.-Atty. Richardson is prosecuting the case.

Twaits, representing the general contractors; Melville Dozier, the American Society of Civil Engineers, and David Witmer, the American Institute of Architects, and three men from San Francisco, John B. Leonard, representing the American Society of Civil Engineers; E. T. Thurston, the general contractors, and Fred J. Meyer, the American Institute of Architects.

The new group will be known as the Executive Building Code Committee and will work under the direct supervision of the chairman of the Disaster Insurance Committee. The chairman of the new committee will be elected at a meeting in Santa Barbara the 11th inst.

The chief aim of the California Development Association, Mr. Bent pointed out, is to present to the State a building code that will put an end to faulty building construction, and put California to the forefront in the type of structures erected.

DEVELOPERS TO DISCUSS BUSINESS PROBLEMS

Industrial, agricultural and business conditions in the eight southern counties of Southern California will be discussed at a meeting of the Southern California regional advisory council of the California Development Association at the San Diego Hotel, San Diego, the 10th inst.

Leaders from a majority of the cities of the Southland will be present. One of the outstanding problems to be taken up will be the Box bill, now before Congress, which aims to place Mexican and Central American immigration to this country on a quota basis. Should the measure pass it will affect seriously the agricultural industry, and the railroads depending on Mexican labor, it is declared.

Los Angeles county will be represented by F. H. Ashbury, Allen Davis, Herbert P. Clark and H. D. Mackinnon of Los Angeles; H. S. Bissell, La Crescenta; Paul H. Gray, Covina; P. E. Hatch, Long Beach; Carl Hyde and Rufus Page, Torrance; D. E. McDaneld, Pasadena; Frank D. Parent, Inglewood; J. P. Puckett, Wilmington and Wallace S. Woodworth, Pasadena.

SUSPECTED POSTOFFICE THIEF HELD

Ex-Convict Taken Here Believed to be Head of Large Burglary Ring

Charged with being the leader of a gang of postoffice burglars John P. McVickers, 31 years of age, and an ex-convict, was arrested here yesterday by Postal Inspectors Lowe and Kline and Detective Lieutenants Lloyd and Hamren.

The arresting officers assert that McVickers headed a band of crooks who several months ago robbed several suburban postoffices in the State of Washington, and who since that time have passed scores of forged money orders amounting to thousands of dollars.

Two weeks ago McVickers's wife and two men were taken into custody in Sacramento as members of the band and are being held for passing some of the forged money orders in San Francisco.

Following his arrest McVickers was arraigned before United States Commissioner Head and his bond set at $7500. He will be removed to San Francisco for trial.

Federal investigators assert McVickers already has served terms in Leavenworth and other penitentiaries.

WASHINGTON LAYS BURGLARY TO PRISONER

PORTLAND (Or.), Feb. 1. (AP)—John McVickers, held by Los Angeles police for questioning in connection with a postoffice theft ring, is believed by C. B. Welters, postoffice inspector for the Portland area, to have been a member of a gang that broke into the postoffice at Burien, Wash., where a quantity of postal money-order blanks were stolen.

Many of these blanks were forged and cashed in Portland, Welters declared, and others made their appearance in San Francisco and other coast cities.

DELINQUENCY ON INCREASE

Juvenile Court Report for Month Discloses All Filing and Commitment Records Shattered

A pronounced increase in juvenile delinquency in Los Angeles county is indicated in a report compiled yesterday by Cora D. Minear, calendar clerk for the Juvenile Court.

According to the report, all previous filing records for the court were broken during January, when a total of 638 cases were filed in the office of the court. More than 500 of this number were new cases—that is, cases involving principals who had not been previously before the court.

All records for commitments to juvenile reform institutions also were shattered during the month, Judge Scott committing forty-seven to the Preston and Whittier State schools and the Ventura School for Girls.

A third record for the court was established yesterday when fifty-three new cases were listed on the day's calendar for hearing before Judge Scott.

INSTITUTIONS CROWDED

That a deplorable condition exists in the State's facilities for dealing with juvenile delinquents is the opinion of many juvenile department officials, who point out that approximately fifty boys sentenced to State schools during the past several weeks now are being held in the County Jail awaiting vacancies in the State schools. Some of the juvenile institutions are said to be crowded to such an extent that new offenders cannot be admitted until old ones are released.

Housing conditions in the County Jail also are said to have reached the peak with the result that several of the prisoners are reported to be compelled to sleep on the floor.

This congestion exists, it is pointed out, in spite of the fact that the Juvenile Court policy usually entitles first offenders to a "second chance," unless the offense is of a most flagrant nature.

SCANT HOPE FOR RELIEF

Little relief can be expected from the conditions existing at present, according to the officials, until the State Legislature provides funds for new juvenile institutions or additions.

Many of those connected with the court are understood to be opposed to the holding of delinquents in jail. However, it is pointed out, there is no other alternative until additional facilities are provided.

Lax home life and unfavorable environment are found to be the major causes of juvenile delinquency, according to a study of local court records.

MALONE ON VISIT AIDS SMITH BOOM

Former New York Port's Collector Says Prohibition Should be Real Issue

Legal matters and an urge to get the prohibition issue into politics, have brought Dudley Field Malone, New York attorney, once Collector of the Port of New York, and an Assistant Secretary of State during the Wilson administration, to Los Angeles.

DUDLEY FIELD MALONE

Yesterday, at the Biltmore, he said he wants to see the political parties face the prohibition issue at the coming election.

"It is the only really live issue the political parties have," asserted Mr. Malone. "There is no need of side-stepping it, they must face it sooner or later.

Mr. Malone won considerable fame in the suffrage fight, defended Scope with Clarence Darrow in the anti-evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., and more recently came into prominence in the sports world by backing Gertrude Ederle in her channel swim. Politically, he professes independence of all parties.

Speaking of party candidates he said that it was his opinion that Al Smith is the only man in the Democratic party that has a ghost of a chance of winning. He expressed frank admiration for the Governor of New York, and declared he is the ablest executive the State ever had. Vice-President Dawes and Secretary of Commerce Hoover are regarded by Mr. Malone as having the best chances for nomination, with Gov. Lowden third. Lowden has little support in the financial centers, while Dawes has a large following there, he said. Lowden is too liberal in his views on legislation favoring the farmer to please the East, Malone asserted.

Two Released in Rum-Running Plot Charges

Marvin Schuweiler and Capt. Larry Talbot were released yesterday by United States District Judge James after the charges against them of having conspired to violate the National Tariff Act by smuggling in alcohol from Mexico were heard.

The case against Schuweiler was not allowed to go to the jury, but was dismissed when it was discovered the government had asserted acts between August 1, 1926, and October 26, 1926, but not thereafter. Evidence relating to subsequent acts was not allowed and the court dismissed the charge against Schuweiler.

It was charged that the two men brought about 2500 cases of alcohol from Topolobampo, Mex., on the schooner Hakdata, which was the ship Jack London used for the setting of his famous story, "The Sea Wolf."

Capt. Talbot went to trial and a jury yesterday afternoon found him not guilty.

CANADIANS TO PLAY HOSTS

The Canadian Society of Southern California will have as honored guests other British and American friends at the reception and dance tomorrow evening in the Masonic ballroom, Pico street and New Hampshire avenue. There will be a leap year and other old-fashioned dances. Music will be supplied by Harry Lindsay's Canadian orchestra.

"SEE OUR JAIL" BID ACCEPTED

County Bastile, Calculated to Serve Posterity, Already Overcrowded

The Los Angeles County Jail, completed less than two years ago and declared by the Board of Supervisors at that time to be of ample capacity for "many years to come," was overcrowded last night, the second time within the past few weeks.

Reports of Jailer Dewar showed there were 1546 prisoners in the jail, whereas the rated capacity is 1426. Recently following a campaign by municipal judges of sending speeders to jail, there were seventy more prisoners in the jail than the capacity for which it was calculated.

OLD IDEA IN EDUCATION CRITICISED

Dr. Woellner Asserts Man Intelligent Only Who Can Rise Above Environment

Dr. F. P. Woellner, associate professor of education at the University of California at Los Angeles, in an address at the City Club yesterday criticised the type of educator who contends that the criterion of intelligence is the adaptation of the individual to environment.

"Real intelligence must be gauged by the ability and willingness of the individual to adjust the phenomenal world to himself," said Dr. Woellner. "If Goethals had been satisfied to 'adapt himself to conditions,' we would have no Panama Canal. If Edison had the 'adaptation' method, we would have no electric lights.

"Intelligence is more than wit, more than brilliance, and it is not to be developed by sitting under a teacher of facts and cramming the brain with 'knowledge' which may be superstition or theory tomorrow," said the speaker. "Intelligence is developed by voluntarily suspending one's response to stimuli, mentally rehearsing tentative ideas and their possible results, giving proper time and place to creative thought and molding or transcending original ideas caused by impressions. The most intelligent man is he who allows the longest time to elapse between that which stimulates thought and emotion and his response to impressions thus received."

TINY PLANE FIELD TO BE DEDICATED

Program on Saturday Will Launch Junior Airport at Municipal Playground

With Army, Navy, National Guard and air-mail officers and flyers participating and city officials as spectators, the first junior airport in the United States will be dedicated at Hawley Municipal Playground on Saturday, with miniature airplane competitive flights in the morning and early afternoon, and formal ceremonies at 3 o'clock.

During the afternoon the air will be filled with a squadron of planes in charge of Lieut. W. P. Williams of the California National Guard Aviation Corps. Louis Orsatti, a small-plane expert and enthusiast, has arranged the dedication flights, which are under sanction of the Airplane Model League of America, of which the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department is sole representative for Southern California.

Superintendent of Playgrounds George Hjelte will be chairman of the ceremonies and will introduce the visitors, among whom will be Mrs. John T. French, City Mother, who has donated a perpetual trophy for the boy contestants; Dr. A. A. Merrill, California Institute of Technology and western representative of the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation for the Promotion of Aeronautics; Maj. Cabel Carrington, chairman of the aviation committee of the American Legion; Lieut. Burgess, commandant of Clover Field; Dr. Ford Carpenter, and others. Awards for the preceding competitions will be made. Music will be furnished by the Playground Boys' Band.

At the morning and mid-day flights, Dr. Merrill will act as judge. Timers will be Lieut. Burgess and Lieut. Frank Miller. Louis Orsatti will act as starter, with Albert Webb as his assistant, while George Edmon will be field clerk.

The municipal playground department has been deluged with letters and telegrams conveying congratulations on the founding of the first airport of its kind in the world.

Clinic Lecturer Visits Kin Here

Dr. Isador Stern, on the surgical staff of Cranley Hospital, New York City, and who last summer delivered a series of lectures at Heidelberg University, Germany, is visiting Los Angeles and is a guest of the Hollywood Plaza Hotel.

The visit of Dr. Stern to the German university was one of the first of an exchange of physicians known as an international clinic, established about a year ago, a medium through which information on newest discoveries or developments in medical and surgical science is made available to all members of the profession. The College of Surgeons and the Medical Association headquarters in Chicago provide the American medium of exchange for the clinic, according to Dr. Stern.

A series of sightseeing trips has been arranged for the next ten days for the visitor by his cousin, M. I. Ellenson of Los Angeles, and his brother, H. J. Stern of Hollywood.

MME. BERGERON DISCOVERS NEW BEAUTY AID

"No woman need lose her youthful beauty," says Mme. Bergeron, world renowned Beauty Specialist. Although beauty and charm fundamentally depend upon right thinking, right living and common-sense care of the body, science, too, is constantly contributing toward the preservation of youth. Only very recently Mme. Bergeron made a profoundly interesting discovery which promises America a very great deal toward keeping the skin young, healthy and fresh in appearance.

"If one searches sincerely and diligently enough for better methods of making one's self happier and more beautiful," says Mme. Bergeron, "they are sure to find them." Her own earnest quest for a finer ingredient for her "Key to Beauty" Preparations has been very richly rewarded.

She has found a new oil which excels anything previously known for its rejuvenating properties. This new oil is the basis of her Organic Gland Cream, now being marketed through the leading Department Stores in Los Angeles.

"This is the most marvelous Cream one could imagine," says one of Mme. Bergeron's patrons. "It actually smoothed out the fine wrinkles in my face and removed the dry crepey appearance of my skin with only a few weeks' treatment." "I can really feel its life-giving elixir at work nourishing my facial tissues and quietly resting the nerves of my face and neck," says another enthusiastic "Key to Beauty" user.

This new cosmetic is indeed a rare discovery. It prolongs the elasticity and healthy youth of one's entire epidermis construction. It has been called Organic Gland Cream because of its direct action upon the glandular regions. It nourishes the tissues of the face, neck and throat through deep penetration into the thyroid glands, as well as strengthening and tightening the outer tissues and surface skin. Mme. Bergeron now uses this New Cream for her famous Nerve Toning Facials given at her Studio, 1221 Hoag Building, Los Angeles. Telephone VAndike 6916.—[Advertisement.

KING OF BIRDS GOES TO JAIL

University Station Captures Mascot

Eagle and Officer T. R. Walsh

WHEN Officers Marshall and Sieger of University Police Division were sent out on a call they didn't know it was to be a hunting expedition. It turned out that way, however, and now the University cops have a new mascot in the form of a young but voracious golden eagle.

The bird was perched on a fence in the rear of 4412 Eleventh avenue and it required the combined ingenuity and agility of both cops to effect its capture. This was accomplished by a deft bit of lariat-tossing, coupled with some fast footwork. The feathered prisoner was taken to the station, where a berth was provided. It has a wing-spread of approximately four feet and is believed to be about four months old.

"...reus, as yet," he said, "but our office is prepared to exercise every power at its disposal to force it out into the open. We will not permit organized crime to seep out into the county. This case has been thrust upon us by city criminals and they must suffer the consequences if the investigation injures them."

As this new development loomed, officers under Capt. Bright of the Sheriff's homicide investigation detail continued their investigation into Lafferty's death. At present the investigators are checking Lafferty's connection with Mrs. Ollie Lowe and Evan Elkes, defendants in court on a robbery charge. Lafferty was considered one of the State's star witnesses in the case.

MURDER ESTATES IN COURT

It was murder day yesterday in Judge Desmond's Probate Court. In quick succession there were presented before the court for attention the estates of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, victim of the "sack murder," and Don Solovich, butler, actor and dancer, who was slain in the "desert murder" several weeks ago.

Letters of administration in the estate of Mrs. Appleby were issued to the Security Trust and Savings Bank and Marie West, a sister, on the application of Attorney D. J. Coyne. Judge Desmond was informed that there is a will, leaving her estate to Dr. Charles McMillan, who is in jail awaiting trial on a charge of killing Mrs. Appleby. This will is held by the Sheriff in connection with the criminal proceedings. It was testified, however, that it is a forgery.

The estate is estimated to be worth only $37,000 instead of several hundred thousand, as has been reported.

Creditors of Solovich instituted the proceedings in his estate, with a petition that letters testamentary be issued. Attorney John T. Curtin, appearing in the role of "friend of the court," volunteered the information that shortly before Solovich's death he drew a will for him and that this document was placed in a safe-deposit box somewhere in the city. With it went $31,000 in currency, Curtin said he was informed.

To give opportunity for a further search for the will and cash, hearing in the proceedings was continued two weeks.

CITY NOTIFIED OF SEWAGE NUISANCE

The California State Board of Health yesterday notified the Los Angeles City Council of complaints that the burial of sewage screenings at the city's sewage disposal plant at Hyperion is causing a nuisance.

Lane Selected by Commercial Club as Leader

W. G. Lane, president of the Lane Mortgage Company, yesterday was elected president of the Commercial Club of Southern California at the first meeting of the recently elected board of directors. Other officers elected are: A. G. Walker, first vice-president; Sim W. Crabill, second vice-president; Thomas Haverty, treasurer; Harry D. Clark, secretary, and manager, and Miss Ruth Rarity, assistant secretary.

It was announced at yesterday's meeting that the Commercial Club, a new city organization of business men, is entering on its second year of activity with a membership of several thousand.

LIGHTING ACTION DELAYED

The matter of installing ornamental lighting posts on Temple street from Benton Way to Robinson street yesterday was postponed by the City Council until December 28 of next year. Councilman Foster asked for the delay as he said the lights should not be installed until the other improvements there have been agreed upon and completed.
